OTTAWA (CP) — New government hiring procedures have resulted in increasing patronage in the appointment of federal employees, the president of the 140,000-member Public Service Alliance of Canada said Tuesday.

Appearing before the Commons miscellaneous estimates committee, Claude Edwards said some departmental managers "are not hiring on the basis that the best candidate gets the job."

He told the committee of one instance in which a female employee was hired for five months as a casual worker, then selected over more-experienced, better-qualified candidates in a competition for a full-time position.

The manager of the small-town government office, he said, had advertised the competition for only one day and had personally prepared the competition test.

"If you'll excuse me, I think there's something fishy in that," Edwards told committee members.

Edwards said the incident is one of several the alliance has brought to the attention of the Public Service Commission, charged with ensuring that merit is the sole basis on which federal employees are hired and promoted.

He said abuses appear to have crept into the hiring system since the commission

'Carpet of Bodies' Laid by Protesters

WASHINGTON (AP) — Police arrested about 200 anti-war activists today after they blocked the main entrance of the U.S. Selective Service System's headquarters building.

The youths, protesting at the building for the second straight day, formed what they called "a carpet of bodies" in front of the main doors.

Employees arriving early were told by the protesters they could enter the building but only if they walked over the demonstrators, lying face down as symbols of those killed in the Vietnam war.

The demonstrations, organized by the People's Coalition for Peace and Justice, are part of a spring campaign to persuade Congress and the Nixon administration to end the war in Vietnam.

Meanwhile the heads of 27 religious bodies with a membership of more than 86 million Americans Tuesday issued an unprecedented "call to repentance and renewal" over the war in Indochina.

Catholic, Protestant, Jewish and Orthodox leaders asked that bells be tolled across the U.S. from noon to 1 p.m. Saturday in "mourning for those who have already died in Southeast Asia and our sorrow that the killing continues."

The call was described as "totally unprecedented in the history of religion in this country" by the Rev. Dr. William Wilson Manross, church historian on the faculty of the Philadelphia divinity school.

Meanwhile, the Press Trust of India news agency reported today that at least 25 persons were killed and several injured when Pakistani troops fired on an Indian border enclave adjoining East Pakistan.

PTI also said five persons were killed and three were injured Tuesday when Pakistani soldiers crossed the border in the village of Boyria some 40 miles north of Calcutta.

under virtual house arrest although it was not clear how the government had received information from the East Pakistan capital.

In Calcutta, West Pakistani diplomats were kept under what was called "police vigilance." The Dacca and Calcutta missions were closed Monday after East Pakistani diplomats defected to the breakaway republic of Bangladesh and a New Pakistani deputy high commissioner ran into angry demonstrations.

The dangers arising from the war of words and refusal of either side to allow the other's diplomats to leave except on the basis of reciprocity still exists.

But there now seems to be a realization that some solution has to be found, observers said.

It is believed that India may have suggested that the diplomats and their families be brought out by road or by an airline of a third country rather than through Karachi as Pakistan has insisted so far.

Pakistan is expected to reply to the Indian proposals within the next 24 hours or so.

QUEEN ILL

The Queen has come down with a heavy cold but a London story that the royal tour of British Columbia next week could be cancelled has been denied by the provincial government. The government also released a detailed schedule of motorcade routes for the Monday and Tuesday visit of the royal family in Victoria. See Page 38.

STUDENTS, FACULTY CRITICAL

Uvic Probe Cuts No Ice

The University of Victoria announced Tuesday the appointment of an external tribunal to inquire into the cases of three teachers involved in a promotion and tenure dispute, but students and faculty were generally critical of the move.

A Tuesday night news release from the Uvic administration revealed that Chief Justice J. Q. Wilson of the Supreme Court of British Columbia has nominated three men to examine the cases of Dr. William Goede, Dr. Tikam Jain and Toby Graff.

NO NAMES

Wilson did not release the names of the nominees because they had not yet officially accepted their appointments.

The appointment of the tribunal, which is similar to one recommended by the Canadian Association of University Teachers, coincided with release by president Bruce J. Partridge of a rebuttal to an earlier CAUT report which was harshly critical of him and the board of governors.

The CAUT executive recommended censure of Uvic's president and board if an external tribunal were not appointed to examine the three cases.

But the tribunal requested by Partridge differs substantially from that called for by the CAUT.

The Uvic release states emphatically that the findings of the tribunal will not be binding upon the university, while the CAUT proposal called for a body composed of representatives from both sides of the dispute sitting with an independent chairman and binding powers.

NO DEADLINE

Students and faculty were critical of the fact that no deadline had been set for the tribunal's inquiry, that it would not be binding, and that

FLIGHTS SHOW

Slicks Dispersed

Reconnaissance flights by the U.S. Coast Guard this morning failed to locate any sizeable slicks remaining from a giant oil spill at Anacortes Monday.

The amount of oil involved reported as 5,000 gallons Tuesday — has been radically amended to 5,500 barrels, about 233,000 gallons. No official could account for the erroneous first report beyond suggesting there was a "misunderstanding" over the terms barrels and gallons.

The oil flowed into Anacortes harbor from an open valve at the bottom of a barge which was being loaded at the Texaco refinery there. The U.S. Coast Guard was continuing surveillance flights today but this morning reported that the big oil patches seen Tuesday evening were gone.

NO PROBLEMS

"We saw no measurable slicks," said CG spokesman George Bukota from Anacortes. "There were some streamers of oil but there appeared to be no problem with birds."

For the past two days, environmentalists have expressed concern about the huge flocks of sea birds currently migrating up the coast. Official count this morning has 34 birds dead from the oil and 99 being treated.

Lieut. Tom Barrett, Coast Guard spokesman in Seattle, said he thought it unlikely any concentration of the oil would reach the southern tip of Vancouver Island.

It was conceivable, he said, small patches might eventually reach that far. Meanwhile, one patch of oil was reported to have reached the vicinity of Friday Harbor, on the east side of San Juan Island and about 15 miles east of Victoria.

EFFECT UNKNOWN

The oil is diesel number 2, a light oil which dissipates readily. But its toxic effect is not well known.

R. H. Kussat, a pollution control biologist with the federal department of fisheries, said from Vancouver today research on diesel oil toxicity is under way but just how damaging it can be isn't really known.

Bio assays have shown that the lethal concentration for fish begins at about 300 parts per million. With some pesticides in water, lethal concentrations can be as low as four parts per million.

Opting Out To Await Tax Reform

Times Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — Provinces may opt out of the cost sharing programs with the federal government but they will have to wait until the proposed new federal tax reform legislation has been implemented, Prime Minister Trudeau said Tuesday.

"We have now taken note of the stand of the Ontario government. We will, after the tax reform has been implemented, sit down with provincial authorities and discuss ways by which they might re-exercise the right of opting out which they did not exercise previously," said the prime minister.

Trudeau was responding to questions from David Lewis, newly elected New Democratic Party national leader who referred to the budget speech of Ontario Treasurer Darcy McKeough.

CRITICAL OF POLICIES

The Ontario treasurer was critical of federal economic policies saying they were detrimental to the interests of Ontario as well as the national interest.

He said it is Ontario's intention to assume complete responsibility for federal-provincial shared cost programs such as health insurance and post secondary education and ask for a tax equivalent such as that given Quebec when it withdrew in 1968.

The offer of opting out of shared cost programs was made in 1964 and remained open until 1969. Quebec was the only province to take that step.

When the government presented its white paper on taxation it withdrew this offer for the simple reason that the whole basis of tax points was to be changed. Therefore the offer under the reformed tax system could not be made in the same way," said the prime minister.

However, he added, the principle of opting out is still acceptable and after the tax reform measures have been implemented Ottawa would be ready to discuss opting out with provinces wanting to exercise that right.

"A special status?" asked Opposition Leader Robert Stanfield.

Trudeau said there will be no "special status" because it will be offered to all provinces as it was in 1964.

Trio Questioned By Police After Bank Job

VANCOUVER (CP) — Police in Vancouver were questioning three men today in a $327,550 holdup at a branch of the Bank of Montreal here Tuesday.

Two of the men were arrested at Hancy in the Fraser Valley and a third was arrested in Burnaby, near Vancouver.

No charges have been laid in the bank robbery, the biggest in the city's history.

The robbery at the Bank of Montreal's Vancouver General Hospital branch took place 40 minutes after it opened for the day's business. Two pistol-wielding bandits rushed into the bank and grabbed the cash from the vault minutes after it was delivered by an armored truck. It was to have been used to cash part of the payroll for the hospital's 4,500 employees.

A third man waited in the stolen getaway car, which had pulled into the parking spot vacated by the armored truck.

ORDER STAFF OUT

As they entered the vault, the gunmen ordered accountant Gerhard Janitschek and assistant Evelyn Gronlund who were sorting the cash.

"I just stood there," Miss Gronlund said. "I couldn't

Hecklers Enliven Montreal Hearing

MONTREAL (CP) — Over a constant background of heckling, English-Canadian speakers kept hammering at the theme of their rights in Quebec before the parliamentary committee on the constitution Tuesday night.

A contingent of about 50 young hecklers at the back of a hall in the west-end district of Notre-Dame-de-Grace enlivened the proceedings with noisy but generally good-humored comments. About 350 persons attended.

Of 10 formal briefs read to the committee, nine were from English-Canadians and most called for extension of minority language and education rights to the other provinces to match those of Anglophones in Quebec.

Some were clearly apprehensive about the future of these minority rights in Quebec.

BACKS FEDERALISM

Most of the 17 speakers from the floor were French-Canadians and a majority expressed the opinion that the federal system is worn out and Quebec should secede from Canada.

A young French-Canadian got a thorough going-over by the hecklers when he said he was proud of being a Canadian and said federalism was the best guarantee of democracy.

A formal brief from a woman identified as Mlle. LePage reiterated the plea for minority French language and education rights in other provinces to match those of Anglophones in Quebec.

But an English-speaking woman said many Canadians in Quebec fear losing their rights, homes and jobs and many had already left the province.

Some were prepared to acquiesce meekly if they lost their rights but others would fight to the death.

She also said a new constitution must guarantee the same minority rights everywhere in Canada.

The committee, made up of senators and member of the House of Commons, continues its Montreal sessions until Thursday.

Hummel Business Break-Up Traced

Deteriorating relations in the Hummel-Osland-Marquardt business partnership were traced today as the tax evasion trial of lawyer David Hummel entered its sixth day.

Contractor Siegfried Marquardt testified that trouble started in 1966, with complaints that the group didn't pay enough, or on time, for construction work done under his direction.

"I had trouble paying my creditors, suppliers... all the people who trusted me," Marquardt said under questioning by prosecutor Robert Hutchison.

HIGH OVERHEAD

Marquardt blamed what he considered an excessively high overhead of the group's management firm, Diversified Management and Development Ltd.

At one point, Marquardt said a bond issue, second mortgages on group holdings and other financing arrangements were necessary so that "I didn't have to declare bankruptcy."

The partnership was abandoned after William Osland was slain in Feb. 1968.

The crown also introduced evidence to show that Hummel considered the group had performed as "outstanding amateurs" up to June, 1966, and that it now was time to start adopting the procedures of professional developers.

Marquardt testified he felt Hummel's criticism was too strong.

"We weren't amateurs," he said. "We tried to do our best, but no doubt someone else could have done better. It depends on how much you want to succeed and how high your ambitions are."

WROTE NOTE

Marquardt said he had written a note on minutes of a group meeting to the effect that shares of the Red Lion Motor Inn had been sold to "pay out Mike." The crown is claiming that Hummel evaded paying taxes on income received in the period during which complicated transactions were effected to raise money to pay lawyer Michael Warren $100,000 for his interest in the group.

The crown served notice today it would call three more witnesses including revenue department investigator Kenneth Stokes and municipal clerk of Saanich, Gordon Hayward. Hayward's testimony will concern zoning for the Red Lion.

The prosecution case is expected to conclude Friday or Monday, at which time Vancouver lawyer John Spencer will begin the case for the defence.

The trial is before Provincial Court Judge E. F. N. Robinson.

OIL SPILL

Kussat said he didn't think the Anacortes spill would present a fisheries problem in Canadian waters. The immediate problem relates to birds and perhaps shell fish.

NO HOPE

Local ornithologists pointed out there is no hope for birds which contact the oil.

Any oil will raise hell with marine life on the surface," said Charles Guiget, curator of birds and mammals at the provincial museum.

The oil penetrates plumage, enables water to reach their skin, their temperatures drop "and they just die."

Some birds will preen, ingest the poisonous oil, he added. Trying to remove the oil also removes the natural oil. It just doesn't work. "The humane thing is to kill them."

Uvic physicist Jeremy Tatum, an experienced ornithologist, said bird migrations are currently at their height up the west coast and the thousands of Black Brant geese passing represent the entire world population.

About two dozen people, members of the Victoria Natural History Society and the West Canada Wildlife Trust, were scheduled to patrol the shoreline around Saanich today, on the watch for oil and birds in trouble.

UVIC PROBE

the disputants would not be represented.

Faculty Association president Don Harvey, who relinquishes his office May 1, said "the machinery without a deadline will be too slow to solve the issues."

He suggested the appointment of the tribunal was a smoke-screen, "an attempt to delay the issue."

The three faculty members' contracts will expire June 30, and after that date they will no longer be employees of the university.

Student steering committee spokesman Norman Wright said the move was a "complete reversal" of Partridge's previous stand and that it was "ample evidence of the inadequacy of his previous administrative decisions."

"Are these people (on the tribunal) going to be lay people or academics?" he asked. "That's a very important point."

He condemned the tribunal as being "unilateral" and asked "at what point are the appellants going to be involved in the inquiry?"

The chief justice was called into the dispute by Uvic following an extensive study by a group of full professors of the problems surrounding the promotion and tenure dispute.

The senior faculty members proposed the kind of inquiry now planned, the Uvic release said.

It quoted the professors' resolution:

"This assembly of full professors of the University of Victoria considers that existing procedures in the three cases under dispute have been conscientiously followed. We feel, nevertheless, charges of injustice in these cases are brought against the University by CAUT, that careful scrutiny of the situation is in order.

"We therefore recommend

Library Board Buys Bookmobile

The Greater Victoria Library Board, Tuesday, approved the purchase of a new $19,794 bookmobile.

The body of the bookmobile will be built at Yarrows Ltd. Library director Don Miller told the board the new vehicle will have a capacity of between 2,500 and 3,000 books, its own generator, fluorescent lighting and, hopefully, a photocharger.

The board decided the loss of close to $45,000, made when the municipal per capita grant was whittled from $5.19 to $4.88, would be covered by: —Deleting $10,000 that would have been spent on the children's department in the proposed budget.

—Saving $7,000 that would have been spent on providing automatic elevator doors.

—Reducing the number of book purchases.

In other business the board: ● Decided future budgets will spell out in detail how the provincial grant will be spent. ● Was told the Library Development Commission might contribute financially to the provision of equipment for the new centennial branch libraries.

● Voted to resolve the location of sites for new branch libraries in Victoria and Saanich as soon as possible. Both Victoria and Saanich have agreed to have one major construction.

● Decided to meet soon with boards of local school districts to examine possibility of co-operation on library facilities in the schools.

● Was told the board has applied for $13,735 under the federal government's summer make-work program for students. The grants would be used to have five teams of six university students make a study of the area's library needs and resources.

● Was asked by Central Saanich Ald. Ted Clayards when his municipality's voting rights would be reviewed.

Clayards was told the participating municipalities had been asked for decisions on Central Saanich's voting rights in November when a letter was sent them outlining recommendations for amendments to the 1966 move. And then he grabbed me and threw me to one side," bruising her arm.

"We stood outside the vault door and he said again 'no one move,' and he pointed a gun. They grabbed the bags of money and quickly left. The alarm went off just as they left the bank."

The bandits took —three bags, one of them containing $327,000 in $5, $10 and $20 bills. The others held $550 in dimes.

A Roman Catholic priest, visiting the hospital on routine sick calls, watched as the men left the bank.

"They ordered me to stand still," said Rev. Nick Morrow of Our Lady of Sorrows parish. "They were getting into a light blue car being driven by another man."

Father Morrow gave police the licence number of the car, located a short time later a few blocks away. Detectives searched neighboring apartment blocks.

The biggest bank robbery in the lower British Columbia mainland previously was in 1911 when $271,000 was taken from a branch of the Bank of Montreal in New Westminster.

The biggest Canadian bank robbery occurred in Montreal in 1961 when $605,000 was taken from a Bank of Nova Scotia branch.

Hospital Talks Held Quietly

Representatives of the Southern Vancouver Island Hospital Society met North Saanich Mayor J. B. Cumming, the deputy chairman of the Capital Regional Hospital Board, for two hours Tuesday.

Participants had little to say later but there were indications that Cumming may have a report on the talks for this afternoon's meeting of the regional hospital board.

But, he said, "we have to protect ourselves by keeping the merit system on the tracks."

Sitting in on the hearing was John Carson, chairman of the public service commission.

DEPARTMENT OF FINANCE

HON. W. A. C. BENNETT, P.C., Premier and Minister of Finance
G. S. BRYSON, Deputy Minister of Finance

PORT-AU-PRINCE, Haiti (WP)—"In a month or two," said Donald Mackay, "Haiti will be wide open. We will have people running out our ears."

Mackay, a short, barrel-chested divorce lawyer and University of Alabama graduate, was not discussing the murky local politics.

He was talking about the prospects, under new Haitian law, for Port-au-Prince to replace Jaurez, Mexico, as the magnet for Americans seeking a quick, legal divorce.

"Americans are always in a hurry," Mackay said, recalling the palmy days in Jaurez. "They want to get married to somebody else."

Sitting by the swimming pool of his new mountaintop home with a spectacular view of Port-au-Prince harbor, Mackay estimated that 20,000 Americans a year had obtained divorces in Jaurez, just across the Rio Grande River from El Paso, Texas.

In Jaurez the process took as little as one day, compared with six weeks in Reno, Nev., and a year or more in New York.

Under new decrees issued last November and December by the late President Francois Duvalier, who died here last week, a divorce in Haiti will take a little longer than in Jaurez.

All For Tourist Trade

Haiti Plans Two-Day Divorce Lure

But Mackay said if all the preliminary paperwork is done properly in advance, an American need stay only two nights to make two brief, obligatory court appearances.

"It's the Napoleonic code," Mackay said, referring to the French origins of Haitian law. "It's a bit more complicated than Jaurez. All the bugs haven't been worked out yet."

In Port-au-Prince, as he did in Jaurez, Mackay, a decorated Second World War paratrooper, serves essentially as a subcontractor for lawyers and what he calls "lawyer brokers" in New York and other U.S. cities.

For a fixed fee from U.S. lawyers — as little as $500, depending on volume — he meets the would-be divorcee at the airport, pays the $100 residency tax and $70 in other taxes, shepherds his client through the courtroom process, and does the follow-up work.

A divorce decree usually follows in eight to 15 days. The Haitian government has designated a local travel agency run by Luke De-Cambre, a national assembly deputy, to superintend the lucrative chore of making divorce arrangements for foreigners.

The new easy-divorce laws for foreigners did not appear by accident.

Mackay grins when asked if it was all his idea. "That's politics," he said. "I was poking around several places in the Caribbean last year."

But he credits Haitian officials familiar with the Mexican government crackdown on the Jaurez divorce laws with seizing the opportunity.

The local bi-weekly News of Haiti has predicted the new 48 hour divorce law would bring Haiti an additional 50,000 American visitors a year, doubling the 1970 tourist figure and adding $34.6 million annually in income.

Mackay says: "I would guess there will be about 5,000 a year coming here."

Most of them, he figures, will be his clients.

ANDERSON SLAPS PM'S WRISTS AND CHARGES U.S. 'SNOW JOB'

By JOHN MIKA
Times Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — Outspoken back bench David Anderson today angrily lashed out at what he inferred were crocodile tears being shed by Ottawa and Washington over the oil pollution dangers facing the west coast.

In the Commons, he publicly slapped the wrists of Prime Minister Trudeau and Opposition Leader Stanfield as they wrung their hands over the Alaskan oil route controversy.

And outside the House he accused top U.S. officials of trying "a snow job" with a hurried stopover visit to Inuvik and an overflight of the proposed Mackenzie Valley pipeline alternative route.

Trudeau, answering questions, said Paul McCracken, chairman of President Nixon's council of economic advisers, and George Lincoln, head of the White House office of emergency and preparedness, would make a refueling stop at Inuvik on their return from surveying the Prudhoe Bay situation.

The U.S. officials would be taken to a Canadian experimental station working on Arctic pipeline problems and would be guided over the Mackenzie Valley.

Trudeau emphasized the visit was not the result of a Canadian initiative but only "is at their request that we are assisting them in their pollution research."

Anderson charged that the U.S. officials' visit would be entirely superficial and more of a public relations manoeuvre than hard-nosed research.

He said the stopover would make it easier for U.S. officials to say they had not found anything to change their views that the Prudhoe Bay-Valdez pipeline should be built across Alaska.

"I'm very suspicious of the whole thing," Anderson told reporters.

"It's precisely the same sort of thing as Energy Minister J. J. Greene did in calling those oil company presidents up here — only to fall into his own trap."

Anderson said that his Commons environmental pollution committee would begin hearings from witnesses this afternoon in Ottawa to bring out the potential problems of a Valdez-Cherry Point tanker route.

Earlier in the House he drew a smattering of applause from MPs when he attacked both government and opposition leaders for stalling his committee's request to hold further hearings on the West Coast.

His vehement attack sent both Trudeau and Stanfield into startled silence.

The West Coast oil problems were raised by Stanfield during question period when he asked that Canada press the U.S. officials in a May 3 meeting scheduled in Washington to defer any decisions on the tanker route.

Stanfield, just back from a northern tour, said the environmental dangers to the West Coast should first be studied by a joint Canadian-U.S. Committee.

Anderson jumped in to say he was glad to see the opposition leader had "apparently withdrawn his party's opposition to an inquiry on the subject of oil transportation in the Strait of Georgia."

He was referring to the Conservative motion which shelved the pollution committee's proposed trip to Vancouver and Victoria last month.

Stanfield sat silent and Anderson then turned to Trudeau and asked if the prime minister "will instruct the government House leader (Maceachen) to bring forward the motion permitting the House committee to examine this problem."

Trudeau also sat in surprised silence but several MPs thumped their desks for Anderson.

Outside the House Anderson said his needles had apparently persuaded the Tories to change their stand against the committee travelling to the coast.

"Now I'm going to keep needing Maceachen until he realizes what a stupid mistake he made in supporting the Tory delay and changes his mind too."

Anderson said. External Affairs Minister Sharp was the only cabinet member who had acted sensibly throughout the controversy but would be the victim of the delay when he represents Canada at the May 3 meeting.

"Our committee would have produced an input of information to help them at this coming meeting if we had been allowed last month to get the ammunition at hearings on the coast."

"Now we've missed that chance but the situation is still barely alive for us and it will be worth holding the hearings in B.C. a little later on."

New President Wants U.S.-Trained Police

By PETER BRAESTRUP

PORT-AU-PRINCE, Haiti (AP) — The Haitian government, under its new president-for-life, Jean-Claude Duvalier, plans to ask Washington to train new young officers for the Haitian police in the United States.

The initial Haitian proposal, according to sources close to the Duvalier family, will be modest — involving a year's schooling for perhaps a half-dozen police cadres — but it is seen by younger members of the Duvalier entourage as an important first step toward professionalizing the regular police and downgrading several hundred infamous Tonton-Macoutes.

Now a relatively quiescent part of the militia, the Tonton-Macoutes five years ago terrorized Haitians and foreign residents alike, as the strongarm men of Francois (Papa Doc) Duvalier, Jean-Claude's late father and predecessor. They still burden the government payroll.

U.S. embassy officials said that no formal requests for U.S. aid have been received from the new regime since Papa Doc died last Wednesday at the age of 64.

But in a general way, they noted, the Haitians have long been pushing for more U.S. aid. Such aid, currently devoted to rural development and an antimalaria project, now comes to less than $2 million a year.

Monday, U.S. Ambassador Clinton E. Knox suggested that Haiti, a poor, underfed, Maryland-sized nation of 4.5 million people, deserved a modest increase — perhaps $750,000, over a two-year period, for more rural development.

Informed sources said that the prospective decline of the Tonton-Macoutes who still swagger, heavily armed, around the presidential palace, will take time.

And long-time foreign residents of this sun-baked Caribbean capital noted that under the young Duvalier, as under the elder, Haiti was still a dictatorship and likely to remain one.

However, climaxing his regime's sudden hospitality toward the foreign press, the 19-year-old Haitian president Tuesday allowed some 50 foreign newsmen to join the usual throng of bodyguards in trooping after him as he toured Haiti's politically crucial army and police garrisons here and received pledges of fidelity from his officers.

Later, flanked by his advisers, the president read a statement to newsmen assembled outside his office in the palace. He promised that foreign newsmen would be welcomed in Haiti, and urged them to write "objective and truthful" reports on what they saw. He declined to answer questions, but at the suggestion of his advisers he circulated among the TV crews and reporters, politely shaking hands.

Such cordiality was unknown during most of Papa Doc's 14 years of rule, though the elder Duvalier periodically granted interviews to foreign journalists until about a year ago. The local press is tightly censored, and offending magazines and newspapers are often kept out.

The new Duvalier regime's hospitality toward newsmen and during last week's funeral ceremonies for Papa Doc spurred speculation among journalists about a possible liberalization under the new president. However, longtime foreign residents familiar with Haiti's tortuous politics warned against expecting any drastic changes soon.

Ontario's Blow for Ontario

ONE OF THE FIRST MAJOR financing problems complained of by the federal government last year was caused by the device of open-end agreements with the provinces. The procedure is for Ottawa to contract with the provinces to contribute 50-50 or in some other agreed ratio to joint federal-provincial projects, such as welfare. But in such cases the federal government loses control of its own expenditures, inasmuch as it must respond to the provinces' contributions. This led to serious financing problems in Ottawa, and efforts to budget for expenditures which in effect were determined largely by the extent of provincial policies.

In an effort to regain control of this situation, the federal government has apparently been proposing formulae which would permit it to limit its commitments to the open-end agreements. But this has roused the ire of Ontario and in his budget speech last Monday, Provincial Treasurer McKeough charged Ottawa with trying to shift on to the province more of the burden for such costs as health insurance and post-secondary education.

McKeough says: "While there may be some merit in these formulae themselves, the one obvious feature of them is that they reduce the future federal financial commitment in these established shared-cost programs. If these formulae were implemented, therefore, the provinces would find themselves in an even worse financial predicament, while the federal government would acquire added capacity to invent new programs and to further encroach on other governments' responsibilities."

That is an exaggerated statement, in view of Ottawa's own fear of such entangling agreements. But Ontario is obviously out to make the most of the situation. Mr. McKeough not only proposes to use the now-dormant opting-out clause, whereby Quebec has chosen to receive cash grants or equivalents in taxing power in lieu of joint financing for specific undertakings, but is also apparently threatening to blackmail the federal-provincial constitutional conference. Unless Ontario gets its way, says Mr. McKeough, "I can see major obstacles in the way of aspects of the constitutional review."

This would be a tough policy, but at least an understandable one. Much less credible is Ontario's cry that the province has been "singled out for a reduced role in the building of our nation," and that Ottawa apparently intends to "reduce regional disparities in Canada by diminishing the economic strength and standard of living in Ontario." It is nonsense to imply such malevolent designs against Canada's richest and most populous province, and the allegation does nothing to strengthen Mr. McKeough's position on other aspects of the provincial relationship.

There is more truth in his recognition of the current struggle between the central government and the provincial administrations. This, however, is a phenomenon inherent in our Confederation, not a new and sinister development. Mr. McKeough charges that Ottawa is "firmly bent on a course of greater centralization and concentration of power in its own hands," in contrast to Ontario's belief that there should be "greater decentralization and recognition of regional differences."

There are times when the latter is a commendable trend, but today the need for a strong national government is clear, in view of the Quebec separatist threat, the looming hazard of the economic and cultural weight of the United States, the outside pressure for continental use of our resources, and the general state of the world.

Ontario would be one of the first parts of Canada to suffer if the provinces won a clear dominance over the federal government and thereby weakened our main hope of perpetuating Canadian sovereignty, unity and independence. Mr. McKeough and his colleagues should think again. If they are going to play for keeps they had better be right.

Crisis in School Costs

THE PROBLEM OF ELEMENTARY school finance in the United States is of more than passing interest in this country because the United States is considered the most affluent of western nations. Paradoxically, the story is not encouraging.

In a number of American areas, chiefly urban, an Associated Press survey discloses that high costs and school deficits are forcing school authorities into curtailed activity, reducing the ranks of teachers and enlarging the size of classes.

In Dayton, Ohio, class size in elementary schools may be boosted from 66 to 83. In Montana a prospective "bare bones" budget, resulting from massive cutbacks, may require a 10 per cent reduction in the teaching staff. The Higher Education Association of Ohio reports more than 100 of the state's 631 school districts in "financial crisis". In Cincinnati, 365 non-academic school employees were fired in February and the teaching staff will be reduced. New York's projection indicates plans to fire some teachers and close some schools. In Chicago by June, 4,400 of the city's 24,546 teachers will be laid off.

This is a disquieting report applied to the richest country in the world — and an indication to those somewhat less affluent that rocketing education costs can result in serious setbacks — the victims being the young people on whose education the future of a country very largely depends.

A New Arab Union?

PRECEDENT ADDS AN ELEMENT of cynicism to the current move of Egypt, Libya and Syria to merge sovereignties in a new Arab union. In 1958, after substantial negotiation, Egypt and Syria merged under the name of the "United Arab Republic" — and split apart again with mutual recriminations three years later. Again in 1963, following coups in Syria and Iraq which brought to power Baathist governments, the two countries revived the union concept, which disintegrated before the day of formal signing of the required pact.

Now Egypt, financially pressed; Libya, emerging as a vigorous oil producer with a capacity for wringing higher prices from international companies; and Syria, which calls Damascus "the beating heart of Arabdom," are talking union again. In Egypt's nervous financial position, the present and prospective oil wealth of Libya has attractions, and Syria shows a recurrence of its inclination to join in a bigger, more powerful combined state.

The orchestration is familiar. On previous occasions, however, it has climaxed in a loud discord. The memory, rather than the melody, lingers on. Union is possible of course. But when and for how long are the sharp questions which outside observers are asking.

"... as soon as I get that raise I don't want I'm gonna buy a new car I don't need..."

Doubts Mounting on Bourassa's Course

ONE year ago this week, the election campaign of economist Robert Bourassa — in which he promised that sound economics would replace nationalistic polemics as a government priority — paid off.

Quebec voters went to the polls to elect 72 Liberals to the 108-seat National Assembly. Their action all but destroyed the Union Nationale party, which retained only 17 seats after four troubled years in office, and elevated Mr. Bourassa to the premiership of Canada's largest and most volatile province.

However, the heady days that followed the election have been replaced with mounting questioning about the course the 37-year-old leader has chosen for his administration, and the qualities of leadership he has shown.

In all fairness, Mr. Bourassa has been faced with problems greater than those of other premiers during the last year.

The FLQ crisis sapped the energy which Mr. Bourassa had hoped his government could devote to boosting Quebec's stagnant economy. And, he wasn't helped by economic conditions that plagued the whole of the North American continent, or Mr. Benson's White Paper on tax reform. In addition, he had to spend several months unwinding the complicated state of government business which was left behind by the ministers of the Union Nationale.

Yet, during the last four months, Mr. Bourassa and his ministers insist on making declarations that do nothing to improve the business climate.

Mounting Apprehension

There has been mounting apprehension in the business community over the government's plan to make French the "working language" of the province and to increase the amount of French instruction in the schools.

Few people disagree with Mr. Bourassa's aim of giving French increased importance in a province where 80 per cent of the population lists that language as its mother tongue. But, the way the plan will be specifically applied could have a serious effect on national and multi-national corporations where it is uneconomical to communicate at the higher levels in any other language than English. Businessmen are also worried about restrictions on transferring executives from plants and offices outside the province to Quebec. And, there is a significant personnel problem in convincing men to move to Quebec when school language policies may result in considerable hardship for their children.

An English-speaking Montrealeur who joined the Bourassa "team" last year and won a first term in the National Assembly, George Springate, said in a recent interview that the uncertainty present in Quebec before last year's election has returned.

Embarrassing Questions

Mr. Springate has fallen out of favor with his leader by publicly asking how Mr. Bourassa's plan will work. Will telephone operators answer calls for assistance in English, and will a store owner with a large English clientele be able to hire staff that will work in English? And, will any provisions be made to safeguard the jobs of older Quebecers with an insufficient knowledge of French who can no longer learn a second language?

It is difficult to produce statistics about the amount of business that has left Quebec, or investments that have been diverted to other provinces. But anyone who associates with Montreal businessmen hears daily tales — many first hand — of plant expansions being made elsewhere or deals that fell through because of the political climate.

It is the economic climate that is tarnishing Mr. Bourassa's image with his constituents. He was sold as a "super-economist" by his campaign organizers last year, and went so far as to promise he would create 100,000 new jobs by the end of this year. However, unemployment is higher than it was after he took over. This is partly because of economic conditions prevalent across North America, but it doesn't stop the opposition parties from constantly pointing out the embarrassingly unfulfilled election promise.

In addition, Mr. Bourassa's very qualities of leadership have been in question since his handling of the FLQ crisis. There are persistent reports of dissension in the cabinet, and indecision on the part of the premier during the crisis.

On the positive side, the premier went to a federal-provincial conference last fall and one in February without resorting to the belligerent theatrics of some of his predecessors. At the February meeting, he agreed to "study" the constitutional amending formula that would give veto powers to Quebec and five other provinces. It will be difficult for Mr. Bourassa to accept the amending formula when Prime Minister Trudeau and the premiers meet again at Victoria in June, without being conceded major tax and spending powers in the social welfare field. But, at least the premier had shown that he is seriously looking for ways to keep Quebecers happy, prosperous and in Confederation.

Also to his credit, Mr. Bourassa attracted a group of capable young technocrats to join his cabinet. They have succeeded in restoring some order in the vast network of government departments. The situation was particularly acute, because of the speed with which Quebec's underdeveloped government services mushroomed during the years of the "quiet revolution" in the 1960s.

The Bourassa government has started work on an impressive list of social legislation. Medicare, which was organized by the Union Nationale, was implemented on Nov. 1 with a minimum of inconvenience. The government passed a consumer protection bill, and legislation has been promised in the coming year which would establish a form of guaranteed income.

Quebecers have been warned, however, not to expect the strides that took place during the administration of Liberal premier Jean Lesage, from 1960 to 1966. Finance minister Raymond Garneau a few weeks ago said that the government priority is to improve the economy and "do some housecleaning" before launching new programs.

If all goes well, that should coincide with the next provincial election, expected to take place in about three years.

"Let those countries which are a long way from solving their own racial problems show more restraint and understanding of South Africa's unique problems," says Major Gen. Sir Francis De Guingand, president of the South African Foundation. That organization furthermore asserts in its annual report:

"Another question which arises is to what extent the anti-South African campaign is the result of a genuine, spontaneous interest in the welfare of the peoples of South Africa, and to what extent it is inspired, financed and coordinated by certain African and Asian countries or by their Russian and Chinese masters."

"Finally, there is the question whether the campaign is primarily directed at South Africa or whether it is merely one facet of a general breaking down of law and order, the devaluation of standards and what has been described as the slide toward anarchy."

The report concludes that external pressures on this government are "futile and probably counter-productive" and change will only result "in response to the exigencies of the South African situation." It proclaims: "The howling of the jackals can therefore be safely disregarded; indeed to concede anything to them would be interpreted and represented as another defeat for South Africa."

This kind of logic — or illogic — resembles that of catechisms used in some old-fashioned Spanish schools which teach that Darwinism, socialism, liberalism and Communism are all enemies. The fact that dictatorship rules the Communist orbit obviously doesn't excuse racial dictatorship here.

Jobs and Appearance

An article in the April 22nd edition of the Times headed "Longhairs may get break" led me to wonder at the reasoning of the B.C. Federation of Labor. As I understand it, the Human Rights Act is intended to prevent discrimination in employment opportunity, based on a person's sex, race or creed. It is not intended to subvert an employer's discretion as to a person's suitability for employment.

Surely the man (or woman) who signs the pay cheque, has a right to set standards for performance, dress and deportment based on the requirements of the work to be performed and the public image of the employer's business which the working staff is to project.

Why then should the B.C. Federation of Labor insist that an employer be required, by law, to hire a person whose appearance he considers unsuitable for his enterprise? If the person thus hired sends clients elsewhere, both he and his employer will suffer, and what then of their collective "human rights?" — W. J. Johnson, Cobble Hill.

Marxist Rebuttal

Richard D. Corrance in a letter to the Times (April 22) puts the blame of the Indo-China war "squarely on the shoulders of the Marxists." It would be interesting to know how Corrance arrives at this conclusion. It seems to me that here is another example of an attempt to use a minute minority as a whipping boy.

As a Marxist I would like to say in my own defence that along with my fellow Marxists I regard the Southeast Asia conflict as a capitalist struggle between the antagonists American, Australian and Asian over the rich mineral deposits in that area with the additional factor of a possible future trade route for the expected future glut of commodities from a rapidly expanding Chinese capitalist state. The Marxist position in this case is therefore — a curse on all your houses.

Corrance further indulges himself in the deceitful art of incrimination through association by attempting to link Marx with the terror of Lenin and Trotsky.

True, Lenin and Trotsky tried to popularize themselves disguised under the mantle of Marx but very little investigation is needed to uncover the fraud. Merely ask oneself the questions can the patriotism of Lenin and Trotsky be squared with Marx's internationalism; and is the terrorization and murder of Russian workers by Lenin and Trotsky a reflection of Marx's advocacy of emancipation of the working class? Finally and probably most important is Lenin's proposal for a state capitalist Russia (1920 International) a reflection of Marx's edict of "abolition of the wages system?" (Marx, Wage Labor and Capital). — Larry Tickner, 589 Nora.

Warnings

His deputy, Etienne Rousseau, says: "The terrorists are consolidating their position in the north, the Chinese are infiltrating East Africa and the Soviet fleet is establishing a formidable naval presence in the Indian and South Atlantic Oceans."

All the above is true or potentially true but it doesn't change the fact that most of the earth, regardless of ideology, sincerely aspires to improve the nasty heritage of inter-racial quarrels and doesn't believe South African apartheid provides a satisfactory answer.

The Pope, the Archbishop of Canterbury and Mao Tse-tung share this view but it certainly doesn't mean they are therefore working in concert with Brezhnev and Eldridge Cleaver. Nor is it reasonable to argue that because the United States is experiencing racial agonies and Britain has had a nasty bout of "Paki-bashing" they have no right to hope for a better world — including South Africa.

Of all silly antipathies here, that toward "liberalism" is perhaps the most archaic. A confidential news letter of De Guingand's foundation complains that "many liberals have shown sympathies with other less creditable ideologies like black power ... and any number of Communist inspired subversive and terrorist organizations," but it does concede that "liberal principles, in the broadest sense of the word, pervade the policies of most civilized governments in the world today."

They certainly do not pervade the principles of this government. Nor does it make one an automatic member of some amorphous, stone-throwing glass-house gang to say so.

Fission, Fusion —U.S. Seeks Best N-Power Method

By THOMAS OTOOLE

Oil is too expensive, gas is too scarce and coal is too dirty. That leaves atomic power — or does it?

The power of the atom is still dependent on uranium, which begets radioactive wastes and which in 30 years could be close to exhaustion all over the earth.

The domestic council of the White House now is grappling with this urgent and vital issue, the issue of how to meet the skyrocketing demand for electricity in the United States and preserve the environment at the same time. The council will dwell mostly on what must be done in the next five years, but will also take on the problem of energy demand in as distant a time as the year 2000.

The big question is how to provide power at the lowest cost and least insult to the air and water. While the domestic council will probably make more than a few recommendations about how to achieve that goal, it will also distill its specific proposals on future power needs down to just two.

Breeder Reactor

Produces More Than It Consumes

The first will be to give top priority for the near future (the next 15 years) to the Atomic Energy Commission's fast breeder reactor, a program whose goal it is to produce more nuclear fuel than it consumes. The second proposal will be to continue development of fusion power, in the expectation that electricity from thermonuclear fusion will begin to turn on our lights by the end of the century.

"The breeder reactor and the fusion reactor are not coming on like gangbusters right now," says White House energy adviser S. David Freeman, "but there's little question in my mind that the breeder will be the workhorse of the 1990s and that fusion holds the real promise for the 21st century."

If the power problems of the 21st century sound too distant, consider how great they're expected to be. Almost everybody in the U.S. knows that the country is suffering a power shortage, that the 340 million kilowatts of electricity the nation is able to generate today is not enough to supply our peak needs and stave off seasonal emergencies.

What people don't know is that the power shortage could get worse, that the nation will need more than 12 billion kilowatts of electricity 20 years from now and 2 billion kilowatts by the year 2000. Even that's assuming there are no unanticipated leaps in population or in electrical demand in the next 30 years.

Keeping up with the nation's power demands has been made all the more difficult by the rising price of oil and the growing shortage of natural gas. There is also the surge of public concern about clean air, which conceivably could eliminate coal and all but the lowest-sulphur oils as future energy sources. Conventional nuclear electricity is also under environmental fire, which is one reason why the White House will recommend turning to the fast breeder reactor as the nation's power source in the 1980s.

What is a fast breeder reactor? In essence, one that creates more atomic fuel than it burns up. In an oversimplified way, it does this by having metals like thorium absorb the escaping neutrons of a fissioning fuel like uranium. This splits the thorium atom, and the splitting creates more neutrons, which can bombard more thorium to create still more energy.

Though it still works on the principle of atomic fission, nuclear breeding had a far different engineering to it than today's conventional atomic plants. For one, breeder reactors will be cooled down by liquid sodium metal, which means the reactors won't need vast quantities of cooling water and won't have to operate under pressure.

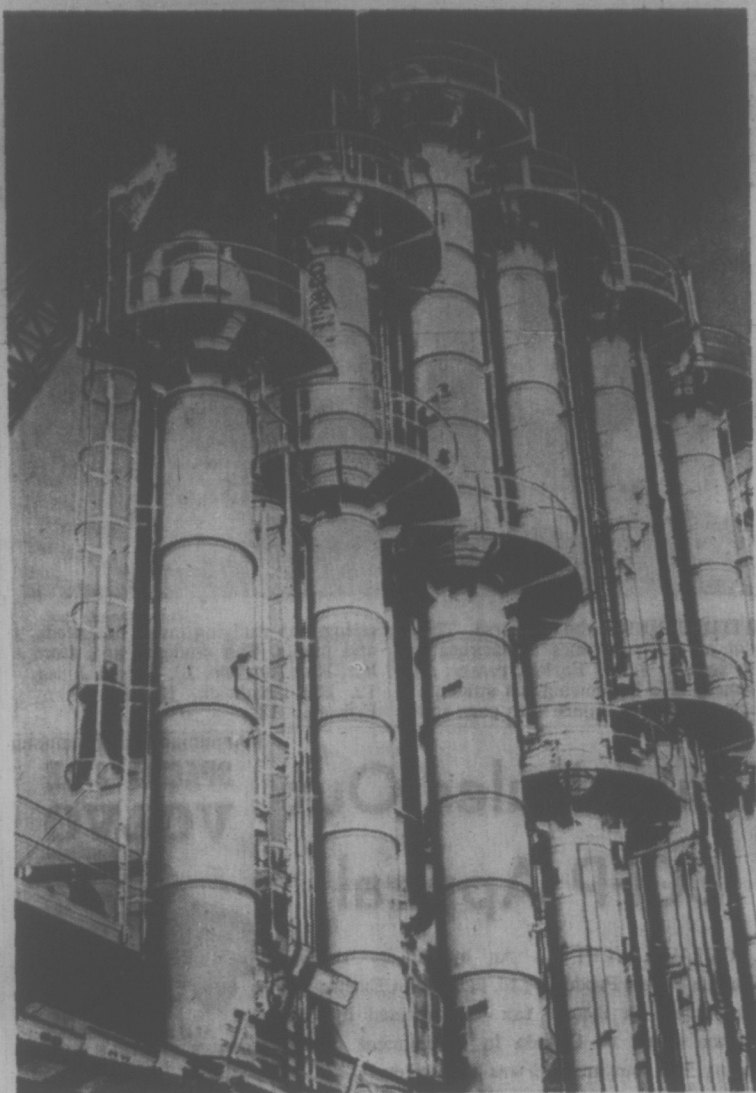

This gives the breeder two big advantages over the water-cooler reactors in use today. A breeder should leak almost no radioactivity, since it's not pressurized and not subject to the leaks that any pressurized plumbing has. The second advantage is that it's not using cooling water and therefore not discharging heated water into any lakes and rivers that might be alongside the power plant.

Working Breeder Will Be Able To Refuel Itself

Just as important, breeder reactors will physically produce fissionable plutonium fuel as they burn, so much so that a working breeder will be able to refuel itself and a second identical reactor every seven to 10 years. This is a vital part of the breeder's importance, since most mining experts believe the U.S. will run out of uranium before the end of this century.

While the breeder might sound like the answer to most energy prayers, it's far from a perfect blessing.

To begin with, the U.S. does not have a working breeder reactor, despite the facts that work was begun to develop one 17 years ago and $600 million dollars has been spent on that development to date.

Plans call for $103 million to be spent on the breeder in fiscal 1972, and the AEC fully expects to spend $100 million a year for the next 15 years before satisfying itself that it has a safe and efficient breeder plant.

The main reason the breeder has been so slow to develop is its coolant, liquid sodium metal. Sodium is one of the most reactive metals known to man, igniting instantly on contact with air and water.

"We had hoped that four large breeder plants would be operating commercially by 1984," said Milton Shaw, director of the AEC's division of reactor development, "but it won't be any earlier than 1986 and the big thing that's showing us up is development of the pumps, the valves and the heat exchangers that must handle the liquid sodium."

Meanwhile scientists at seven U.S. laboratories are laboring to tame and use the same power of thermonuclear fusion that's unleashed in the explosion of a hydrogen bomb.

Fusion power is as close to an ultimate means of making electricity as anything under the sun, but it is also proving to be the most elusive method of making power that's ever been researched. Scientists began work on fusion in 1952, two years before work was begun on the fast breeder. If anything, practical fusion power lags 15 years behind practical breeder power.

The U.S. has spent $440 million on fusion power research so far and plans to spend another $28 million this year. If talk in federal scientific circles is any guideline, that figure will rise to more than $30 million next year.

What is fusion? Almost the opposite of fission, where heavy elements like uranium are split up into lighter ones by neutron bombardment. Fusion works by combining light elements like deuterium and tritium (both isotopes of hydrogen) into heavier ones, releasing a terrific amount of energy when they do.

Heat Light Gas To Temperature That Forms Plasma

Scientists have long known that the way to bring about a fusion reaction is to heat a light gas to such a high temperature (30 million degrees and more) that it forms a plasma, which is an electrified form of the same gas. The problem is to hold the plasma in its electrified state long enough for fusion to occur.

For years, scientists were unable to contain these multi-million-degree plasmas for any useful length of time. Even after they learned to keep the plasmas bottled up with some of the strongest magnetic fields ever created by man. The problem was that plasmas behaved like unstable and super-hot fluids, always finding ways to slosh out of the bottle.

"We started asking ourselves whether there was some unknown law of nature that said we couldn't do this," said Dr. Robert Hirsch, deputy director of the AEC's controlled thermonuclear fusion program. "All our experience was telling us that the plasmas were more clever than the people working with them."

Dogged determination paid off, and about five years ago scientists began to see results in the fusion program. They discovered they could hold the plasmas for longer periods of time by purifying the plasmas and by streamlining the magnetic fields that contained the plasmas. They found that making the magnetic fields weaker in the centre and stronger at the edge created a kind of magnetic "well," in which the plasmas tended to collect.

Nobody has yet achieved a pure fusion reaction, but to hear the most ardent fusion enthusiasts tell it there are no more major barriers left to stop it. A milestone of sorts was reached last month when scientists at Los Alamos successfully cranked up the largest device yet built to achieve fusion, a $12 million LAR machine called the scyllae.

Containing plasmas as hot as 50 million degrees is still the problem, but most fusion enthusiasts think it's within reach.

One, two, three or even four working fusion containers does not mean the arrival of fusion power. That must wait at least 20 years, for the time when a fusion reactor can be built to produce commercial electricity from fusion.

"The problem of recovering useful power after attaining the required plasma confinement time is a completely new and perhaps separate problem," says Dr. Harold Forsen of the University of Wisconsin. "The problems of handling neutrons, breeding tritium gas in flowing liquid metals, the transfer of enormous heats, radiation damage to materials and safety ... there is a vast number of special problems that need to be explored."

Fusion Holds Promise of Clean, Abundant Power

Nearly everybody in the power business says that the problems should be explored if only because fusion holds out the promise of abundant and relatively clean power.

The fuel for fusion would be tritium and deuterium, which is plentiful in sea water. While fusion reactors would have to be kept cool, they will probably not present the heated discharge problems of conventional atomic reactors. The only radioactive by-product of fusion would be tritium, a far cry from the score or more waste products of nuclear reactors.

"Fusion lies somewhere over the horizon," is the way it's put by Dave Freeman of the White House, "but it would be such a dramatic energy conservation device that we must forge ahead with its development."

The Free Press Tilts With NDP Government

By FRANCES RUSSELL

WINNIPEG — Quarrels between governments and the press are not new, but the bitter animosity between Manitoba's NDP government and the province's largest daily, the Winnipeg Free Press has become news in itself.

The newspaper, which describes itself as small-liberal in persuasion, has never wavered from its initial reaction of shock and outrage that the "socialists" had actually come to power.

In the first days after the June, 1969, election, the publisher and editor-in-chief, Richard S. Malone, was a leading figure in an effort to bring about coalition between the Liberals and Conservatives.

At the same time, his paper was filled with news reports about the number of businesses leaving the province. These reports were dutifully checked and found to be greatly exaggerated by the rival Winnipeg Tribune, itself no friend of the NDP, but more moderate in its attitude to the new government.

The Archfoe

Since those beginnings the government and grassroots NDP members have regarded the Free Press as the archfoe, and have allowed few opportunities to pass to condemn it publicly. The most outspoken attack on the paper was launched by the province's controversial Highway and Public Works Minister Joseph Borowski.

Mr. Borowski has a genius for colorful phrase-turning and for speaking his mind. He made a somewhat unflattering remark about Indians and war veterans. The Free Press featured these remarks as prominently as possible, and placed the story in the centre of the front page. Mr. Borowski, on the carpet before Premier Edward Schreyer, turned yet another colorful phrase.

The Free Press was "politically racist" and "shouldn't be allowed to do business" in Manitoba. "They have preached everything but violent overthrow of the government ever since we came into office."

While other cabinet ministers wouldn't have put it so bluntly, most have made it clear that they share Mr. Borowski's opinions. Attorney-General Alvin Mackling, incensed about a news story which said his new legislation releasing drunks without charge was allowing inhabitants of skid road to "die in the streets", called a special news conference. Mr. Mackling searched through all the coroners' reports over the past year and a half, and could find no incidence of anyone dying in the streets. He said the paper might at least have checked with him personally.

Strong Opinions

Mr. Mackling said he respected the paper's right to disagree with the government on its editorial page; in fact, he would be disappointed if the paper did not have strong opinions. He wanted an opportunity to debate with Mr. Malone the paper's right to allow its opinions to color its news columns.

Premier Schreyer himself has participated from time to time in the war of words with the paper. During the recent by-election campaign in Manitoba, the Free Press featured a front-page story from its reporter in the Ste. Rose constituency.

The headline said: "Liberals outdraw NDP." The article pointed out that the Liberals and NDP both held meetings in one town the same evening. The town "could be crucial" in the by-election, the story said; the fact the Liberals had 375 to the NDP's 145 showed they were "still popular."

Mr. Schreyer made special mention of this story at his next news conference. He thought the paper should have pointed out the Liberals used buses to bring people to their meeting. The town was hardly large enough to need buses, so one could only conclude that the Liberal crowd came from across the riding, while the NDP crowd was from the town itself, he said.

The paper's editorial page throughout the campaign urged an informal coalition between Liberals and Conservatives. "Failure to concentrate the anti-Socialist vote behind one candidate will give the NDP an enormous advantage ...," one editorial read. "... It will be up to the voters themselves in these two by-elections to decide which candidate holds the best chance to defeat the NDP candidate and to concentrate their votes behind him."

Small wonder, then, that as the NDP celebrated its double by-election victory, the calls for three cheers for the victorious candidates were followed by a call for three boos for the Winnipeg Free Press.

Urged Coalition

On the blackboard carrying the results, someone had scrawled "look at this, Free Press." But the paper was not deterred. Its next editorial showed how the combined Liberal-Conservative vote defeated the NDP, and it called again for coalition to defeat "the Socialists."

An Editorial

They're not happy about it but government liquor stores have finally agreed they have an obligation to redeem empty beer bottles.

While they're at it they should accept the idea of redeeming empty liquor and wine bottles as well.

The real object of redeeming empties is to come to grips with the problem of litter pollution. Soft drink tins and beer bottles are only part way.

To be really effective additional legislation is required to enforce the redemption of all kinds of containers that may be pollution hazards, from soup tins to vinegar bottles.

This is an idea that should appeal to B.C. residents who, more than most, are able to enjoy the outdoors that this kind of waste most visibly pollutes.

The Capital Improvement District Commission has announced plans for another $217,000 worth of work to complete the Gorge waterway beautification project at a total cost of $775,000. Those who have viewed the undertaking can have little but praise for the impressive job that has been done. It's a credit to the community and a model of what can be done to clean up untidy mudbanks.

Yet I find, whenever I admire the improvement, that my eyes, by old habit, search out the spots where happiness sunned itself on distant summer days — and they are gone.

Downstream from the old bridge, now replaced with an infinitely better span, I look at a bare bank where the old brown-shingled "Free" once attracted generations of swimmers, high and low, expert and beginners. It isn't difficult to recapture the picture of the crowd which thronged the bench facing the water, drowsing through hot afternoons and stirring itself, individually, to saunter to the platform edge and dive in.

The old figures rise in memory: Jake Stokes with the basketball they used for slapstick polo, poised to target a pitch on the emerging head of a diver; Buck Calder, in a swim suit that was several sizes too small and cut on lines that made a present-day mini look over-modest, waiting for the tide to come in so he could climb the old Elks' rickety 60-foot ladder and launch himself on a dive that claimed everybody's eyes.

Echoes of the crowd sounds rise from the float below the bridge where the competent swimmers gathered. You figured you could handle yourself in the water once you could cover the distance from the "Free" to the raft.

Around the corner, upstream from the bridge, where the improvements now catch and appeal to the eye, you remember the mud hole where cheerfully belligerent youngsters could stage their battles, smacking the globes of blue clay onto the near-naked bodies of their adversaries.

Across the stream, now tidily walled with attractive stonework, you could hear children shouting as they raced down the dirt path from the old streetcar turnaround, outdistancing their parents to the "Pay." You couldn't see them from the Gorge Road side. Overhanging evergreens provided a shield between the path and the water.

You look in vain to determine where the boat chute — a harrowing incline to the water's edge — carried venturesome passengers on a quick plunge, vying with the loop-the-loop scenic railway farther inshore. And you find difficulty in placing the outdoor theatre shell, where the pierrots gave their nightly performances, in front of the shooting gallery and ring games, some distance from the Japanese Tea Gardens.

Farther upstream, attractive homes and gardens have replaced the woods and the clearing in it where the young men's camp of the Y once was noisy with the shouts of advanced adolescents living through the summer under canvas and involved, hour by hour, in the homely play of youths who imposed upon themselves the loosest of disciplines. In minds' eye, you can visualize the canoes on the wharf they built, using the craft frequently to paddle each morning to jobs in town. If your age is great enough, you recall some of the early campers, Fred Harling, Fred Carne, Frank Crompton, Tommy Dalzell, Charlie Hopper, the McKinnons, Gus and Archie, and later, Tom Wellburn, Jack Clyde, Stan More, Bert Buller and their generation.

On the Gorge Road side you can picture the old Victoria Amateur Swimming Club's floating home and log-enclosed pool at the foot of Inez Drive. This was the property developed from the old Victoria Ladies' Swimming Club maintained by the wives and families of early local swimming stars who had gone overseas in the First World War.

The personalities stay green in memory: the Wellburns, the Silburns, the Balnaves, the Hibernians, the Brooks, the McDowells, V. J. "Dick" Dunn, who was British Columbia's diving and swimming authority for a whole generation; W. T. Stanyon, Pete Johnson, Jimmie Hough, Mrs. McAllister. With them were the younger competitors, sons and daughters of club fathers and mothers, as well as Earle Squire, Brian Hummings, John Foubister, Phyllis Nunn, Iris Philbrook, Midge Breckenridge, the Robertsons, senior and junior, and a host of old friends who made a close-knit family.

You remember the hot afternoons, stretched on the pool decks, the handicapped races, the life-saving classes, the polo matches and the fights between the McKinnons and Jack McNeill that almost invariably followed the VASC "friendly" games.

These are recollections of people and events gone with the untidiness that marked the Gorge of an earlier age — a romanticized memory of youth, canoes on still nights, the strumming of ukeleles and the great days of high competition. They cannot be restored because the era is over. But, in practical terms, the Gorge isn't being restored either. It has been improved in attractive fashion, keeping pace with the times.

This Teacher Promotes Wild Classroom Life

By DONNA CLEMENTS
DUNCAN — James Barker found that his past four outdoor camping trips have been so successful he is planning a week-long excursion with 70 elementary boys and girls at the B.C. Forest Products public camping grounds at the western end of Cowichan Lake.

DUNCAN COWICHAN

(Duncan Office
Ph. 746-6181)

Activity Room Go-Ahead Given At Greenwell

LAKE COWICHAN — School district 66 has received permission to proceed with construction of a $90,871 activity room at A. B. Greenwell Elementary. The contract went to J. L. Peterson Construction Ltd. of Lake Cowichan. Construction is expected to start next week and completion of the project is scheduled for next September. Non-shareable extras valued at $4,010 are still under review by the department of education.

Egg Prices

Producer prices released by the B.C. Egg Marketing Board in effect today are:

	Large	Medium	Small
Vancouver Island	41	37	32
Lower Mainland	41	36	32
Interior	40	36	32

Although the students, all about 13 years old, will carry out various environmental activities their educational studies won't be neglected, Barker said. Each day time is set aside for studies and assignments involving ecological studies of the area will be conducted.

"The objective of the trip is to provide experiences not normally available in the classroom," Barker said. "We hope it will stimulate curiosity, excitement, joy and a sense of beauty in reaction to environment and build skills and concepts which will enable students to cope more effectively with the objects, forces and events which comprise their environment."

"We want students to discover their environment first-hand, rather than out of text books and from others and hope to make all areas of the curriculum more meaningful to the student because they are applied to real life situations," Barker said he has been planning this trip extensively for the past two months.

"I have kept the kids posted on the agenda so that when we arrive they can take over and the adults will just have to supervise."

The students will have to cook and do all the chores.

Students are eager to get involved in pre-planned activities such as: the creation of a rhythm band from natural materials; or temporary sample plots where each student outlines a two-foot square with pegs and string and studies the insect life, seeds, grasses and plants within; examine and record trees; study the ecological study of the lake shore; and carry out microscope work and study astronomy.

They will compete in daily sports such as softball and touch football as well as entertain each other nightly with skits and songs.

This trip will cost each student a maximum of $5, Barker said.

Other classes from Alexander School have been taken on camping trips by Barker but on a smaller scale.

"My first trip was three years ago when I had a class of all boys. It seems the ideal thing to do with kids of the Grade 6 level."

"We had a great time. It was a two-day camping trip on the Chemainus River where we mapped the area, collected seeds and insects and hiked up the river. We mostly studied geography on this trip."

Since the initial trip Barker, with the assistance of two mothers, has taken mixed groups of elementary students to Bamberton Beach twice and one group to Camp Crien on Koksilah River.

"These trips are real attitude builders for the kids," Barker said. "They help them develop social responsibility, self discipline and public responsibility."

"I get to know my kids as people and not just as students and I get to see how they react in an extended period of time with me. They also get to know me as a person."

Barker said with pollution being such a controversial subject in the news media, these excursions "will certainly enlighten students as to what the words environment and ecology mean and their responsibility to the area in which they live."

Court Rules Out BCFP Appeal

OTTAWA (CP) — An appeal by British Columbia Forest Products Ltd. against an Exchequer Court ruling on income tax was rejected by the Supreme Court of Canada in a judgment issued Tuesday. The company also was assessed costs.

The amount of tax involved in the tax year 1963 was not specified.

One part of the appeal concerned the classification of the Income Tax Act that the company chose for 24 items of property at its Crofton paper mill for purposes of capital cost allowance.

Both the Exchequer and Supreme courts said the company picked the wrong one.

Also involved was the company's calculation of income tax deduction for logging taxes it paid. That was ruled to be too high.

Board Manages Tight Budget

DUNCAN — For the first time Cowichan school board is within the limits of the educational financial formula with a total budget of $5,357,837 for 1971.

The board said Tuesday the budget is within 10 per cent allowable increase over last year.

Man Pleads Guilty To Slashing Throat

DUNCAN (CP) — A 29-year-old Duncan man was remanded to May 26 for sentencing Tuesday after he pleaded guilty in Duncan provincial court to a charge of wounding with intent to cause bodily harm.

The charge against John Cotterill arose from an incident at a house party on Lake Cowichan Road April 3 when Cotterill was asked to leave by Bernard Leblanc.

Court was told Cotterill attacked Leblanc with a knife. Leblanc was taken to hospital in Duncan with a six-inch gash to his throat. He was treated and then released the following day.

DOESN'T GO FAR ENOUGH

Labor Bill Damned as 'Little'

By DAN TURNER

OTTAWA (CP) — Steve Otto, the government's No. 1 maverick back-bencher, was at it again Tuesday, outdoing all opposition speakers in criticizing Labor Minister Bryce Mackasey's bill to amend the Canada Labor Standards Code.

It wasn't that the member from York East didn't like the provisions of the bill itself, which affects 530,000 workers in companies under federal jurisdiction.

He praised measures that would:

—Increase the federal minimum wage to $1.75 an hour from $1.65;

—Require equal wages for female workers doing work requiring similar skills and effort as their male counterparts;

—Assure female workers of 17 weeks maternity leave;

—Forbid employers to dismiss workers because their wages had been garnished;

—Make employers give between eight and 16 weeks notice for large-scale layoffs;

—Require two weeks dismissal notice for employees with three months service and two weeks severance pay for those with five years service, escalating to eight weeks for 20 years service.

SAYS IT STOPS SHORT

But he damned the bill for not going far enough. Its provisions were little things, he said, that did not solve the vast problem of labor today.

The government has no labor policy, he said, to deal with strikes, deadheading, and other non-productive practices that characterized the old-fashioned scheme of things.

Labor and management took turns blaming each other as rounds of inflation and unemployment continued, with labor suffering when it went on strike and companies passing on increases gained to the consumer.

His answer, he said, was that when a strike was declared people would continue to work but the profits made by the corporation during the time its workers were without a contract would be taxed 100 per cent.

BUT FIND FAULTS

"No one would suffer, the country would benefit, and the dispute would still be settled through negotiations."

Opposition members generally approved the bill, which was scheduled to continue in second-reading debate today.

But nearly everyone criticized particular points within it.

Robert McCleave (PC—Halifax-East Hants) said the clause that would allow the government to raise the minimum wage by order-in-council rather than coming to Parliament, was fraught with danger.

"This approach may put the government under a great deal of stress at certain times, probably once every four years." The reference, presumably, was to elections.

Jack Horner (PC—Crowfoot) said that the government should realize that "perhaps the time has come that we cannot keep on pushing up the unorganized workers' wages forever."

He suggested that, to prevent inflation, perhaps some action should be taken "on the other side of the pendulum" so a government body or labor court could deal with the wages of organized labor.

SUSPECTS LOOPHOLE

John Skoberg (NDP—Moose Jaw) thought there might be a loophole in the section that would require notice for large layoffs.

The legislation requires notice only when 50 or more employees are laid off, he said, which would apparently allow employers to spread their layoffs over a longer period.

David Orlikow (NDP—Winnipeg North) called the $1.75 minimum wage inadequate—it would give an employee $3,600, which he said was below the poverty line established by the Economic Council of Canada.

He also regretted that it did not give the minimum wage to employees in the Yukon and Northwest Territories.

Grace MacInnis (NDP—Vancouver-Kingsway) said the maternity leave provision should be made more flexible. Rather than designating 11 weeks leave prior to birth and six weeks after, it should be left to the woman's discretion.

"There is little reason for most women to sit home and do nothing in the last 11 weeks prior to childbirth," she said.

QUESTIONS OMISSION

Norman Cafik (L—Ontario) said he didn't see why the bill excludes managerial personnel from the requirement for two weeks notice of dismissal or mandatory notice for large layoffs.

Andre Fortin (Creditiste—Lotbiniere) called for simplification of the bill.

"This bill is one of those extremely complex bills that cannot be readily understood by employer or employee."

Charles Turner (L—London East) said every year many industries in Canada decide to make changes in their production, and many decide to lock their doors and move to other parts of the world.

"If resistance to change on the part of employees is to be less harmful, as it must be if Canada is to achieve its full potential as an industrial power, trade unions and governments must accept responsibility for the development of policies designed to cushion the impact of change on individuals."

Debate on the bill was adjourned, and there was a brief discussion on the farm products marketing bill, now at report stage—the step before third reading.

Mr. Horner said Agriculture Minister H. A. Olson has invalidated last September's agreement among the provinces on the bill by including cattle within the commodities that would be dealt with by marketing agencies.

He said the bill now does not have the approval of the provinces, and maintained that such support should be sought before it is debated further.

Nineteen of 30 amendments to be debated at report stage are in Mr. Horner's name.

Crash Kills Two

GUNTON, Man. (CP) — A twin-engine aircraft on a routine flight to check equipment, crashed into a swamp about 50 miles north of Winnipeg Tuesday, killing the pilot and passenger.

The bodies of John Bloomfield, 33, the pilot from Winnipeg, and James Bachuk, 32, from The Pas, Man., were found in the wreckage by two military para-medics who parachuted into the crash scene.

Delay Unfair

EDMONTON (CP) — Cattle and hog producer organizations are being unfair to egg and poultry producers by trying to delay passage of national farm products marketing legislation. Uni-farm president Dobson Lea said Tuesday in a news release. He said opponents of marketing agencies "have no right to hinder others in their efforts to establish orderly marketing of their commodities."

Plan Promised

SHELLBROOK, Sask. (CP) — Premier Ross Thatcher told a Liberal Party rally here that his government, if re-elected, will include chiropractic services under the Saskatchewan Medical Care Plan. He told an audience of 350 the added service would mean "a modest increase in the head tax."

Dispute Simmers

BANFF, Alta. (CP) — An attempt by students to resolve a dispute over blue jeans, banned under the Banff Composite high school's dress code, has been quashed by the teachers. The teachers voted 6-4 in favor of rejecting a meeting with students' proposed revisions in the dress code. Three teachers abstained. About 60 students were suspended April 20 for defying the "no jeans" rule. All but four were back in school Tuesday, dressed according to regulation.

Requests Increase

SASKATOON (CP) — Canadians are making increasing requests for information about schizophrenia. I. A. Kahan of Regina said Tuesday. Kahan, director of the Canadian Schizophrenia Foundation said the foundation has received more than 15,000 requests for information and 2,000 calls for help in the last two years.

Inquest Policy

CALGARY (CP) — Attorney-General Edgar Gerhart has been asked by the Calgary Police Commission to reconsider policy on holding inquests into fatal accidents. The request came Tuesday after the commission learned from the police chief's annual report that only 20 inquests were held in the 36 fatal traffic accidents in the city during 1970.

Sacred Expelled

SPIRIT RIVER, Alta. (CP) — A maverick member of the Social Credit League of Alberta has had his membership cancelled because of attacks on the provincial government.

Rev. Michael Zuk, a United Church of Canada minister in this Peace River community, said today he received a letter last week from league executive secretary Orvis Kennedy advising him of the cancellation.

Zuk declared last fall he would be an independent Social Credit candidate in Spirit River-Fairview in the next provincial election — expected sometime this summer.

He said he was not bothered by "the excommunication" and said he would continue to campaign as an independent without party ties.

READER'S DAY

Bravo! Beastly! All on Britannia

Was the long voyage north of Her Majesty's Yacht Britannia, for a brief, largely symbolic appearance in these waters, really necessary? Public opinion is sharply divided as a sampling of the mail indicates:

"I read all your articles in the Victoria Times and usually find them interesting, but the one on Britannia's visit has left me disgusted," writes Miss E. M. Gibson.

"You say you have an 'irrational sentimentality' toward the Royal Family. Why, then, do you resent the Queen having her own yacht here to retire to for a few hours real rest and privacy in accommodation she is used to? The Royal Tour schedule keeps the Queen on the go every minute for nine days and Her Majesty would never ask for something less strenuous. The authorities in England must have realized this and arranged for the Britannia to come out to help ease the strain.

"The Royal Family are scheduled to use the yacht eight days of the 10 they are to be in British Columbia. Presumably England pays expenses so why should a Canadian object?

"And why do you join the modern, discourteous way of calling the Royal Family by their Christian names with no prefix and even the Queen as 'a dear girl'?

"Your article must have caused distress to many readers of the Times."

"All I can add to your comment on Britannia is 'Bravo!' writes London-born R. L. Moyer, a Victoria resident for 25 years.

"It is evident from reading the British press that there is considerably soul-searching on the whole subject of the monarchy and an increasing desire that, in the manner of Queen Juliana of the Netherlands, our Royal Family should be closer to the common people. That this extravagance of Britannia's visit comes at a time of continuing economic problems in Britain provides further evidence that Her Majesty is often ill-informed by her advisers.

"What a triumph it would have been for the image of royalty if Queen Elizabeth had accepted the invitation by the Victoria Low Income Group to join them in a banquet of wieners and beans. She would surely find that they are loyal subjects, too."

"I have today cancelled my subscription to the Victoria Times which has permitted you to insult Her Majesty the Queen," writes Mrs. R. B. "I shall renew my subscription only if you are publicly reprimanded by your editor."

"Thank you, thank you for that rational and most timely comment regarding the presence of the Royal Yacht," writes G. S. Van der Voort. "That needed saying and, surely, needs study by certain members of the Establishment."

"When this matter of a third celebration in British Columbia was announced I wrote the Hon. Ray Williston asking why, in the name of common sense, this spurge, to be paid for by Canadians, many of whom are trying to live on fixed and shrinking incomes. The ministers replied that it would be a 'low-key' affair.

"I had grave doubts about this being the case. To me it suggested another stunt to glorify Bennett and the Socreds. It has, as expected, moved into the front ranks of ostentatious nonsense. It is well that there are people in a position to call attention to these displays of political flummery. I am not a Communist, anti-monarchist or Socialist. I am just a retired Canadian who takes a dim view of pointless ceremony."

"As long as the Queen has friends like you she needs no enemies," writes Tom Hamilton.

"Heads of the state do not have, or need, the common touch. They are a symbol to be respected, not necessarily to fraternize with. Great Britain pays the costs of the Royal Yacht Britannia and as they are prepared to pay these costs Canada need have no complaints.

"The Queen is here on a visit requested by the Government of British Columbia and last year was on a visit to help establish Canada's sovereignty in the North, once again at the request of the Canadian government.

"You have no call to talk about the common touch for the Queen while Pierre-Elliott Trudeau is flitting around in a jet designed to carry a couple of hundred people and not always on state business, but on personal holidays. The pilot of this plane, an ex-chief pilot of Air Canada, is getting paid over twice what the British rear-admiral in Britannia is paid. If we want the common touch we could have the Prime Minister of Canada in the tourist section of Air Canada.

"Possibly you have lost the common touch, yourself, as witness your remarks on Quebec. Hardly the common feelings of the rest of Canada. You should have served in uniform in Montreal during the Second World War when you were a third class citizen and much of the city out of bounds to people wearing the uniform of the Canadian Forces."

"Having just finished reading your views about Britannia I send you congratulations and my unreserved endorsement," writes T.A. "It was very, very good. Being an anti-royalist I would have added one final 'Why, Why Elizabeth?'"

"The maintenance of British prestige throughout the world with the help of the Royal Navy, a long, continuing tradition, has paid rich dividends for Britain and the Commonwealth," writes R. L. S. "Britannia is continuing that tradition and to knock it is simply stupid. You say that it is costing $40,000 a week to keep Britannia and her 255-member crew in Esquimalt dockyard. In fact, it is probably a good deal more than that. But these officers and men would be paid in any event and are simply performing a peace-time exercise that is in keeping with the record of the best navy in the world."

"It is interesting to note that Britannia was designed to be both a royal yacht in peace time and hospital ship in time of war," notes Ronald Meighan. "Perhaps this whole visit of the vessel to Victoria could be justified if the ship were made available to those large numbers in this area awaiting operations, but unable to find a hospital bed. When are we ever going to have a world in which common sense will triumph?"

"In your beastly article of last Friday you miss the whole point of Britannia's visit here while the Queen is our guest," writes Mrs. Myrtle Jones. "The yacht was necessary entirely for security reasons to guard Her Majesty from hippie agitators and French-Canadian anarchists. Would you deny her that protection?"

By PETER McNELLY

How did the approximately 400 census interviewer jobs in Greater Victoria get filled with almost no advance publicity?

To answer this question, the Times conducted a telephone survey Tuesday of 14 of the 16 census commissioners in the region who handled applications for interviewer jobs.

Most commissioners said they received more applications than they could fill, but several said they couldn't discuss anything because all statements should come from the census's southern Vancouver Island regional office representative Ward Palmer. Palmer confirmed Tuesday that testing of the interviewers has finished. Beyond stating this, he referred all further questions to the census office with the Dominion Bureau of Statistics in Vancouver.

Vancouver officials said it is impossible to be specific about the way each commissioner — there are 197 in British Columbia — went about taking applications.

However, one official, Clare Thompson, said the office's administrative duties would have been simplified had all interviewer positions been advertised.

But Thompson said these jobs, which last about three weeks and pay about $200, never have been advertised.

Asked about criticisms from Progressive Conservative house leader Gerald Baldwin of lack of competition for both commissioner and interviewer jobs, Thompson said Baldwin ought to remember that when the Tories ran the country in 1961 the census was organized and conducted the same way as this year.

Vancouver bureau director Robert Kincaid said today his staff never concerns itself with the religion or politics of census commissioners.

However, it is clear that no organized attempt was made in Greater Victoria to recruit unemployed people.

While several commissioners said they took names of everyone who applied, the University of Victoria Canada Manpower centre and the Victoria Low Income Group's youth division said today they never were contacted.

Commissioner Arthur Cuthbert who had several students applying for interviewer positions said they did better on the test than the older people.

But Kincaid pointed out that students are not always the best people for the job, because they have to quit if they find a full-time work for the summer.

Because the law requires that census questionnaires be completed, a great deal of follow-through work falls to the commissioners. An efficient interviewing staff will help reduce the number of call-backs.

The census begins May 25, and is expected to continue into July when the commissioners should have completed the necessary check-ups on people who have delayed completing the questionnaires.

Paralysed Mother Moved Near Home

A 30-year-old mother of five, paralysed since 1968 from a car accident, today left St. Joseph's Hospital for the first time — to another hospital bed in Trail.

Still, for Mrs. Joyce Pedersen, it's the happiest day she's known in a long time.

It will be easier for her children to visit her, since they are now living with her parents in Creston.

Mrs. Pedersen has been hospitalized since the day 2½ years ago the car she was driving in alone crashed through a Malahat guardrail and plunged down an embankment.

Once she is taken off the charter plane today, it will be the first time in two years since she's seen her sons Karl, 3, and Stephen, 9.

Robert, 11, Elaine, 4, and Gordon, 8, were able to see their mother a year ago.

"It's going to be wonderful to be able to get to know each other again," Mrs. Pedersen said.

Unable to lift a hand, she has managed to read books.

Almost on cue, she says, there was always an orderly or nurse on hand when it came time to turn a page.

Beside her bed this morning was a huge carton of gifts from the staff.

MRS. JOYCE PEDERSEN
... happiest day in ages

"They've been wonderful — they made me one of the gang."

Is she downhearted at the prospect of another long hospital stretch?

"Not a bit. My husband, Maynard, is a corporal in the navy. He'll be away a lot at sea. It's just so good to know that I'll be near the children."

LACK OF FUNDS REGRETTE

$22 a Minute for Visit

"My only regret is that we can't spend more," said a Victoria city official when told the city has budgeted only $1,700 for the Queen's visit Monday.

The city's budget was compared to that of Burnaby in the Lower Mainland, which has budgeted $2,993 for a 20-minute visit the following Friday.

This means that while Burnaby is spending $150 per minute of visit, Victoria has prepared for $22 a minute, and a city official says it will probably be as little as $16 a minute.

Anyone Need Leaves?

Gardeners in need of decomposed leaves for their flower beds can have all they want, compliments of Oak Bay municipality.

Piled on Cedar Hill Cross Road, immediately west of the Victoria Riding Academy and set back from the road a certain distance, the leaves were collected as part of the municipality's leaf-clearing program for boulevard trees.

Some of the leaves have been decomposing for 18 months while others were collected this winter.

IDEALLY, A MAN should get a haircut every four weeks or even oftener. But a gap exists between life as it should be and as we find it. I take my thack to Alec the barber only when gables have begun to project past my ear-tips.

This isn't because I dislike getting my hair cut. As a matter of fact, life offers few interludes more restful. The scissors snip, the clippers purr, and the customer sits comfortably islanded between past and future.

If your life is reasonably busy, that's not a bad position to occupy for a while. It encourages relaxation, which the dentist's chair does not, and is conducive to free-form thinking.

It can also lead to an amiable exchange of ideas — and here let me dispart a canard that has somehow attached itself to the tonsorial trade.

Barbers are popularly supposed to be chatterboxes, but I've never found them to be so. Alec, to whom I go for shearing, is no exception.

This doesn't mean that he's tongue-tied. He is perfectly willing to oblige the customer who wants to talk. But he also recognizes the virtue of silence, particularly on subjects of no great consequence.

On my earlier visits to his shop, neither of us had much to say. Then one spring day I turned up with a batch of seed-packets jammed in a side pocket. Before Alec had finished liberating my offside ear, we had begun to talk about gardening.

And not any old gardening, either. In a leisurely process of discovery, we narrowed the

Ask The Times

Q. Could you please tell us where Mr. Loffmark is from and what he did before going into politics? Also, what are his qualifications for his present job?—M.L.

A. Health Minister Ralph R. Loffmark, 51, was born in North Vancouver. He earned his BA degree in political science and economics from the University of Toronto in 1942 and his law degree from Osgoode Hall, Toronto, in 1949. He is a member of the bar in both Ontario and B.C. He received a master's degree in business administration from the University of Pennsylvania in 1951 and his chartered accountant's degree in B.C. three years later. Prior to being elected M.L.A. for Vancouver-Point Grey in 1963 he was a professor in the faculty of commerce at UBC.

Plainly, a spark had been struck, and a topic settled on that was worth pursuing.

A vegetable garden demands time as well as effort. For lack of time, I'd let our plot grass itself in. But I meant to plant another, smaller patch — one that would reintroduce us to gastronomic delights we missed.

New potatoes, for instance. Little carrots thinned from the row, also buttered beet-tops taller than any spinach.

Alec, his early planting already done, approved between snips. He didn't think the spring was too far advanced, and told me about a year when he had been forced by circumstance to plant much later.

Encouraged — and with the fit of my ancient gardening hat eased by Alec's scissor-work — I got busy with spade and mattock that evening.

We were eating our second-crop radishes, and I was overdue for another haircut, before I got around to Alec's shop again. Nothing much was said while he attended to the preliminary pruning. Then we picked up a conversation that had lain fallow for too many weeks.

How was his vegetable garden coming along?

Not too badly. And mine? Could be worse, I said. Presently we were talking about pesticides, which Alec had never used, and which I'd abandoned. Better, we agreed, to endure garden pests than to sprinkle abominations on a young crop.

Only what about the carrot fly, a marauder that can and will blast a row of promising tops if not discouraged.

Alec got in a few more judicious licks with comb and scissors. Then he came up with a suggestion from his vegetable gardener's lore. Plant marigolds between the carrot rows, or onions as some people preferred.

Next year, I flanked our carrot rows with onions. We never had better carrots. The onions turned out pretty well, too.

I'm overdue for another haircut, and one day soon will wait my turn for a session in Alec's chair.

He will set to work with calm efficiency... a man who has found his heft and balance in a world less orderly than a vegetable gardener creates for himself. Maybe this time we'll get around to the cultivation of tomatoes.

BUDGET AXE

Saanich Goes Slash-Happy

Saanich council heads into the home stretch tonight in its budget-cutting sessions.

The final mill rate is expected to be set either tonight or Thursday night. (See earlier story Page 33.)

Indications are that 4 mills of the provisional 7.32 mill increase will be cut by the end. So far, just over 3 mills have been cut.

But sewer charges have been increased by $10.05 a year for residents already connected and $3.75 for those yet to be served. This covers new construction and maintenance.

Still to be considered are the police department, law enforcement, welfare, planning, community grants, indoor recreation, debt, waterworks and capital expenditures under recreation and community services, including parks.

The axe has fallen heaviest on road work, where the provisional budget was more than chopped in half, saving about a quarter of a million dollars.

The saving, however, represents more of a deferred expenditure since the roads which were cut will need rebuilding, if not this year then next or the year after.

Although the meetings are open to the public, only one person has attended one meeting, in contrast to an attendance of anywhere from 20 upwards at regular council meetings.

One of the larger increases still to be considered is the police department, where the 1971 provisional budget is up $114,954 over 1970 expenditure of $824,096.

Reason for this increase is the one year's salary for 12 additional men approved in 1970.

The police department has increased in cost by $22,571 between 1967 and 1970, or $37,325 including the 1970 provisional budget — getting on for 75 per cent in five years.

BILL WALKER

With the Canadian Football League business managers in town for their annual meeting, the idea was this. Sports Editor Doug Peden would take on Jackie Parker of the B.C. Lions in golf. This would be a natural — two old pros on a neutral ground — the golf course. Besides they would be close on handicap, Peden playing to a seven, and Parker to a nine. But with a word of warning. The book on Parker said: "The best nine handicap you ever saw."

Thus the match was set. Pride would dictate the terms. There had been another plan, too, spawned in jest. It had been suggested that once the match was under way, your dutiful agent would arrive, politely inquire into Parker's well-being, check with Peden on the match, and if the outlook was unfavorable for a local victory, then the psyche job could begin. Could Parker stand the gaff?

Fortunately this idea was quickly dropped. In retrospect, you'll see why.

Because later that day, old faithful (that's your same agent) did show up at Uplands just as Parker, Peden, and the third member of their friendly group, Bob Coulter, were about to tee off at the 13th.

A southern drawl said "hi there." Then Peden appeared and remarked in what appeared to be significant fashion: "You're just in time. Jackie has me three down. I had to give him two strokes."

Doug had spilled everything. Was this a cue? No, it couldn't be.

Still, a start had to be made.

"You've been making news with your signings?" If the question was vague, the timing was awful.

"Yes, I think we've got some real good ones," said Parker of the signing of Michigan star quarterback Don Moorhead and Toronto Argos quarterback Tom Wilkinson.

The he addressed the ball.

"Smack!" Parker had hit his drive off line into the bushes on the right. Peden now was only two down.

"Jackie HAS been hitting the ball well." Peden offered in sympathy. Then he explained to Parker the position of the hole in relation to the two dead trees on the left of the fairway, as they teed up on 14.

"Anything really important coming up at the meetings here?" interjected the onlooker.

"There are 32 resolutions," answered Parker. "The schedule will be a problem," he added.

"Crack!" Parker had hit the ball well, mind, but had pushed it — far into the jungle. Peden now was only one down.

Then came the 15th, the dog-leg to the right. This was explained to the visitor.

"Do you play much?" said the interloper. It was too late. The full impact of such a question hit home. What would he (Parker) think?

"Not as much as I would like," he answered cordially enough. "Then I've had the flu, and boy it takes something out of you. I'm tired."

Now it was Peden's turn to flub his lines. While Parker's drive reached the corner, Peden was in tall timber.

"Is the club just about set?" the questioner was at least insistent about the Lions.

"Yes," answered the Lion boss, and promptly skulled his second into the ditch. But Peden was in no better shape and when Parker rammed in an eight-foot putt for a bogey six he was back on top by two.

Now it was 16, not a particularly difficult hole. Just tricky.

"How many quarterbacks have you got?" Being a quarterback himself, this would surely sell.

"We will have five, possibly six, at camp," was the information returned. Besides Moorhead and Wilkinson, there would be holdovers Paul Brothers and Vidal Carlin, and Pete Fulton from the University of California at Riverside.

"Whack!" Oh, boy! Parker was in the bush again. And Peden was only one down again.

"Gee, we talked about this sort of thing before," the questioner then confided. "We thought maybe we could psyche you, but it was only a joke. I hope it hasn't bothered you."

"Not the way I'm playing," Parker laughed, then promptly rammed in a 25-foot putt on 17 for a birdie two.

Besides being his second birdie of the day, he had ended both matches. Suddenly it was all over. The back nine concluded with bogey fives on the 18th.

Parker gratefully accepted all donations, then revealed, among other things, that:

He is looking forward to an improved performance from the Lions, and last year's record of 6 and 10 wasn't all that bad either, being the best since 1965.

There will be a training camp of 80 players, the biggest yet.

Trading is over unless, of course, something unforeseen develops.

The Jim Evenson contract dispute will be resolved at the end of next month when Alan Eagleson, Evenson's lawyer, returns from a business holiday trip to the Far East and Europe. The same goes for Eagleson's other clients, Greg Findlay, Jim Young and Ted Gerela.

And yes, Parker did make an offer to Russ Jackson of Ottawa, but that, in his (Parker's) opinion, Jackson didn't really want to come west anyway.

About his golf he quipped to Peden on parting: "If you couldn't get me today... I think I'll have the bills framed." Peden, for his part, was heard to mumble: "What was that crack about 'the best nine handicapper you ever saw'?" "Hmmm."

Break Open Tight Game For Series Lead

MONTREAL (CP)—The fifth game of the Stanley Cup semi-final Tuesday night between Montreal Canadiens and Minnesota North Stars was tightly contested for 50 minutes but then the roof fell in on the North Stars.

The Canadiens won 6-1. The teams battled through a scoreless opening period and after 40 minutes, Montreal held a 1-0 lead on a goal by Peter Mahovich and the North Stars held an 18-11 edge in shots on goal. Canadiens now lead the best-of-seven series 3-2, with the sixth game scheduled for Minnesota Thursday night.

"It was good hockey until the third period," said North Stars coach Jackie Gordon. "We had a meltdown."

And that was putting it mildly.

Guy Lapointe scored at 1:14 of the third period to put the Canadiens ahead 2-0, but 26 seconds later Danny Grant scored for Minnesota to put them right back into contention.

At 10:10, Peter Mahovich scored his second goal of the game and fifth of the playoffs, tipping in Lapointe's shot from the point.

At 12:50 John Ferguson scored for Montreal. Then Frank Mahovich notched his 10th goal of the playoffs at 13:41 and 54 seconds later Yvan Cournoyer rounded out the Canadiens' scoring spurge with his fifth goal of the playoffs.

"We got a goal back 26 seconds after they went ahead 2-0 in the third and then we flattened out," Gordon said.

"I think the key to our troubles was the chances we missed early in the game—that bothered us."

HAD CHANCES Grant said that both he and right winger Bill Goldsworthy had great chances early in the game, "but you have to give credit to Ken Dryden, he kept that puck out."

Dryden, the former All-American at Cornell, who was the key factor in Canadiens' upset win over Boston Bruins in the quarter-finals faced a total of 27 Minnesota shots.

He stymied Jude Drouin, Bobby Rousseau and Bill Goldsworthy in the first period after they each had worked their way free of Montreal defenders.

He also made good stops on shots by Lou Nanne, Drouin and Rousseau in the second period.

One of Dryden's saves on Drouin resulted in an ugly, red welt on the goaltender's right shoulder.

"It just caught me up here, where you don't really have much protection," said Dryden, pointing to the spot.

WASN'T READY Dryden also said he was not really ready on Grant's goal.

"I thought Drouin had lost the puck and I was surprised to see Grant get it."

Grant, a former Canadian, took Drouin's centre pass and fired the puck past Dryden from the lip of the crease.

Canadiens' left winger John Ferguson was taken to hospital for overnight observation as a result of a sprained thigh muscle and may not be available for the sixth game Thursday night in Minnesota.

BRITISH BOXER Edges Drover

LONDON (CP)—Canadian Bill Drover lost a 10-round slugfest match with Jack Bodell Tuesday night but it was close enough to keep him on the trail of the British and Commonwealth heavyweight titles.

The 27-year-old Montrealer was cheered from the ring at Royal Albert Hall after Bodell, from the British Midlands, edged him out by three-quarters of a point in a fight that had the crowd in a steady uproar.

Cricket Draw Victoria's Select XI battled to a draw against a team from the royal yacht Britannia in an exhibition cricket match Tuesday in Beacon Hill Park.

HOCKEY TRAIL

AMERICAN LEAGUE: Springfield (6) Providence (3) (Springfield leads best-of-seven championship series 2-1.)

Grand Falls (3) Galt (1) (Best-of-five Eastern final tied 2-2.)

ONTARIO JUNIOR: St. Catharines (1) Toronto (4) (St. Catharines leads best-of-seven final 3-0.)

WESTERN CANADA: Flin Flon (4) Edmonton (3) (Flin Flon leads best-of-seven final tied 1-1.)

Baseball Returns

The Canadian baseball team has been reinstated as a member of the Pan American Games team, it was learned today.

An all-star team will be selected to compete in the Pan-American Games at Cali, Colombia, and will be under the direction of a manager and coach to be appointed by Canadian Federation of Amateur Baseball president Bob Lacourse of Saskatoon.

It has been reported that George Brice and Gordie Strongman of Victoria will be included on the team.

Earlier it was feared that baseball would be dropped from the official team because of an internal dispute in the CPAB. Gar Taylor, director of baseball for the Pan-Am team, Sunday relinquished all rights of the B.C. Baseball Association to field the nucleus of the Canadian team, in a bid to save the team.

CONTROVERSIAL Curt Flood, Washington Senators' outfielder wasn't in uniform Tuesday night when the Senators played Minnesota Twins. His uniform, No. 21, hung in the team dressing room. Flood had reportedly quit the club and was headed for Europe. Flood last year stayed out of baseball and sued baseball over reserve clause. See story on Page 21. (AP Wirephoto)

Aaron Wanted Win With 600

By The Associated Press
Records are made to be broken but winning, say Hank Aaron and Willie Stargell, is the name of the game.

"I was looking forward to hitting it in a winning game," said Aaron after becoming the third player in baseball history to hit 600 home runs. Atlanta Braves however, lost to San Francisco Giants 6-5 on Willie Mays' 10th-inning single Tuesday night.

"So what did it get me?" asked Stargell after belting his 11th home run of the season in Pittsburgh Pirates' 7-5 loss to Los Angeles Dodgers, wiping out the April record of 10 set in 1969 by Frank Robinson of Baltimore Orioles and matched last year by Cincinnati Reds' Tony Perez. "I'd rather have won."

Elsewhere in the National League Tuesday, New York Mets edged St. Louis Cardinals 2-1, Cincinnati trounced San Diego Padres 6-1, Houston Astros nipped Philadelphia Phillies 1-0 and the Montreal Expos-Chicago Cubs game was called off due to cold and wet grounds.

Aaron, whose 600 homers trails only Babe Ruth's 714 and Mays' 633, started his memorable evening with a run-scoring double in the first inning. It was his 542nd and tied him for eighth place on the all-time list with Harry Heilmann.

HITS FIRST PITCH The big home run came in the third inning on the first pitch from Gaylord Perry following Ralph Garr's infield single. The towering drive carried an estimated 350 feet.

"I knew the moment I hit it was gone," the 37-year-old Aaron isn't thinking about Ruth, though. "My next goal," he said, "is to hit the next one."

"If I get on a hot streak, the home runs will come," Aaron said.

SNAP STREAK The Mets snapped Steve Carlton's four-game winning streak Tuesday. They pushed across two runs off the Cardinal lefty in the third and Jerry Kosman, with relief help from Ken Singleton and Danny Frisella, posted his first victory.

Joe Torre of the Cards got three singles and stretched his hitting streak to 21 games.

In the American League, California Angels nipped Cleveland Indians 2-1, Baltimore Orioles trimmed Oakland Athletics 6-2, Washington Senators blanked Minnesota Twins 2-0, Milwaukee Brewers topped Boston Red Sox 4-2, Kansas City Royals trounced Detroit Tigers 8-1 and New York Yankees edged Chicago White Sox 6-2 in a 12-inning contest. (Linescores on Page 15).

Cowan Gains Third Round

PINEHURST, N.C. (CP)—Gary Cowan of Kitchener, Ont., and Wayne McDonald of Port Credit, Ont.—the only two Canadians in the field—advanced to the third round in the North and South Amateur Golf Tournament, Tuesday.

Cowan, the defending champion, defeated Len Jenard of Pawtucket, R.I. 6 and 5. McDonald defeated Alfred Sams, Macon, Ga., 2 up.

Hawks Return Favor With Overtime Win

Bobby Hull Gets Winner; Rangers Face Elimination

CHICAGO (CP)—Chicago Black Hawks gave New York Rangers a taste of their own medicine Tuesday night when they edged the Rangers 3-2 in overtime to take a 3-2 lead in their best-of-seven National Hockey League semi-final series.

The Rangers won the opening game of the series at Chicago when they erased a 1-0 lead with less than four minutes in regulation time, then won it in overtime.

"We won a couple like that and now we know what it feels like to lose one," Emile Francis, New York general manager-coach, said after the game. "It was a case of one shot, one win."

"It was a tough one to lose and a great one to win," Francis added. "That kind of game is up for grabs."

The Hawks took a 2-0 first-period lead, but the Rangers tied the score before the second period ended and the game went into overtime after a scoreless final period.

HULL SCORES WINNER It was Chicago's Golden Jet, Bobby Hull, who notched the winner at 6:35 of the first overtime period when Pit Martin beat New York's Walt Tkaczuk for the faceoff. Martin got the puck back to Hull, who whipped it past Ranger goaltender Ed Giacomin for his first goal in the series.

"Pit Martin made the play," Hull said. "He got the puck real clean to me off the faceoff and I just put it in one motion."

"The shot caught Eddie flat-footed. He didn't have a chance. It went to his left, just inside the post."

"They're a good hockey club," Hull said of the Rangers. "They're not beaten yet."

Martin said Tkaczuk had given him problems with the faceoff for most of the game.

"He was beating me all night," Martin said. "But finally in the third period I seemed to be getting my timing back."

"Bobby was patient," Martin added, "and it finally paid off."

MISSED IT "I made a move for it," Giacomin said of Hull's blast that won the game, "but I missed it. I couldn't reach it—that's all," he explained.

Giacomin was asked if his left hand, cut for five stitches in the opening game and re-opened Sunday when the Hawks beat the Rangers 7-1, gave him any problems.

"The hand feels good," Giacomin said. "It didn't hamper my play any."

Tony Esposito, who has been in Chicago's net for all nine Hawk playoff games, said he wasn't sure if the overtime win would help his club's play in New York Thursday when the teams meet for the sixth game of the series.

"I can't really say," Esposito said. "It's a funny situation. They'll be giving—but we'll be giving too," he added. "I'll just hope for the best."

Esposito straightened things out on the Rangers' tying goal.

COQUITLAM RALLY Begins Too Late

Coquitlam Adanacs found their legs too late Tuesday and allowed visiting Vancouver Burrards to pack off a second straight victory in the pre-season Sid Greenwood Memorial Trophy tournament for Western Lacrosse Association clubs.

Adanacs, who face Victoria Shamrocks tonight at 8 in Memorial Arena, were down 8-4 after the first two periods before catching fire—but still lost the match, 11-10.

Tonight's game in the final tournament encounter for the trophy will be between the Shamrocks and the Burrards, who open the regular season on Tuesday against Burrards in Vancouver.

Dave Litzenberger and Brian Davidson led Vancouver with three goals each. Veteran Ross McDonald added two while Bill Rawson, Spencer Rea and Dennis Quigley got one each.

Wayne Shuttleworth, playing his first game as an Adanac after several years with New Westminster, scored two goals and added an assist. Mike Gates and Doug Wallsmith also scored twice while Jim Aitchison, Bill Robinson, Kevin Parsons and Bill Bradley scored one apiece.

Centennials Take Overtime Verdict

VANCOUVER — With Neil Murphy taking care of the three regulation-time goals, Vancouver Centennials bounced from behind to defeat Kamloops Rockets 5-3 in overtime Tuesday and ward off defeat in the best-of-seven B.C. Junior Hockey League final series.

Rockets now lead the series, 3-2. Murphy opened scoring midway through the first period but Kamloops opened up a 3-1 lead on second period tallies by Jerry Holland, Lyle Harpe and Gary Howatt.

In the third period, Murphy came forward to score two more goals and send the game into overtime. Bob Lewis scored at 2:57 of the extra session and Bob Gaston added an insurance goal for Vancouver at 8:40.

Sixth game of the series is scheduled for Saturday in Kamloops.

CFL MANAGERS CONTINUE

... SESSION IN VICTORIA

Three College Players Picked

Managers of the nine Canadian Football League clubs continued their two-day meeting in Victoria today after holding a supplementary college draft and wrestling with problems connected with the 1972 playing schedule in lengthy sessions Tuesday at the Executive House.

Meeting in a non-league city for the first time, CFL commissioner Jack Gaudaur and the team managers hoped to wind up their meeting today after considering other things they believe affect the club and the league.

Gaudaur confirmed today that no other news is expected to be released since most of the decisions reached by the general managers' committee will be forwarded to the CFL executive committee in the form of recommendations.

In the session to select players who were not picked in the CFL's annual college draft, Ottawa Rough Riders took Jim Sheritt, a six-foot, two-inch, 225-pound tackle from Queen's University; British Columbia Lions picked John Beaton, a six-foot, 185-pound linebacker from Simon Fraser University; and Calgary Stampeders selected Wayne Morgan, a six-foot,

Yachtsmen Fail to Find Formula

LONDON (CP) — Yachtsmen from Britain, Canada and France failed to agree Tuesday on a formula to decide who will challenge the United States for the America's Cup.

Delegates from the Royal Thames Yacht Club of Britain, the Royal Vancouver Yacht Club of Canada and the French clubs — all challengers for the trophy — ended two days of talks with no agreement in sight.

Two Australian clubs, Royal

Sydney Yacht Squadron and the Royal Perth Yacht Club, who also have challenged, declined to send delegates to the meeting although there was an Australian observer present.

The New York Yacht Club, which had held the trophy for 130 years, has said that if the seven challengers cannot agree by June 1 it will decide for itself which challenge to accept.

The Canadian delegation said in a statement:

"The Canadian delegation is disappointed that unanimous agreement on such a critical issue has not been reached, even on compromise."

Neither the Canadians nor any other would say which country frustrated agreement. But there were indications that it was the French, with more than one challenger, who objected to a proposal for having each country select one contender before going into pre-race trials.

The delegates agreed on certain points — that the challenge will be made with an aluminum boat and that elimination races will be held off Newport, Rhode Island, the venue for the America's Cup itself.

They also agreed to ask the New York club to delay the cup races to 1974 from 1973.

This is because Lloyds, the shipping registration and certification authority, has not yet produced specifications for aluminum 12-metre yachts. In the past, the cup was always sailed with wooden boats.

George O'Brien, Vancouver businessman and member of the Canadian syndicate, said:

"Since the New York club has decided that wooden 12s are passe, no one would build a wooden 12 to go up against aluminum."

Other Canadians at the meeting were Ken Reid, a syndicate member, and Brian McDermott, who acted as spokesman, also from Vancouver.

Rolloffs Carded Sunday In Times Bowling Event

Dozens of members of the southern Vancouver Island pin-spilling set can be expected to have visions of cash and glory dancing through their heads for the next few days.

That's because Sunday is the date of the eighth annual rolloffs in the Times Bowler-of-the-Week contest and more than 100 bowlers are eligible to chase titles, trophies and money.

Bowler-of-the-Week titles will be up for grabs in each of four categories — men's and women's fivepinners, men's and women's tenpinners.

All fivepinners will start firing at 1 p.m. Sunday at Town and Country Lanes while tenpinners begin their three-game scrambles at 2:30 p.m. at Mayfair Lanes.

BONUS AWARDS

Each division winner will receive a Times Trophy and any rolloff champion who is a daily subscriber to the Victoria Daily Times will also collect a bonus award of $100.

All winners of Bowler-of-the-Week awards in each of the 26 weeks of competition this season are eligible for the rolloffs.

Regular tournament rules as determined by the lanes involved will be in force Sunday. Rolloffs consist of three-game scratch series and in the event of a first-place deadlock, the bowler rolling the highest single game in his (or her) series will be declared the winner.

STRONG CONTENDERS

Although each finalist must rate as a threat to finish on top, past performances suggest that four men and four women will rate extra attention in fivepin action Sunday, when rolloff pressure is liable to wreck many hopes.

Esther Dillon registered the highest distaff tally during the regular competition, hitting a 971 total in the 21st week and Fran Woodruff was close behind with a 957 series in the opening week.

Looking for a second Bowler-of-the-Week title are Mary Ball (1966-67) and Donna Brock (1968-70) who qualified during the 15th and third weeks, respectively.

TWO TOPPED 1,000

Only two male fivepinners posted over-1,000 series this season. Wally Weinberger qualified for rolloff competition with a 1,008 series in the ninth week and Marvin Larson recorded a 1,003 total during the eighth week.

Bowler-of-the-Week champions looking for a second title are Stan Jones (1963-64) and Bob Haime (1967-68).

Fivepin qualifiers, listed in order of the weeks in which they qualified:

Two Colwood Pairs Move to Semi-Finals

Anne Thomson and Anne Shields, tournament medalists from Royal Colwood, remained in the running for championship flight honors in the Victoria City and District women's two-ball foursome championship with a quarter-final victory Tuesday at Glen Meadows Golf Club.

The Colwood duo defeated Marjorie Goodland and Madge Nash of Victoria Golf Club 2 and 1 to advance to Thursday's semi-finals at Gorge Vale.

Another Colwood pair, Doreen Brunson and Marg Lupton, advanced with a 1-up victory over Jean Wright and Jean Rimmington of Victoria.

Gert Pumphrey and Peggy Matthews of Gorge Vale downed Martha Merryweather and Esther Barnes of Uplands 2-up while Sara Clement and Sophie Harwood of Mount Brenton finished 2-up on Kay Tribe and June Lovitt of Uplands in other quarter-final matches.

Finals are scheduled for Friday at Royal Colwood.

GENERAL AGREES... A LOUSY COUNTRY

SAIGON (UPI) — The generation gap may be alive in Vietnam but the older soldiers sometimes try to break it down.

Two obviously drunk American soldiers stumbled into the headquarters compound of the U.S. military command just outside Saigon. One of them spotted the car of a three-star general.

"Hey, general!" he yelled at the top of his lungs. "I've only got 12 hours left to go in Vietnam, general. You hear me, general? In 12 hours I'll be on my way out of this lousy country."

The general guided his car over toward the soldier, rolled down the window of the air-conditioned vehicle, stuck his head outside, and said:

"Right on, troop."

Then he drove off.

Welk Not Finished... The Show Goes On

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — All right, you authors of 50,000 letters of protest over the cancellation of Lawrence Welk's television show, here's the scoop:

Come September and his termination by ABC, the maestro will go right on doing his weekly program over a 121-station, videotape "network." His producer says it could bring Welk more viewers than ever.

At least two other cancelled shows also are fighting back. Hee Haw, dropped by CBS after two years, plans to start shooting 26 new programs in June and distribute them to stations by telephone lines or possibly on mailed tape.

Lassie, parted from CBS, plans tape syndication to stations agreeing to air the program at the same early Sunday evening hour kiddies have been seeing it for 17 years.

***

Welk says he was "crushed" when ABC recently ended his 16 years on the network. At 68, the squire of square music adds, he should be thinking of retirement but he's "having too much fun." Besides, there was the welfare of his "musical family" — 45 performers plus others behind the scenes — to consider.

His sponsor offered continued support, and Welk's long-time producer, Don Feddersen, decided to create "our own syndicated network."

DEVICE TO TRIGGER BLOOD SURGE TO BRAIN

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — A device which sets off a brief surge of blood to the brain may prevent aircraft, truck and ship accidents caused by human exhaustion, a physician says.

Dr. Stanley Ziemnowicz said Monday the device would automatically force the heart to bathe the brain with extra energy-supply blood whenever a pilot, truck driver or ship helmsman reached the point of dangerous fatigue.

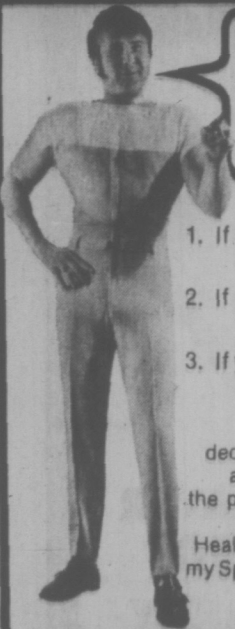

Ziemnowicz, of the Brain Research Foundation in Bethesda, Md., told the annual scientific meeting of the Aerospace Medical Association that excessive fatigue can be detected by sensors monitoring blood flow to the brain.

A lower level of blood flow, he said, indicates the person is approaching a drop in alertness.

The sensors could then set in motion blood pressure cuffs attached to the subject's upper arms, he said. The cuffs would pinch off the flow of blood to the person's arms and force a surge of blood to the brain.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Curt Flood has quit baseball again.

The once-great player who was talked out of retirement while his $3.1-million suit against Washington Senators unexpectedly Tuesday and was reported en route to Europe.

The 33-year-old outfielder sent a telegram to Senators' owner Robert Short just prior to the Washington-Minneapolis Twins game.

"I tried. A year and one-half is too much. Very serious personal problems mounting.

Thanks for your confidence and understanding, Flood."

Short, manager Ted Williams and his team-mates said Flood's departure was caused primarily by personal problems and not the poor spring he's had in a baseball uniform.

WILLIAMS FEELS BAD

"I personally feel bad that he's gone," said Williams.

"There wasn't a guy on the club with a better attitude. . . . I hope he comes back. . . . This guy has a hell of a lot of problems."

Flood quit baseball in 1969 when he was traded from St. Louis Cardinals, for whom he played 12 seasons, to Philadelphia Phillies. He refused to report.

He sat out the 1970 season in Copenhagen, Denmark, while suing baseball over its reserve clause which binds a player to one club for life or until he's traded.

Short induced him to return to baseball for $110,000. In the meantime, he lost his case in federal court and said he would appeal to the Supreme Court.

HAD TOUGH SPRING

It was a difficult spring for Flood, who conceded he had trouble getting back into shape in the glare of unwelcome publicity.

Flood opened in centerfield for the Senators at the start of the season but was lifted twice for defensive purposes.

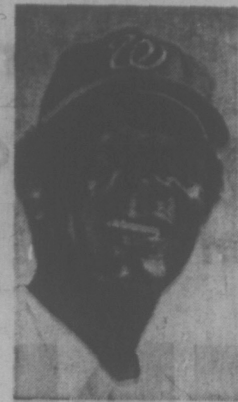

He was then taken out of the lineup against right-handed pitchers. His last start was April 20 against the Yankees in New York.

"The manager, the team and the front office would like to have him back," Short told a hastily-called news conference. "We don't know why he's doing what he's doing."

Flood had a lifetime average of .293, with 1,854 hits, in 12 years with the Cardinals. He was hitting .200 with seven hits in 35 times at bat in 13 games with Washington this season. "His attitude and manner have been great," Short said.

Short said one of his representatives reached Flood at Kennedy International Airport before he departed for Spain "but he was unable to talk him out of going."

Flood, father of five children, is divorced. He is reported to have lost money in a restaurant venture in Copenhagen. To recoup those losses and to pay lawyers' fees for his suit against baseball were reasons he signed with the Senators.

Buckaroos Take Title

PORTLAND (AP) — Goalie Jim McLeod turned in a brilliant performance Tuesday night, stopping 38 Phoenix shots as Portland Buckaroos skated to a 5-0 triumph over the Roadrunners to win their third Lester Patrick Cup in 11 Western Hockey League seasons.

Portland won the best-of-seven playoff final in five games.

Kenny Campbell scored twice for the Buckaroos, getting his first goal after only 24 seconds. He capped a 3-0 opening period with his second goal at 11:49.

Art Jones drilled a power-play shot from the point for Portland's other goal in the first period.

Portland, playing before a crowd of 10,607, scored twice in the second period on goals by Rich van Impe and Bill Saunders. It was the third largest playoff crowd in Portland's history.

Portland also won the Patrick Cup in 1961—its first year in the league — and again in 1965.

Probes by RCMP Called Repugnant

OTTAWA (CP) — The use of the RCMP to investigate persons who have applied to have their criminal records erased is defeating the aim of the legislation, Senator Earl Hastings (L-Alberta) argued in the Senate Tuesday.

"The use of the RCMP is unnecessary and repugnant to anyone with an appreciation of the journey that these people have had to make," Senator Hastings said during debate on his motion that the Senate legal affairs committee study operation of the erasure law passed in the last session of Parliament.

"The logical and only agency to perform this task, if an investigation is necessary at all, is the National Parole Board and its officers."

Senator Louis Philippe Beaubien (L-Quebec) disagreed, saying "if you want this civilization of ours to go on, you have got to stop sob-sousing about crooks, you have got to look at the honest citizen."

"The honest citizen is not getting protected and all this talk about criminals is just a lot of nonsense."

As far as using RCMP for investigating records applications, "the only police force that polices all of Canada knows what is going on."

Senator J. Harper Prowse (L-Alberta) called for compassion and understanding of criminals because "we are men and men in prisons are men."

Senator Hastings said the investigations should be conducted by parole officers because they had a profound knowledge and a deep understanding of the men with whom they work.

The only reason the RCMP was being used was cost, Senator Hastings said.

Senator Beaubien said no society has survived if law and order was not kept.

"A seasoned judge gives a hardened criminal so many years in prison, and then these bleeding hearts come around a few years later, let him out and he starts all over again."

Under the Criminal Records Act, the records of persons granted pardons are kept from public view. Pardons may be granted five years after the completion of a prison sentence, a probation period having been completed or a fine having been paid. Granting pardons is up to the federal cabinet.

Manitoba Minister Found in Contempt

WINNIPEG (CP) — Highways Minister Joe Borowski today was held in contempt of court for public remarks critical of a Dauphin magistrate.

Mr. Justice Israel Nitikman, terming the minister's remarks "malicious and shocking," gave a one-year suspended sentence on conditions Mr. Borowski go to Dauphin and apologize in court to Magistrate F. M. Manwaring within 60 days.

In a brief interview with reporters outside the court, the outspoken minister refused to say whether he would make the apology.

In making his ruling in Court of Queen's Bench, Mr. Justice Nitikman cited comment by Mr. Borowski on a ruling made by Magistrate Manwaring in a case involving the minister.

Mr. Borowski had described the magistrate's decision as "so blatant and so judicially improper, that I can only come to one conclusion, that it was motivated by political considerations."

CASE PENDING

These remarks, said Mr. Justice Nitikman, were calculated to bring the magistrate into contempt.

Hoof Abuse Brings Signs

Signs will be posted at Sooke schools warning horse riders not to ride across playing fields.

Horsemen apparently like to take their mounts across the grounds during evenings and on weekends, school trustees were told Tuesday. Dunsuir Junior Secondary and Sooke and Langford elementary have received the most hoof abuse.

Elizabeth Fisher Junior vice-principal James Russell will succeed Belmont Senior principal Archibald Stephenson, who will become assistant district superintendent.

The board ratified a tentative agreement with its employees, members of the Canadian Union of Public Employees, which will give them a 7.7 per cent wage increase.

The application to have Mr. Borowski cited for contempt was brought last month by Norman Anger of Dauphin, who has a case pending against the minister in the western Manitoba town.

Mr. Anger, a highways department employee suspended by Mr. Borowski and later ordered reinstated by the Civil Service Commission, has charged Mr. Borowski personally under the Vacations with Pay Act with failing to pay him holiday wages owed at the time of suspension.

Mr. Borowski's motion to have the case against him dismissed as frivolous and vexatious was rejected by Magistrate Manwaring, and it was on this ruling that the minister's critical remarks were based.

Magistrate Manwaring has not yet heard the case against Mr. Borowski.

At the March 31 hearing on the contempt charge, Mr. Borowski's counsel said the minister did not deny making the remarks.

"It was not his intention to be contemptuous but he admits they may be construed as such," said lawyer Charles Hubbard.

EXCUSE NOT ACCEPTABLE

In giving judgment, Mr. Justice Nitikman said:

"I can think of no imputation more scandalizing and more calculated to bring the court into contempt or to lower its authority."

"It is no excuse to suggest that the respondent (Borowski) is just an ordinary individual, uninformed and misguided; that he is quick-tempered, often speaking without thinking or appreciation of the harm that may result therefrom."

"He made a malicious and shocking charge. It would be inexcusable even as infantile rudeness. The statement was not only intemperate and insulting, it denigrated the reputation for integrity and probity the courts of this province have always justly enjoyed and taken pride in."

"I have no hesitation in finding it was calculated to bring the provincial magistrate's court in Dauphin and the learned magistrate who presides over it into contempt and to lower its authority."

CHABOT REVIEWS HOSPITAL STRIKE

A delegation of four representing strikers at the Sandringham Private Hospital was to meet with Labor Minister James Chabot at 3 p.m. today.

The meeting was requested by the strike representatives in order to review the seven-month-old strike with Chabot.

The four are Jim Beaubien, who organized private hospital workers in Victoria last year, Alex Markides, area representative for the Canadian Union of Public Employees, Mrs. Mildred Thorn, president of CUPE local 1311 which covers the unionized workers at four private hospitals, and Mrs. Kay Hornsby, president of the Sandringham unit.

On Tuesday 22 demonstrators, most of them women, picketed the Vancouver offices of National Nursing Homes Ltd., the firm which manages the Sandringham. Pickets included members of the Women's Caucus, union officials and secretaries.

In Oak Bay, picketers now are appearing each morning at the site of a proposed $4½ million retirement centre to be built by National Nursing Homes. The site is at the corner of Cadboro Bay and Bowker.

GALLUP POLL

Most Favor Retaining Public Order Act

BY THE CANADIAN INSTITUTE OF PUBLIC OPINION (World Copyright Reserved)

Government action in regard to the emergency Public Order Act, follow-up to the War Measures Act involved in the Quebec crises last fall, and due to be withdrawn this month, is taken with most Canadians feeling that it should be continued in some form. This opinion is held despite a reminder that it is in force at the expense of certain civil rights. Nationally, 58% think it should not be withdrawn at the present time, while half the number, 28%, hold that it should.

But if Canadians were divided into the young, versus the old, the situation would be very different, as young people are split into two almost equal segments on the debate, with a slight preference for withdrawing the controversial Act. Those in their 20s vote 46% for its withdrawal, compared to 42% who want it continued in some form. Those who are 50 or more are very heavily on side of continuing it, with 66% of this opinion, compared to 20% who think it should no longer be in force.

It is among the English-speaking citizens where belief that the act should remain is highest (61%) as compared to a rather lower level among French-speaking Canadians (56%) and those in the other ethnic groups (53%).

Both men and women react in much the same way to what should be done about the controversial act.

The question: "Canada's Emergency Public Order Act, passed to deal with the FLQ crisis in Quebec, ends in April. At the expense of certain civil rights, this act makes it easier for police authorities to arrest suspects, and keep them in jail. Do you think this act should be withdrawn, or do you think it should be continued in some form?"

	Should be Withdrawn	Should Not	Undecided

Pacific Centre Dust 'Hazard'

VANCOUVER (CP) — Representatives of seven unions involved in construction of a 30-storey building in downtown Vancouver were to meet today to discuss claims the men are exposed daily to a toxic dust that causes lung cancer.

Sheet metal worker Gerald Macdonald said Tuesday there is concern in Britain and the United States over dangers of asbestos spraying in the construction industry.

"In New York," he said, "all spraying was ordered stopped last year until new regulations could be drawn up to control the asbestos pollution."

Mr. Macdonald, who works daily in the pall of white dust that hangs on some floors of the Pacific Centre, said the health threat will remain for the life of the building, which is to house a department store and offices.

He said dust now falling into unprotected air ducts and left underfloor without a special sealer will circulate the 30 floors continually.

"Before the glass was put in the centre the dust blew everywhere," he said, "but now the glass is in then it just stays inside. They spray half a floor a day here and the dust just comes into your lungs all the time you are working anywhere in the centre."

SAYS LEVELS SAFE

A spokesman for the Workers' Compensation Board, which tested the air-asbestos content at the centre last fall, said the test showed the air allowed the workers to operate safely at the present asbestos-content levels.

"We have to follow the rules," he said. "They are set by the American Conference of Government Industrial Hygienists and they are the only standards we have."

George Corness, a shop steward of the electricians union, said his union members work alongside exposed asbestos. He said that every time they rub against the insulation they breathe the dust.

Crawford McRoberts, building superintendent of a nearby hotel, said he complained to the construction company after asbestos dust drifted through hotel windows and into air ducts.

Don McTavish, construction manager for Pacific Centre, said "there are no restrictions in Canada on the use of this insulation. The waste is taken off in containers and left in the dump."

Parking Hot Issue In Sidney

Parking changes on Beacon Avenue, Sidney's main street are a hot issue which Sidney council is approaching cautiously.

A traffic survey completed by municipal employees has been studied by the long range advisory planning committee which Monday night recommended to council that present angle parking be changed to parallel parking "at the earliest possible date."

It also recommends one-hour parking from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday to Saturday, instead of the present two-hour restriction.

Ald. Hugh Hollingworth, chairman of the planning committee and a Beacon Avenue businessman, said he had not initially been enthusiastic about parallel parking.

"But after reading the survey information, I would have to support the change."

Mayor Stand Dear appointed Ald. Hollingworth to work with professional advisors on the changes.

Chamber of Commerce for Sidney and North Saanich has already registered disapproval of parallel parking in a letter to Council.

The problems of safety caused by increased traffic and escalating number of minor collisions are cited as the obvious reason for changes in the parking pattern. Better traffic flow and improved aesthetics will be an added bonus, according to provincial engineers whose comments are included in the survey.

The survey, said Mayor Dear, will also be useful in studying the present commercial zoning bylaw with regard to improving parking regulations.

An example of what Ald. Hollingworth termed "an old-fashioned" bylaw is the stipulation that 57 parking spaces are needed before a 12-lane bowling alley developer can be given a building permit.

Chamber of Commerce protested this ruling on suggesting that two off-street parking units per lane would be adequate. Council will seek a recommendation from the building inspector.

Before the Judge

A 28-year-old man who kept a loaded sawed-off rifle in his bed at the Salvation Army Hostel was given a suspended sentence and placed on a six months probation Tuesday for possession of a restrictive weapon. Gerhard Steinlechner was also prohibited from carrying a weapon for two years. He pleaded guilty.

The rifle, a .22-calibre sawed-off weapon about 12 inches long, was confiscated by the court.

A police officer said the weapon was found by investigating officers in the accused's bed at the hostel about 10 a.m. Monday with a shell in the breach. Steinlechner was not there at the time.

When the man was apprehended at the hostel an hour and a half later, he had 23 shells in his possession, the officer said.

The accused told officers he had the gun for about 12 years and cut it down himself 12 years ago.

Delores E. Weightman, 20, of 2612 Blackwood, was fined $250 when she pleaded guilty to shoplifting a pair of sunglasses from The Bay about 4:20 p.m. Monday.

Arlene P. Coughlin, 18, of 37 Oswego, was given one-day concurrent sentences for causing a disturbance by shouting and for breach of probation.

Ostler also ruled that the girl continue on the probation given in Ladysmith last February.

The accused had pleaded guilty to the Victoria offences Monday, the disturbance offence occurring in the 1400-block Government about 9:45 a.m. April 24.

Linda Mullett, 21, of 2540 Sooke, was fined $300 in traffic court for driving with a blood-alcohol content over .08 per cent.

She was prohibited from driving for three months except on business.

John Walker, 28, of 701 Esquimalt, was fined $250 for driving with a blood-alcohol content over .08 per cent and prohibited from driving for two months.

Brian Hamilton Watson, 22, of 1225 Styles, was committed for trial in a higher court following a preliminary hearing last week on two counts of possession of stolen property. Bail was set at $500.

Nine-Mill Hike Up for Approval At Nanaimo

NANAIMO (CP) — Nanaimo ratepayers face a nine per cent increase this year.

The mill rate, set by council Monday and due for ratification next week, is 89.86 mills, up by 7.5 mills from 1970.

It represents an increase of about $35 in taxes on the average city home.

For the 1,501st Time... Robarts Has Really Retired

By DENNIS BELL

TORONTO (CP) — John Parmenter Robarts poked a chunk of pepper off his scrambled eggs with a shiny fork and muttered patiently, for the 1,501st time: "No, no. I've absolutely no intention of going into federal politics."

The honorable member of the Ontario legislature for London North, who retired as the province's 17th premier March 1 after nine years in office, said he'd been asked the question on at least 1,500 previous occasions.

"But you guys won't believe me. Really, I've retired—from politics at least, though I'm still in the house representing London North. I'm not the premier of Ontario any more."

Mr. Robarts kicked the idea around a little more.

"You've got to remember that I left voluntarily. It was my decision. I didn't get pitched out. I enjoyed my years as premier thoroughly but I decided to leave and I left. And that's that."

STILL LOOKS PART

But for some inexplicable reason, Mr. Robarts still looks like the premier of Ontario and leader of the provincial Progressive Conservatives, though everybody knows he isn't.

"I find I have a lot more time now to deal with matters arising in my home constituency. I'm enjoying it. The work is still there but there's a lot less pressure."

Mr. Robarts is carefully steering an apolitical course during his final months in the legislature—he will not seek the Tory nomination in London North for the next provincial election, expected later this year.

"I won't comment on the new budget. I won't talk about federal-provincial relations, I won't comment on the performance of Premier (William) Davis' new administration. Ask the premier. Is there anything else you would like to know?"

Mr. Robarts said he's spending a lot of time these days preparing documents and papers for presentation to the provincial archives, but still hasn't given any serious thought to writing his memoirs.

"Everybody asks me that one too."

In the meantime, he's trying to get his law practice back on the tracks here and in London, where his wife and two teen-aged daughters reside.

The 53-year-old former premier has reactivated his interest in the London firm of Robarts, Betts, McLennan and Finn and earlier this month joined the Toronto firm of Stikeman, Elliot, Robarts and Bowman.

In mid-April Mr. Robarts also was named a director of Reed, Shaw and Osler Ltd., a London-based insurance brokerage firm with offices in Montreal, Toronto, Winnipeg, Saskatoon, Regina, Calgary, Edmonton and Vancouver.

Despite all he has said and done to the contrary, there still lurks the suspicion that John Robarts is too young to call it quits in politics, that he has acquired a taste for public life and the know-how to get wherever he wants to go.

And there has been talk of offering him some kind of a mediatory role in federal-provincial relations, though Mr.

Robarts said he hasn't heard a word from Ottawa.

"I repeat. I have retired. I have absolutely no intention of returning to politics."

Forever and ever?

"You people always want to nail down everything in absolutes. Who can say what the situation will be five years from now? I can't say absolutely that I'll never be back in politics."

That makes 1,501st denials.

Train Beds Cost Hiked

MONTREAL (CP)—Increased fares for sleeping car accommodation, designed to bring revenues closer to costs for sleeping and dining car services, will be introduced June 1, the CNR announced Tuesday.

Alexander Olynik, general manager of passenger sales and services, said the increases are in line with the recent directives of the Canadian Transport Commission that the railways try to reduce the losses on these services.

On a "White" day under CN's Red, White and Blue fare plan, the new rates on the Montreal-to-Vancouver run will go up to $127 from $115, Montreal-to-Halifax to $42.50 from $37.50, Montreal-to-Toronto to $27.50 from $25.50 and Montreal-to-Winnipeg to $65 from $59.

The new rates cover transportation, roomette accommodation and meals.

Recipes

Jean's Pork Chop Casserole

- 4 pork chops
- 2 tbsps. oil
- 1 large onion, peeled and chopped
- 1 well rounded tablespoon flour
- 2 tps dry mustard
- 1 cup stock or water
- 2 tps Worcestershire sauce
- 1 tbspn. tomato ketchup
- 3 cloves
- salt to taste

Trim the chops and lightly brown them in the hot fat. Remove from pan. Fry the onion until golden. Stir in flour and mustard, cook, stirring constantly until lightly browned. Remove from heat; gradually add stock, Worcestershire sauce, tomato ketchup, cloves and salt. Place chops in sauce, or place in a casserole and pour the sauce over them. Cover and simmer gently on top of stove or in a 325 degree oven for 45 minutes or until cooked.

Food News

Judging good value in food one of housewives big jobs

When to pay a few pennies more on higher quality product or to buy a more economical brand is a dilemma that faces a homemaker just about every time she goes shopping. A good rule of thumb is to choose a brand that you know your family likes, even though it's a bit more than another if it's in a food that really matters. For example, a brand of ketchup that your family really digs may be a better buy than another brand on sale, and it's generally worth the difference to give your spouse the coffee he likes even at regular price. However, there may be other foods at your house that are satisfying in several brands and so you can choose the one that offers the best price that week. One thing you can be sure of, at Woodward's we offer the biggest choice of brands and consistently good value on all of them.

Royal Tour On Schedule, Says Wallace

Speculation that next week's royal tour of British Columbia will be cancelled because of illness was termed "ungrounded" Tuesday by Deputy Provincial Secretary L. J. Wallace.

Wallace said he had received a telephoned message from Buckingham Palace that Queen Elizabeth had gone to Sandringham Castle "hoping to throw off a heavy cold in order that she can come to British Columbia."

"They wanted to reassure us that this action was taken to protect the British Columbia visit," Wallace said.

"Any speculation of the Royal Family not coming to British Columbia is ungrounded," he added.

The statement came following reports from London that the Queen's physicians had advised her to cancel any activities prior to leaving for B.C.

ROUTES

Wallace released details of motorcade routes to be followed by the Queen in Victoria May 3 and 4.

He also announced that a 1,000-voice choir from School District 61 will sing at the official provincial welcome which begins at 10 a.m. Tuesday at the Legislative Building.

The choir will be directed by Harry Bigsby, district supervisor of music and will be accompanied by the Reynolds Junior-Senior Secondary band.

Two other bands will also perform — the Shoreline Junior Secondary Band at the CPR dock and the Lansdowne Junior Secondary band at Heritage Court.

LOCALLY WRITTEN

The choir will sing "Go, British Columbia," the centennial song written by Bobby Gimby, and a locally-written song called "For This Is British Columbia."

The composers are Greg Davidson and Richard Margison, Grade 12 students at Claremont Secondary. They will sing the verses, with Richard playing guitar and Greg playing the electric organ.

Cheerleaders from Oak Bay Secondary will also do a routine.

Wallace said every effort has been made to design the motorcade routes and events to give everyone an opportunity to see the royal visitors.

"We hope tens of thousands will come to the Legislative Building grounds," he said, adding that all streets in the immediate area would be closed off at 8:30 a.m. Tuesday.

"Early arrival is advised," he said.

Following is the detailed schedule of motorcade routes for the royal family May 3 and 4.

TIMES

After arriving Monday at 6:45 p.m. in the Inner Harbor on the yacht Britannia, the royal party leave by car at 7:05 p.m. for city hall, travelling east on Belleville, north on Government, east on Fort, north on Cook, west on Yates, north on Blanshard, west on Pandora.

At 7:30 p.m. the royal family will arrive at the Pandora entrance to city hall and at 7:35 p.m. at Centennial Square through which they will walk to Douglas Street.

From there, at 7:40 p.m., the parade proceeds south on Douglas, west on Pandora, south on Government, west on Yates, south on Wharf, east on Humboldt, south on Government, west on Belleville, north on Menzies to dock and Britannia.

On Tuesday, all streets in the vicinity of the Legislative Buildings will be blocked to traffic from 8:30 a.m. until after the official provincial welcome ends at 11 a.m.

To the sound of a 21-gun salute, the Queen, the Duke of Edinburgh and Princess Anne will disembark from Britannia at 10 a.m. and proceed east on Belleville, south on Government, west on the main driveway in front of the Legislative Buildings, where the welcoming ceremony will begin at 10:05 a.m.

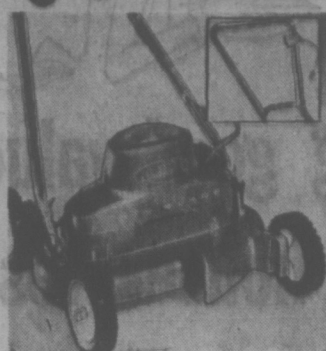

At its conclusion about an hour later, the royal party will go to the Provincial Museum and the archives, then down the steps to Belleville Street and west to Britannia.

At 12:30, when they head for the government luncheon at the Empress Hotel, the royal family will travel east on Belleville, north on Government.

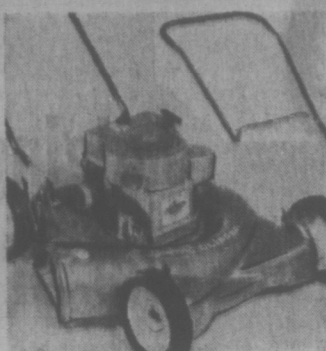

At 2 p.m. the Queen and the Duke of Edinburgh leave the Empress for up-Island, travelling north on Government, east on Humboldt, north on Douglas to the Trans-Canada Highway.

At 2:20 p.m., Princess Anne departs for Pat Bay airport, north on Government, east on Humboldt, and north on Douglas.

Movement Training Project Earns Grant

By ELIZABETH BENNETT
Judith Koltai stood up without breaking her sentence.

When she finished, she grinned and said, "You don't feel as comfortable now, do you? I'm talking down to you — the way a teacher usually does to a class."

Judith just won a $4,000 Canada Council grant for a project on movement as a means of communication.

She hopes to devise a method of training people to be more aware of the meaning of movement both in themselves and others.

She sees it as being a framework of concepts which an instructor can adapt to the needs of his class, rather than a set "lesson plan."

She points out that our society puts more weight on what a person says than the way he says it.

A speaker's movements, however, can clarify what he is saying. They can demonstrate the depth of his sincerity, whether he is enthusiastic or bored, angry or indifferent.

Most people respond to these non-verbal signals, whether they are aware of them or not.

"I feel sensitivity to these signals is like the voice. Some people have naturally great voices; others don't. But the ones who don't can train their voices to be as good as possible."

"I believe you can train people to use their sensitivity to non-verbal communication the same way."

Judith says children respond more than adults to these signals and that people who work with children should be aware of them.

Born in Hungary, Judith moved to Sweden during the 1956 revolution. She came to Canada in 1964, and it was about this time that she became interested in children's theatre.

"Two things fascinated me from the time I began to think of what profession I would follow — teaching and drama. I alternated between the two, and it was only during 1964 and '65 that I began to realize there was a way of doing both."

"It is children's drama. The process that goes on between a teacher and a class is essentially the same as the one that goes on between an actor and his audience."

"An actor in dramas for children is teaching his audience, whether he knows it or not. A teacher has to use dramatic techniques when she is in the classroom or her pupils will lose interest."

"I think teachers should take some drama courses as part of their teacher training."

Judith, a graduate student at the University of Victoria, became interested in movement training two years ago when she was working with disturbed children.

"I prepared a study of movement training to be used in therapy, but my interest in it stayed with me and grew as I realized its importance."

Mrs. Haslam says that in order to teach successfully you need to plan "an exciting experience" in the classroom at least three times a week.

"If you plan life so you do exciting things, these experiences will become part of life."

"A teacher who has taken movement training could use it both to improve his teaching style and to help his pupils explore the possibilities of motion."

"I think it is particularly important for an actor in children's theatre to take movement training," she said.

"Kids pick up all kinds of signals. They may pick up and understand an actor's signals more easily than an actor's words."

"The actor has to be sensitive to his audience too, so he will know when they begin to lose interest."

Judith would like to see more actors going into children's theatre as a profession, thinks more plays should be written for today's children.

"Re-doing the traditional stories is very valuable, but it is only one possibility."

Though she hasn't worked out all the details of her project yet, Judith plans to have groups in different parts of the country experimenting with her concepts, so she will have more than one set of results on which to base her final training program.

"My project supervisor is Richard Courtenay, and I'll have to use facilities at the University of Calgary. I'll also be in contact with Joy Coghill, head of the National Theatre School and special counsellor for my project. I hope Carl Hare at the University of Victoria will be able to do something on it too."

"I would like to make a film or video-tape demonstrating the techniques, so teachers won't have to depend on written descriptions when setting up a course."

JUDITH KOLTAI... "teachers should take some drama courses."

Kindergarten Teacher Loves Work in Northern Canada

By EUGENA MOORE

BRANDON, Man. (CP) — "If you are interested in teaching and want to find out what it is all about, if you want to enjoy yourself and have a satisfying life, teach in the North."

This is the advice of Sylvia Haslam, language arts specialist and primary and kindergarten supervisor with the federal department of Indian affairs in northern Manitoba.

Mrs. Haslam's eyes sparkle and her whole face lights up when she talks about her present position and her former work, teaching Indian children in Alberta.

"I enjoyed teaching Indian children. You can see results of the work being done."

Born and raised in Cape Breton Island, Mrs. Haslam taught there for a few years before heading west — "for the money."

"The salary was much better than in Cape Breton Island."

She liked Alberta, where she met her husband Gordon, now an education student at Brandon University.

Mrs. Haslam is one of about 12 language arts specialists in Canada — two are in Manitoba — with the department of Indian schools from Brandon to Churchill, Man.

During most of the year, she travels in the North for two weeks at a time, or works in the department office in Dauphin, Man. In summer she assists in training others to teach.

School is often Indian children's first concentrated encounter with the English language, Mrs. Haslam says.

"The main focus is teaching English orally as a second language, and reading. Most of the children speak only their native language in the home."

Indian girls act as teachers' aides, and Mrs. Haslam assists in teaching these girls and also organizes a kindergarten aide-training course.

Northern teaching demands initiative. Teachers ask for help among themselves and visit other classrooms to see how others work. At the same time they rely on the children and parents for environmental learning.

Mrs. Haslam considers these teachers equal to or of higher quality than those in the provincial system.

Mrs. Haslam is involved in federal and provincial planning to sponsor a new teacher-training program primarily for Indian people and for those who have not been able to have teacher training.

As a department representative, her job is to get information to the Indian people about the program and to interview people interested in it.

She also acts as liaison between the Indian people and Brandon University, where the course is to be offered.

The challenges of teaching in the North include how to survive against the elements.

The dress consists of slacks, mukluks and parkas. A snowmobile is the local taxi, but Mrs. Haslam often walks, even in 40-below-zero temperatures.

Mrs. Haslam says that in order to teach successfully you need to plan "an exciting experience" in the classroom at least three times a week.

"If you plan life so you do exciting things, these experiences will become part of life."

New Star Lacks Spending Time

TORONTO (CP) — Anne Murray says she's making money but has no time to spend it.

"Look at my boots," the pretty blonde said in a recent interview as she revealed splits in two places.

"Poor little rich girl! And most of my wardrobe belongs to the CBC."

"I have the coat I bought when I was in Grade 10, and this thing here a white wool parka that I bought in Edmonton. I'm not exactly a fashion plate. I don't spend much."

Time is her problem. In fact, the former high school teacher from Springhill, N.S., who gained instant North American recognition with her singing of Snowbird, has hired a lawyer, a business manager and road manager because she was trying to do everything herself.

She just wants to sing.

"I find I'm getting distracted," she says, rubbing here eyes as she talks.

"There's so many things on my mind that I can't concentrate on what I'm trying to do."

"There are business decisions to be made all the time, and yet I've got to put on a concert, and to be on top for that concert."

She says she has no trouble coping with stardom, only in coping with the amount of work it brings. And because she is anxious to oblige, she took on far too much this season.

Her one luxury, two weeks ago, was a weekend off.

She spent it alone in her Toronto apartment.

"I watched TV," she said. "Every hockey game I could feast my eyes on, every movie, everything."

"I just wanted to get my mind in neutral and forget about everything. I don't get lonely because I have so little time alone."

CWL Convention Plans

The National Director of the Catholic Women's League, Rev. James Mahoney, Bishop of Saskatoon, will be guest speaker at the 43rd annual Diocesan Convention of the league to be held in Campbell River May 10, 11, and 12.

The convention opens the afternoon of May 10 with registration and an executive meeting in the hall of St.

Patrick's Church followed by a reception in the evening.

The main conference will begin May 11 at 9 a.m. in the Discovery Inn. Mass will be said at 11:30 followed by a luncheon.

Bishop Remi de Roo will be guest speaker at the luncheon.

Discussions of resolutions, election of officers and a panel discussion led by Mrs. W. W. Rogers of Victoria, president of the provincial council for B.C. and the Yukon, are scheduled for the afternoon session.

Bishop Mahoney will be guest speaker at the banquet May 11.

The convention ends May 12 with installation of officers and an executive meeting.

Luncheon Marks 50th Anniversary

Reducing Diet Good for Complexion

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Spring is the season when Mother Nature outfits herself with a whole new wardrobe, from her flower bedecked feet to her tall green hats! She senses the romance in the soft air and makes herself as beautiful as possible. We women also fall into the mood and wish to be lovely, especially at that season.

Not to be outdone, we, too, look forward to new clothes. We long to put away the heavier, darker garments of winter and enjoy the lighter, more colorful ones of spring. But, it takes a lot of the pleasure out of shopping when we are even a few pounds overweight, doesn't it? The woman who has too many pounds must choose clothes which are kindest to her figure defects rather than those she really likes best.

This is the ninth day of my Eight Week Beauty Improvement Plan (Bip for short). It is the last day I will be writing you about this course except to join you every Monday for the next six weeks. At those times I will bring you more help and encouragement.

Care of the complexion is always important, but it is particularly so when you are following a self-improvement program or are losing weight. Bip was designed, not only to help you lose pounds, but to aid you in improving your whole appearance during the next eight weeks.

Most women need lubricating creams from early middle age on because the natural oils gradually decrease. If you have a very dry complexion, you will profit by the use of a cleansing cream, as a habit, instead of soap and water. You should also use a lubricating cream daily and give it time to soak in. At least during your reducing trek use one of the creams or oils which practically disappear into your skin at night. If you are not going to do this apply a moisturizer at night. Always use one under your makeup during the day.

If your skin is oily continue with the usual care but be faithful about it if you have not been in the past. Remember, you and I are going to make you lovelier during the next eight weeks.

MENUS

Breakfast

- 1/2 grapefruit
- 1/2 cup hot cereal
- 2 teaspoons sugar
- 1 glass skim milk — use some on cereal
- Coffee or tea — black

Luncheon

- 8 ounce glass vegetable or tomato juice
- 2 scrambled eggs with 1 teaspoon butter or margarine and a dash of milk — scramble in double boiler
- 1 slice whole wheat toast with 1/2 teaspoon butter or margarine
- Coffee or tea — black

Dinner

- 5 or 6 ounces of steak or roast — no gravy or juice
- 1 cup spinach or greens — season with herbs or vinegar
- 1/2 cup brown rice
- Medium fruit cup — using fresh fruit or water-packed canned fruit
- 1 glass skim milk
- Coffee or tea — black
- Total calories — 1170.

If you have missed some of my Eight Week Beauty Improvement Plan, you can still begin and follow it. My Bip Kit gives you complete directions for weighing and measuring, dieting and exercise, two weeks' slimming menus, a calorie chart, a height and weight chart, and a wall chart on which you can plot your progress. If you would like to lose from 15 to 20 pounds and become better looking in just eight weeks send for my Bip Kit. Enclose 25 cents plus 15 cents for postage and handling and your printed name and address. Send to Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

This exercise is excellent medicine for round shoulders or "wings." Sit on the floor, tailor fashion (cross legged), back erect, interlace your fingers and place your hands on your knees. Pull your tummy in and lift your chest as you raise your arms (elbows straight) upward to an overhead position. Pull back with the arms. Do not allow your head to protrude forward. Lift your head. Slowly return to starting position.

DEAR ABBY . . .

Widow Forgotten

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I am a widow. My husband was well-liked in this community and had many friends.

What I want to know is, where are all those kind people who came to his funeral? There, they embraced me and said, "We'll call you. We will have you over. Don't worry, we will look after you." I haven't heard a word from these people since then.

I have actually picked up my telephone to see if it was out of order. I feel so lonely and depressed. It's hard enough to lose a wonderful man, but when everyone else forgets you, it's unbearable. I am not an old tramp. I am 57, in good health and am considered intelligent and attractive. I was left fairly well off. So what is wrong with me?—Lonely.

DEAR LONELY: I don't know, but if I were you, wouldn't sit home wondering if my phone was out of order. I don't want to sound like a broken record, but the only sure cure for loneliness is to quit feeling sorry for yourself and to get involved in something worthwhile. A long list of worthy causes is screaming for volunteers.

Mental health, crippled children, cancer, heart, Red Cross, Goodwill, church auxiliaries, political groups, youth organizations, to name only a few. Now, aren't you ashamed that you didn't think of it yourself?

DEAR ABBY: I have been dating a divorced woman for two years but have not committed myself to marriage. She has a 16-year-old daughter living with her. On occasion I have been invited to remain overnight in the mother's room. I understand that the subject has been discussed with the daughter, who approves, but I don't. I would appreciate your comment.—Puzzled.

DEAR PUZZLED: I'm with you.

secretary before work. They have been seen sneaking around together.

You were right to say the father may have "problems." Our rabbi says Dad is "sick" and should be pitied, not despised because he is destroying his marriage and is setting a bad example for his children. Can sex be that important?—Another Disgusted Son.

DEAR SON: To some, it can. Unfortunately.

DEAR ABBY: That letter from "Brokenhearted Boy" took me back a lot of years. When I was 12 years old my mother ran a rooming house and my father worked nights. One day I came home early from school because I wasn't feeling well. When I opened the kitchen door I found my beautiful mother in the arms of a man who rented a room at our place. They were in the midst of such a passionate embrace they didn't even hear me come in.

My mother was 28 then. She explained that she and the roomer were "in love," but as young and inexperienced as I was, I knew it was wrong. I demanded that my mother ask the roomer to move out of our house. She did, that I very day. And that's the last I ever saw of him.—Senior Citizen.

DEAR ABBY: I heard that a doctor can lose his licence if he prescribes birth control pills to a girl who is underage. Is that true?—Illinois Reader.

DEAR READER: No. Birth-control pills are sometimes prescribed to under-age girls to regulate their menstrual periods.

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Calif. 90069. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

Hate to write letters? Send $1 to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Calif. 90069, for Abby's booklet, "How to Write Letters for All Occasions."

Broccoli Stems Are Tender

By HILDA BEASTALL

When fresh broccoli is in local stores it makes a fine green vegetable.

Served with tasty short ribs of beef cooked in vegetable juices in a covered casserole at the same time as potatoes are baking, a delicious meal will be the vote of the family.

Wash the broccoli just before you are ready to cook it, and remember cooking time is 15 minutes maximum for this vegetable.

There is no waste with broccoli, for the long stems at this season are just as tender and sweet tasting as the green flower bud heads we usually eat. So cut off the entire heads first and keep covered, and dry, in a dish until you need them for cooking.

In the meantime, have a small amount of boiling water ready in a fairly broad saucepan.

Cut the broccoli stems into one-eighth-inch slices, discarding only the bottom slice if you find it at all resistant to your knife.

Add these pieces slowly to the boiling water, maintaining the boiling point; simmer (water barely moving) for five minutes with the lid on. Then add the broccoli bud pieces, again slowly enough to maintain simmering.

Some of the pieces may be out of water — this is all to the good, they will steam and be of still better flavor. Simmer the whole 10 minutes more until broccoli is barely tender.

Drain liquid into a dish to use as flavoring next day.

Add about 1/2 teaspoon salt, shake or stir gently and serve hot.

Steamed broccoli makes a delicious lunch dish when turned into a casserole, topped with whole wheat bread crumbs and sprinkled with grated cheese, or topped with cheese slices. Place under a broiler for a few minutes to melt the cheese but not to brown it. Serve sprinkled with chopped parsley and chives.

The raw broccoli pieces are also delicious when cooked for only four or five minutes in a covered frypan with bacon drippings and a couple of tablespoons of water. Bring to bubbling stage quickly, then reduce heat to simmering for about five minutes, covered.

Full Pay, Nothing to Do Bores Redundant Workers

CHICAGO (AP) — The salary is $150 a week. The hours are 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.,

Knitting a poncho makes the non-work day pass more quickly for Donna Huminik, one of 40 redundant employees of Burlington Northern Railroad who cannot be fired without a year's severance pay. (AP Wirephoto) and the employees do nothing all day.

Since April 1, some 40 employees of the Burlington Northern Railroad have been at the do-nothing job at full pay. Many say they are miserable.

The employees pass their workday in a nearly barren room on the second floor of a downtown office building. Metal chairs are the only furniture, and the workers must get along without tables, wastebaskets, ashtrays or a clock.

Their regular jobs were as clerks for the railway in Chicago. But with a merger of four railways early in 1970, followed by fiscal belt-tightening and reorganization, the employees found themselves without work — but not without jobs.

At the time of the merger, the company and the union agreed that no employees would be fired due to the merger unless they received severance pay.

A rail spokesman said the cost of releasing the employees with severance pay would be prohibitive.

The spokesman added that jobs can, and will, be found for the workers in the rail yards and that their retraining will begin soon.

Nursing Schools Move Out of Hospitals

By GLENNIS ZILM

EDMONTON (CP) — More nursing schools should move out of hospitals and into educational institutions, says Marguerite Schumacher, president-elect of the Canadian Nurses' Association.

Miss Schumacher, director of health and social services at the community college in Red Deer, Alta., said in an interview that there is a trend toward this, but that too many schools are still in hospitals.

"Costs would be lower," she said, showing one advantage to the taxpayer of having nursing schools in the educational system.

"For example, if three hospitals in a city each have a nursing school, then each must have a library — rather than one good, big library in the post-secondary institution."

Another advantage, said Miss Schumacher, is that classroom space would be used better. It could be used for other students while nurses were away working on the wards.

"While it is possible to have a hospital without a nursing school, it is not possible to have a nursing school without having a hospital nearby."

Students enrolled in a community college, for example, still take training on the wards — not just at one hospital, but at all the hospitals and health care facilities in the city.

"As it is now, the students in first year at Red Deer college get more clinical experience than first-year students at hospital schools," she said. The college students also get more selected experiences in their senior year than do the hospital students.

It's also an advantage to the students to be able to take courses other than nursing. "You have a nurse with a broader background and greater understanding."

Miss Schumacher, who was elected as head of the 2,000-member organization last year, will take over the presidential duties in 1972 after two years as president-elect. She has worked at all levels of hospital nursing — at the bedside as a graduate, as head nurse, supervisor, director of nursing and clinical instructor.

She has a master's degree in nursing from Columbia University, New York. From 1958 to 1968 she was adviser to nursing schools for Alberta.

Five of the 14 schools in Alberta, exclusive of the two university programs, now offer two-year courses, all of these in conjunction with a college program. Miss Schumacher said. She believes that two years is long enough to prepare a nurse, provided the courses are educational and not just involving service.

"Many schools in hospitals still use their students as cheap labor," she said.

Saskatchewan is in the midst of changing its programs to educational institutions, she said. Quebec, Manitoba, British Columbia and the Maritime provinces are all moving toward this as well.

So far, none of the large hospitals in Alberta has indicated it will close its school and let the program move into an educational institution, she said.

"This is a great disappointment."

Facial De-ageing Done at Home

To give your face a fresher, more youthful appearance at most any age, simply allow your facial skin to lift itself out of lines and wrinkles. ## Gender Error Enrages Women

THE ALUMNAE

"Cause? Who needs it? This is the most successful fund-raising drive I've ever conducted."

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Two women recipients of journalism awards, inadvertently identified on their citations as males, refused to accept the honors from the men-only Milwaukee Press Club.

"It is very insulting," Gene Cunningham said after she and a fellow writer for the Milwaukee Sentinel, Gerry Hinkley, ripped up their certificates and handed them back to officials following the club's annual Gridiron awards banquet.

Miss Cunningham is a backer of the a thus-far futile campaign to get the club to amend its men-only membership policy. The American Civil Liberties Union is testing the matter in court.

Miss Cunningham said her certificate for a series on nursing homes was worded "for his achievement."

Five women were among more than a dozen winners.

BY PLANE . . .

From Today Into History . . .

Tommy Lee of Montreal made history Monday by flying the newest plane in Canada — and the oldest — all in a single day.

Lee was aboard Air Canada's Boeing 747 on her inaugural flight from Toronto to Vancouver.

When the $25 million giant craft touched down at Vancouver Lee was met by Mel Price, who has Canada's oldest registered plane, a 41-year-old Fleet.

Price, who is an aeromechanic with the Victoria Flying Services Ltd., flew Lee across the Gulf of Georgia to Victoria, on what he says is the last trans-Gulf run for his plane.

Price, who has owned the Fleet for 15 years, has agreed to allow her to be placed in the Provincial Museum, "although it will be like parting with an old friend."

Of his trip in the Fleet, Lee said:

"There I sat in the open cockpit, my brief case on my knees. To tell the truth, there was more room than in the Jumbo jet — and the air conditioning was much better!"

It was probably nostalgia that made Lee decide to arrange his trip of contrasts.

A private pilot before the Second World War, he flew a Finch, a later model of the plane which brought him here Monday.

"I joined the Royal Canadian Air Force during the war. Yesterday, on our way over we flew over Boundary Bay, which was a training field in those days. It was the first time I'd seen it in 27 years."

He describes the jumbo jet as "massive transportation," giving passengers little sensation of actually flying.

"When you walk in it's just like entering a movie house, with seats nine-abreast and four or five movie screens."

He cites some figures to point up the contrast between the Boeing 747 and the Fleet.

"One carries 47,000 gallons of jet fuel, the other 20 gallons of gas."

"The cabin of the jet stretches 20 feet across while the little fellow is 28 feet, wing to wing. One carries two people, the other, 380. Loaded, the jet weight 700,000 pounds in comparison to the Fleet's 1,800."

Price's plane originally belong to Barney Boe, who prospected at Williams Lake and also ran a plumbing firm in Vancouver.

Housecleaning Group
Votes for Independence

Members of the Housecleaning Rehabilitation Association voted Monday in favor of remaining separate from the Victoria Low Income Group.

However, the 10 women who voted — with one abstention — in favor of the idea did not son would work for the project at $1,000 a month.

30 WOMEN

The association has a total of 30 women, 22 of whom signed a petition recently reject the possibility of a reconciliation with the Low Income Group at some future date.

The association broke away from the LIG last week as LIG fired social worker Reg Clarkson.

HELP OFFERED

Clarkson has offered to work with the association until the middle of May to help it get going on its own. It is operating from a house at 2584 Graham, phone number 385-2796.

The women also discussed with Clarkson the possibility of not getting any further federal assistance for their project. It started last December on a $10,000 demonstration grant from the health and welfare department.

Clarkson said the first grant was approved to test the housecleaning idea and that "if they (the government) want an out, then this squabble is a way out."

He said from Ottawa's point-of-view having a social worker attached to the group was a kind of guarantee the grant would be responsibly administered. If a year-long grant comes through, Clarkson supporting Clarkson as co-ordinator of the project while it was still under auspices of the Low Income Group.

LIG president Walter Olszewski said Tuesday poor people's organizations tend to have internal conflicts when they have a social worker in anything other than a consulting position.

That's why the Low Income Group executive voted 6-0 last week to oust Clarkson as executive director and as co-ordinator of Housecleaning Rehabilitation.

Olszewski also denied a report he and his wife Elaine would quit the Low Income Group next fall when their respective terms of office as president and vice-president expire.

They will simply decline to run for office for at least a year, Olszewski said.

BANQUET ON

"The only reason we took the presidency and the vice-presidency this time was because the membership made it clear they wanted us to continue for another year."

Olszewski said the Low Income Group does not intend to call off its wiener-and-beans banquet in Centennial Square

10 Jailed for Life

TEL AVIV (AP) — A military court in Quneitra in the occupied Golan Heights of Syria sentenced 10 Arab guerrillas to life imprisonment for crossing into Israeli-held territory on a sabotage mission. The Arabs, members of the Popular Front for the Liberation of Palestine, were captured eight months ago.

MAN BENDS,

DETROIT (UPI) — Donald Bender, 45, a Fort Wayne, Ind., policeman, was wounded when his pistol fell from its holster and discharged as he bent over to pick up his bowling ball in a downtown parking lot.

Bender, here to attend the American Bowling Congress tournament, was hospitalized with a chest wound.

Park

The building of a mountain shelter in Strathcona provincial park has been undertaken by pupils of Shawnigan Lake Boys' School as a centennial project.

The boys will raise the money needed for materials and Grade 12 students will build the hut under the direction of Ken Hickling, the school's industrial arts teacher.

The provincial parks branch will be responsible for taking the hut to the park where members of the school's outdoors club will erect it in early-September.

The branch will choose a site in the Burman Lake-Golden Hinde area.

In 1970, students of the school erected a similar hut in the Marble Meadows area of the park as a memorial to one of their classmates who was killed while climbing in the French Alps.

The new hut will be 12 feet long and wide and 10½ feet in height. The roof will be sheathed in aluminum, the rest of the hut having a natural wood finish. It will be able to accommodate about eight hikers.

SEAL CAMPAIGN
TOPS LAST YEAR

Proceeds from the Easter Seal campaign have topped last year's figures for Vancouver and interim reports from other areas indicate a province-wide increase.

Administrator N. H. Baker reports that all campaign returns should be in by May 15 and says a statement on the final results will be given May 21.

Entries Growing

May 24th parade entries are growing.

The parade now consists of 20 floats, 26 marching bands, 14 baton-twirling teams, 18 decorated cars, one decorated bicycle, two groups of clowns, a single clown, four customized cars, two "historical characters" and eight horses.

A spokesman for the Victoria Celebrations Association said they hope to get many more entries before the parade date.

Past parades have averaged 35 floats.

Entries may be filed at any Greater Victoria municipal hall, or sent directly to the association at 202-4029 Douglas Street.

Stall Space for Students

Merchants on Market Street have come up with a scheme to help Greater Victoria students earn money; stall space for $1 a day.

The space will only be available to students and will be used to sell only home-made items. These can include bead and leather work, ties, dresses, moccasins, candles, novelties, driftwood lamps, ceramics, sculptures, paintings, posters, toys, souvenirs and similar articles. Interested students must complete an application and return it to C-FAX Student World, 620 View.

The market one block north of Hillside off Douglas, will soon open on weekends and will be open each day during the summer months. There will be plenty of free parking.

Saanich Slashes Road Budget In Major Cost-Parving Spree

Saanich council ripped into the provisional roads budget Tuesday night, more than chopping it in half.

Faced with projected expenditures of $531,000, council chopped this to $248,600.

"It's going to be a pretty quiet year," said municipal engineer Neville Life.

Major road works casualties were:

- Gordon Head Road, McKenzie Avenue to Cedar Hill Cross Road, $62,000.
- Markham Road, $45,000.
- Seymour Avenue, $45,000.
- Cedar Hill Road, Derby to Pear, $48,500.
- Gorge Road, $46,000.

The $46,000 sidewalk construction program was ordered to come to an end for this year with the completion of only those works already under way.

There were numerous other cuts in the public works area, including traffic signals, drainage, road surfacing, sweeping, maintenance of ditches, cutting roadside grass and other items.

There was one increase in expenditures — the $10,000 snow and ice control budget was increased to $20,000 because $18,000 has already been spent. This leaves only $2,000 for the rest of 1971.

In its second three-hour budget cutting session, Saanich has reduced expenditures by approximately $450,000 or just over three mills of the projected 7.32 mill increase.

Council is aiming to cut close to $600,000 to reduce this year's increase to about three mills. It will meet again tonight at 7:30 and possibly Thursday night.

At one point in the discussion, Mayor Hugh Curtis said a number of municipalities in British Columbia are "on the ropes" in the current cost squeeze.

"We are not alone at looking at 3, 5, 7, 9 mill increases," he said.

Council went into camera briefly to consider one item — a provisional item of $50,000 for gravel pit.

Curtis said, when council resumed its open session, that Saanich intends to acquire its own gravel pit to replace the one at Sayward. The site of the new pit could not be divulged "because there has been virtually no approach to the owners." The budget amount was reduced to $25,000.

Still to be considered by council are the police department, law enforcement, some part of public works planning, welfare, community grants, indoor recreation expenditures, debt charges, a few capital expenditures under recreation and community services, water supply and a few miscellaneous items, some of them held over earlier for reports.

Firm Going Fine

The bus drivers who bought out the company they worked for are finding business is normal and proceeding according to pattern.

A spokesman for Vancouver Island Coach Lines Ltd. said Tuesday that business is beginning to pick up considerably following a "traditionally slow" winter period.

He said the advent of good weather would increase the company's work load.

The company also got a pleasant surprise at Easter when there was an unusually sharp increase in passengers at a period when business normally falls off until the start of summer.

The drivers bought the company for $650,000 in February after the 100 employees raised a down payment of $100,000 by personal investment and financed the rest through a bank.

The company maintains airport limousine service, up-island runs as far as Port Hardy, sight-seeing tours, and service to the mainland.

Pleasure Craft Barred From Harbor for Tour

Pleasure craft will be barred from the four floats immediately below the Causeway at the Inner Harbor until the day the royal tour of B.C. ends May 12.

Victoria harbor master Capt. Ron Newell said Tuesday it will be impossible for small boats to moor at the floats during the first part of the visit because the SS Beaver, replica of the old paddle-steamer, will be tied up alongside. This, he said, will make it impossible for boats to get in or out of the mooring areas without moving the Beaver.

He said the harbor will be open to normal boat traffic during the royal visit, which begins Monday. But, while the royal yacht Britannia is moored in the harbor two RCMP vessels will be stationed there to clear other boats.

SECURITY
City engineer Jim Garnett said clearing the Inner Harbor is also a security precaution for the Britannia, which will use the harbor several times.

She arrives at the harbor for the first time Monday at 7 p.m. and leaves for the last time May 11 at 10:40 p.m.

The Beaver is a converted harbor craft and will take part in a special ceremony Saturday morning when the drydock in CFB Esquimalt's dockyard will be named the Naden Graving Dock.

OPEN TO PUBLIC
She will arrive at the Inner Harbor 4 p.m. Saturday and be open to the public until sunset. She will again be open to the public Sunday from 10:30 a.m. until sunset and Monday, from 10:30 a.m. until 6 p.m., an hour before the Britannia arrives.

The Beaver will be closed to visitors while the Britannia is in port.

She will be at Sturdies Bay on Galiano Island May 5 and 6, leaving May 7 for Powell River. After spending two weeks on the Sunshine Coast, she will return to Victoria for

Views Sought On Monarchy

Several well-known Victorians will be asked to give their views on the value of retaining the monarchy at a public meeting sponsored by the Victoria branch of the Monarchist League of Canada in early June.

The decision was made when about 60 members met Tuesday in Newcombe Auditorium. President-elect Douglas Christie hopes Mayor Courtney Haddock and aldermen Percy Frampton and Robert Baird will be among those attending the meeting.

It was also decided Tuesday to ask Lieutenant-Governor John Nicholson to be the group's honorary president.

Christie said the league's purpose is to promote and maintain the constitutional monarchy in Canada and educate the public on the values of the monarchy.

Others elected at the meeting are: Jack Ralph, secretary, and B. A. Brown, treasurer.

INTEREST PAYMENTS OUTWEIGH THE DEBT

Interest payments on Saanich debt charges outweigh the principal.

The provisional budget before council this week for 1971 shows general debenture debt of $493,629 — of which $274,470 is interest.

Sewer enterprise debt is listed as $352,945 — of which $181,887 is for interest.

Local improvements total $261,941 — of which $140,346 is for interest.

Other long-term debt charges total $130,706, of which $16,538 is for interest.

In the separate waterworks budget, general debt charges amount to $29,277 with $6,277 of this for interest while local improvements total $64,812 with $24,575 of this for interest.

No Punches Pulled In Student Beef-In

NEW WESTMINSTER, B.C. (CP) — The students had their say Tuesday at the British Columbia Parent - Teacher Federation conference — and they didn't pull any punches.

About 200 parents listened while some 50 students aired their beefs. Here are a few samples:

Bonnie Geddes, a Grade 12 New Westminster student: We tried to get school board permission to distribute birth control booklets at our school, but the board refused to hear us. So we handed out 350 of them on the sidewalk across the street from the school.

Geoff Peters, Burnaby South: There should be some way of getting rid of incompetent teachers. If a plumber can't plumb he loses his job. If a doctor wrecks all his operations, he's out. But a poor teacher can go on forever.

Charlie Justice, Point Grey: If the students had been left free to take classes from the teachers they feel are good, maybe the poor ones would be eliminated.

An unidentified girl student: Some of our girls were sent home for not wearing brassieres. And we can wear white or brown jeans but we aren't allowed to wear blue jeans.

Victorians, is being razed to make way for more high rise development on the popular West Bay waterfront of Victoria's harbor.

She Was 'Princess' for an Hour

By ELIZABETH FORBES

It was in October, 1951, that Queen Elizabeth, then a princess, and Prince Philip, Duke of Edinburgh, first visited Victoria. That's almost 20 years ago now but there are still many of us who remember the excitement of those days and the work that went into making it an outstanding visit for the royal couple.

W. T. Straith was provincial secretary and his deputy was the late Capt. R. A. Pennington. As now it was the deputy provincial secretary who had in his hands all the coordinating of plans for the visit throughout the province. Weeks ahead everything looked perfect on paper. Timing of all the various events had been checked, down to the last second.

However, as there had not been a royal visit since 1939 when George VI and Queen Elizabeth (now the Queen Mother) came to Canada, there was nagging anxiety that something might go wrong at the last minute. To avoid this, at least as far as the royal couple's appearance at the Legislative Buildings was concerned, it was decided to hold a dress rehearsal.

Mrs. Pennington was tabbed to stand in for the princess and Evan Jones, then deputy minister of highways, for the Duke of Edinburgh.

"I remember my husband came home one night and said very casually that I was to be a princess for an hour," Lee Pennington told me the other day. "He said Premier Byron Johnson would be on the steps to meet me with a few of the officials."

"When we got to the Causeway I found the honor guard had marched down and was in position (members of the 119th anti-aircraft unit then stationed at Gordon Head) and naturally, the public had followed. There was a big crowd to see me step out of the limousine."

Here Mrs. Pennington reminded me there was a delay of a week in the royal visit due to the illness of King George, even a suggestion the tour might be cancelled. "Finally, word came that the royal couple would arrive in Canada a week later than planned and would reach Victoria Oct. 21."

Weather-wise that was a disaster. "Everything pointed to sunshine and blue skies for the original date but in the following week the rains came... and how it rained!"

The rehearsal did get off to a dry start but "before we were through it poured... as the action was about to begin it was found the little girl who was to present the princess with flowers (eight-year-old Connie Cowden, now Mrs. Harold McKenzie) had nothing to give me, the make-believe princess."

Capt. Pennington hurriedly commandeered a daily newspaper, rolled it up, cornucopia-wise and suggested it would do. "You can imagine what a soggy mess it became in the heavy rain. When it was handed to me it practically disintegrated."

Benefit was derived from holding a rehearsal, Mrs. Pennington remembers. "We discovered that the limousine was being drawn up too close to the stone steps and when the RCMP officer tried to open the door it stuck part way... so we backed up and moved farther out and a mark was put down on the driveway to show the right place to stop."

When the day of the royal visit to the Legislative Buildings arrived everything went "like clockwork... the bugs had all been worked out."

Or had they? Mr. Straith tells a story (without names) of a MLA who checked his morning suit at least two weeks ahead to be sure it was in good order. Only to find when he dressed for the presentation that a moth had worked on the trousers.

Embarrassed and worried that the spot would be noticeable, he went to Capt. Pennington, who told him to "be sensible."

He would only give the princess one hand as he went through the receiving line. Pennington said, and he could use the other with its white glove to cover the hole in the pants.

Take Off Fat With Home Recipe Plan

It's simple how quickly one may lose pounds of unsightly fat right in your own home. Make this home recipe yourself. It's easy, no trouble at all and costs little. Just go to your drugstore and ask for Naran. Pour this into a pint bottle and add enough grapefruit juice to fill the bottle. Take two tablespoonsful twice a day as needed and follow the Naran Reducing Plan.

If your first purchase does not show you a simple easy way to lose bulky fat and help regain slender more graceful curves; if reducible pounds and inches of excess fat don't disappear from neck, chin, arms, abdomen, hips, calves and ankles just return the empty bottle for your money back. Follow this easy way endorsed by many who have tried this plan and help bring back alluring curves and graceful slenderness. Note how quickly bloated disappears—how much better you feel. More alive, youthful appearing and active.

HOSTELS FEW

TORONTO (CP) — The best advice for young hitch-hikers when they reach Toronto this summer on treks across the country could well turn out to be "keep walking."

For although the season's scarcely under way yet, there are already signs that there isn't going to be enough hostel accommodation to go around.

"It's been 'full house' almost every night recently at the Toronto youth hostel, and organizer Noah Ramage says "it looks like a pretty bad summer."

"We're at the stage of turning people away already."

B.C. News Briefs

Agenda Screened

VANCOUVER (CP) — City council Tuesday voted to establish a screening committee to set the agenda of secret meetings for a one-month trial period. The screening committee will meet prior to the regular council session each Tuesday, review items presented for the in-camera meeting later in the day, and decide which matters should be discussed in public.

Condition Poor

VANCOUVER (CP) — Myron Gibson, 21, of Kilmat was reported in poor condition at Vancouver General Hospital early today after being brought to Vancouver from Prince Rupert on a mercy flight Monday. Air Sea Rescue said Gibson was taken to Prince Rupert hospital with head injuries after he jumped off a truck and fell down a 35-foot cliff at Kilmat.

Grant Maintained

VAMOOVER (CP) — In its third attempt in two weeks to establish a 1971 grant to the Greater Vancouver Visitors and Convention Bureau, council decided Tuesday to maintain the $100,000 grant it has awarded in recent years.

Ald. Harry Rankin, who didn't want to give any grant, and Ald. Art Phillips, who wanted the sum reduced, were the only votes against the grant.

The tourist bureau had asked for $410,000.

Tot Drowns

SUMAS (CP) — Two-year-old Walter Derek Adolph drowned Tuesday night in a tub of water outside his home.

Tower Approved

KELOWNA (CP) — City council Tuesday approved construction of a $300,000 air terminal tower at Kelowna airport. The tower will cost the city $25,000, the remainder being paid by the federal government.

He apparently climbed into the tub while playing with two companions. His foster mother, Mrs. Arthur Arnold, tried to revive him through mouth-to-mouth breathing but was unsuccessful.

Holiday Delayed

NEW WESTMINSTER (CP) — A school holiday, originally scheduled to coincide with the Queen's visit here May 7, has been changed to May 10. Mayor Muel Evers said the change was made to permit students to attend May 7 celebrations as classes, supervised by their teachers.

"If it was a school holiday, neither the teachers nor any body else would have any control over them," the mayor said.

SPEC Opposes Mill

SMITHERS (CP) — The Smithers branch of the Society for Pollution and Environmental Control Tuesday forwarded a resolution to Bulkley Valley Forest Industries Ltd. and Lands and Forests Minister Ray Williston recommending cancellation of plans for a kraft or sulphite mill at Houston, B.C. The resolution also recommends that consideration be given to shipping wood chips to existing pulp mills and that the feasibility on non-polluting processes be investigated.

Spill Under Control

FORT ST. JOHN (CP) — George Patey, production manager for Pacific Petroleum in Fort St. John, says his company has brought an oil spill of "several hundred barrels" under control at Stoddard Creek 10 miles north of the community. He said the spill was caught before it reached Charlie Lake, which provides the town's water supply. Cleanup operations are under way.

THE WEATHER

The low pressure area which was headed for the Queen Charlotte Islands and threatened to bring rain to that area has now taken an unexpected turn to the south. The overnight weather map shows that the disturbance is now tracking toward the Washington Coast. It will spread cloud over the south coast of B.C. But it is believed that precipitation from the system will be confined to south of the border. There will be sunshine in the interior today but temperatures are not expected to be very much higher than they were Tuesday... that is the 65 to 70 mark. It will be cloudy again on the coast Thursday but mainly sunny in the interior.

DOMINION PUBLIC WEATHER OFFICE 5 A.M. FORECASTS

Valid Until Midnight Thursday
Lower Mainland: Today and Thursday... mainly cloudy. A few showers today. Highs today and Thursday, high 50s. Lows tonight low 40s.

Greater Victoria: Today and Thursday... mainly cloudy. Highs today and Thursday high 50s. Lows tonight low 40s.

North and West Coast: Today and Thursday... mainly cloudy. Occasional drizzle in the southern half. Highs today and Thursday mid-50s except mid-60s inland. Lows tonight near 40.

Possible Brake Defects Spark Auto Call-Backs

LEONIA, N.J. (AP) — Some 30,000 sports cars with possible brake defects have been recalled by British Leyland Motors, the company said.

The firm, a principle importer of foreign cars, has mailed registered letters to U.S. owners of all Austin-Healey, Sprites and MG Midgets manufactured between 1968 and the present.

A spokesman said the defect could hinder operation of a secondary braking system, but would not render it inoperable. He said the repair is a minor adjustment.

COURT ORDERS SPY HEARING

WASHINGTON (WP) — The U.S. Court of Appeals here ruled Tuesday that there must be a full-dress hearing in federal court on the constitutionality of the army's spying activities. The court suggested that the army's domestic intelligence system may have an "inhibiting effect" on the public.

It ordered a determination of whether army spying is "unrelated" to its "mission as defined by the constitution."

In an unusual opinion by three staunchly conservative judges, it raised the hope that various legal assaults on government surveillance may yet be successful in the courts.

At issue was a suit filed in February, 1970, by the American Civil Liberties Union on behalf of the Central Committee for Conscientious Objectors and individuals who felt they had been spied upon.

U.S. District Court George L. Hart Jr., also a conservative, dismissed the suit at the government's request last year.

Now he must take it back and accept evidence on the "nature of the army domestic intelligence system, the extent of the system, the methods of gathering the information, its content and substance, the methods of retention and distribution and the recipients of the information."

Those questions have been posed in a series of controversies involving military investigations into the lives of prominent individuals.

A former army intelligence agent testified in Chicago last December, for example, that his unit had ignored a ban on domestic surveillance and traced such persons as Sen. Adlai E. Stevenson III (D-Ill.) and Rev. Ralph David Abernathy of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference.

Defence Secretary Melvin Laird subsequently declared that military intelligence operations would be re-organized under tight civilian control.

Many of the secret intelligence files on civilian political activities are kept in the army's "computerized data bank" at Fort Holabird in Baltimore, Md.

WASHINGTON (WP) — A three-judge panel in Mississippi declared Tuesday that Attorney General John Mitchell had taken an "obscure" and illegal course in his enforcement of the U.S. Voting Rights Act.

In an unanimous opinion the judges of the federal district court in Biloxi held that Mitchell had failed in his duty to decide whether the state's new "open primary" law had a detrimental effect upon black voting power in Mississippi as charged by civil rights lawyers.

The court ruled that the primary law — nicknamed the "Evers Law" because of its impact on the candidacy of Negro leader Charles Evers for governor — must not go into effect until Mitchell has re-examined it and remedied his "obscure, patronizing failure" to give a clear ruling on the law's validity.

The Voting Rights Act freezes the election laws and practices of Mississippi, Alabama, Georgia, Louisiana, Virginia, South Carolina and parts of North Carolina. Changes must be approved either by a special three-judge federal court in Washington or by the attorney-general.

Strip Trial

PRAGUE (Reuter) — Six men have gone on trial in Kosice, eastern Slovakia, for publicly stripping a woman and chasing her through the streets because she supported the Soviet invasion of Czechoslovakia, it was reported.

No More Mills Says Davis

OTTAWA (CP) — Fisheries Minister Jack Davis said Tuesday night he would move to block any attempt to construct another pulp and paper mill on British Columbia's Thompson and Shuswap river systems.

He said in an interview that plans to quadruple the size of a mill at Kamloops will strain the river systems though the mill is among the cleanest in the world.

If another mill was built to harvest pulp in southern British Columbia, he hoped it would be on the Columbia River Basin. Any move to build on the Thompson - Shuswap system would be blocked by changes in the Fisheries Act, he said.

The aim was to protect sockeye salmon runs in the rivers.

1958 Will Upheld

The Supreme Court of Canada has rejected a contention that Victoria millionaire Allan Douglas Ford was suffering from an insane delusion when he sharply reduced his legacy to a long-separated son in Australia.

A unanimous verdict by five justices Tuesday reversed a decision last year by the B.C. Appeal Court, which had ruled in favor of a 1933 will much more generous to the Australian than a second will signed in 1958.

The B.C. court finding had been based on evidence that Ford had been suffering from a delusion in 1958 that he was not the real father of the Australian heir.

The high court judgment restores the legality of the second will, assigning $50,000 to John Douglas Wharton Ford, 48, a radio reporter in Melbourne.

The 1933 will would have given Ford the bulk of an estate valued at $1,152,000 on his father's death in 1967. The 1958 will and six codicils leaves most of the estate to various charities, including the Family Welfare and Children's Aid Society, Gorge Road Hospital, YMCA and YWCA building funds, Multiple Sclerosis Society, Victoria Symphony Society, Queen Alexandra Solatium and the Salvation Army.

Christ Church Cathedral receives 5,000 shares of Steep Rock Iron Mines, worth about $12,000, instead of the $205,000 designated for the church under the 1933 will. The stock must not be sold until it reaches a value of $40 per share (the price now is $2.43) or until 1987.

The city of Victoria would have received the Ford house and furnishings at 1210 Terrace, but chose to accept a $30,000 out-of-court settlement from the younger Ford last year in return for not joining in the appeal to the Supreme Court. Ford will own the house after paying the city.

The successful appeal was brought by Royal Trust Co., executor of the 1958 will. Respondents were John Ford and Christ Church Cathedral Buildings Ltd., which was made a party to the appeal by court order.

Businessman Ford, born in England, married Australian-born Estelle McGee in London in 1908 when he was 35 and she 22. They moved here in 1913.

Mrs. Ford made two trips to Australia between 1919 and July 4, 1921. Their son was born May 24, 1922, the parents legally separated in 1927 and Mrs. Ford moved to Australia with the son.

Referring to Ford's later suspicious about his son's legitimacy, Mr. Justice Wilfred Judson said in the Supreme Court judgment: "There is no possibility that the son could have been conceived in Australia."

The 1933 will was written when Ford was 60 and his son 11, leaving the bulk of his estate to the boy. Subsequent letters from his mother, before she died in 1957, referred to the son unfavorably.

Mr. Justice Judson said there was every reason to draw a new will in 1958 because the first was 25 years old.

At the time, although he was 85, Ford was unusually robust and in full possession of his business abilities, the court ruled. He was corresponding with his son but had rejected a suggestion that the son come to Victoria to meet him.

Upholding a ruling by the B.C. Supreme Court two years ago in favor of the 1958 will, Mr. Justice Judson comments:

"Although the 1933 will was largely in the son's favor, a separation for 31 years prior to the 1938 will and the reception of bad reports about his son were sufficient reason for a sane testator to change his will."

of his business abilities, the court ruled. He was corresponding with his son but had rejected a suggestion that the son come to Victoria to meet him.

"Furthermore, a legacy of $50,000 was inconsistent with ... complete rejection of his son and consistent only with a belief in his legitimacy or, at most, doubt. Whether the testator's suspicions were reasonable or not, they were such as a sane man could hold."

"Whether the evidence shows merely an indifference to the son or at most a doubt as to legitimacy, this is not sufficient to establish a delusion, much less an insane delusion, which motivated the testator to change his will."

Ford entered a nursing home in 1965 and died Oct. 26, 1967, at the age of 94.

Let Papers Into TV, Southam Urges CRTC

MONTREAL (CP) — The Canadian Radio-Television Commission has been urged to allow newspaper ownership of cable television systems.

Southam Press Ltd., owner of a group of newspapers, said in a brief prepared for CRTC hearings here that cable could be used to transmit pictures of news-pers into thousands of homes in the future.

The company said newspaper ownership of cable systems would not necessarily lead to a lessening of diversity of viewpoints presented by Canadian media.

The CRTC, conducting hearings here on cable, has expressed concern about "undue concentration of media ownership."

The Southam brief said the company feels the commission is concerned that concentrated ownership would limit the points of view available to the public through the media.

However, the brief said that, in the case of companies such as Southam Press, "the existence of common ownership has strengthened the ability to offer a diversity of viewpoints."

Common ownership allows different media to support each other in economic slow-downs, it said, and groups can also offer better technical service.

The brief said newspapers and cable are naturally allied because they both are concerned with the community.

The Southam brief echoed a report presented Tuesday to the annual meeting of the Canadian Press in Toronto.

The report urged the newspaper industry to press the Canadian Radio-Television Commission and other regulatory bodies for a statement of policy on relationships between newspapers and cable television.

"Unless newspapers are able to operate cable systems or obtain the right to use cable channels on some common-carrier basis, their place as the prime suppliers of detailed information to the public may fall to others," the report said.

CROWD NEWSPAPERS OUT

The study said cable television will have little short-term effect on the industry, but predicted that delivery of information to subscribers by electronic means will eventually supplement the service provided by printed newspapers.

"While electronic delivery of information is unlikely to supplant physical delivery of the whole newspaper, the papers need to plan for a different role, involving new ways of packaging and delivering information."

Two-way cable service would make it possible to deliver selective news to subscribers according to their particular preferences.

Officers Elected

TORONTO (CP) — Norman Smith of the Ottawa Journal was re-elected president of The Canadian Press at the annual meeting of the news co-operative Tuesday.

Also re-elected for one-year terms were Beland Honderich, Toronto Star, first vice-president; Gabriel Gilvert, Quebec Le Soleil, second vice-president; and R. S. Malone, Winnipeg Free Press, and Ross Munro, Edmonton Journal, executive committee members.

James Cooper, president and publisher of The Globe and Mail, Toronto, was re-elected chairman of the Canadian section of the Commonwealth Press Union at the section's 43rd annual meeting Tuesday.

Death — It's a Costly Business

Why do people put up a front even in death? Funerals don't have to cost an average of $650. Pressures put on grief-stricken relatives often result in over-elaborate rituals for the dead. But non-profit, non-sectarian memorial societies offer a less expensive but dignified alternative. Be sure to read How To Beat The High Cost Of Dying.

CITY DAFFODILS STEAL THE SHOW

Victoria daffodils shown at a Trinidad and Tobago horticultural show were the big hit of the West Indies exhibition.

Roy Messum, officer in charge of the federal plant protection division here, said the golden blooms grown by Saanich grower Geoff Vantreigh were seen by 9,000 people.

"I received word from officials of the show that they thought the daffodils from Victoria were far superior to those brought in from Britain," he said. "They were the focal point of the show."

The blooms were exhibited in an Air Canada display.

Watch Those Firehoses

A warning that charges will be laid against persons who drive their cars over firehoses was issued Tuesday by Fire Chief Eric Simmons.

The Victoria fire prevention bylaw provides for a maximum fine of $100.

Running a car over a hose damages the inner lining, he said.

Cost of a 50-foot length of hose is $150.

So far this year three or four lengths were damaged beyond repair and cost of replacement born by taxpayers, he said.

The chief also noted that lighting fires on beaches within the city of Victoria is illegal.

Mining Jobs Sought Out By College

NANAIMO — The careers director of Malaspina College has written to 100 mining companies asking them to give summer jobs to mining students from Malaspina and the B.C. Institute of Technology.

Dr. Brice Whittles, director of career programs development and a mining geophysicist, is seeking jobs for students in the two-year geological technology program.

Students start the program at Malaspina and complete it at BCIT. Courses include geology, mining, surveying, and geophysical prospecting.

It's hoped the mining companies may be able to hire students for exploration or actual mining operations.

Trustees Hoping To Lower Costs

Saanich Peninsula school trustees are hoping to reduce education costs to property owners by widening the school district tax base.

They hope to do this by amalgamating with the Gulf Islands school district. Discussions have started, Saanich school board chairman Jack Armstrong said Tuesday.

Saanich Peninsula has about 5,200 students and Gulf Islands has about 900.

The department of education favors amalgamation of small districts, with 15,000 students considered the optimal size. In 1946 the number of school districts was reduced from 700 to just over 70.

Sooke district has been considered a natural for amalgamation with Saanich and the Gulf Islands, but Sooke trustees aren't interested in discussing the question, possibly because the district has the lowest mill rate on the southern Island.

Saanich Peninsula has the highest educational mill rate, 33.1, as compared with 30.58 in Greater Victoria and 26.74 in Sooke.

Europe Eyed

FAIRVIEW, Alta. (CP) — Harry Hargrave, Alberta's agricultural marketing commissioner, expects Europe to become Alberta's largest customer for coking coal.

GOING ON FOR MONTHS

China-U.S. Contacts

WASHINGTON (WP) — The United States and China, through third parties, have been passing messages back and forth for months including a White House proposal to send a personal representative of President Nixon to Peking.

This was disclosed by the American writer Edgar Snow, long a friend of the Communist regime and of its top leaders, in a Life magazine article this week that included a report on his interview last Dec. 18 with Mao Tse-Tung.

American officials were most cautious in responding to queries about the Snow disclosures. None was denied. That there has been a two-way flow of governmental views on improving relations was conceded. As to the presidential representative proposal there was only a high level "no comment."

Snow said Mao told him he would be happy to talk to Nixon in Peking, either as a tourist or as president. Nixon on April 16 said he hoped to go to China but that he was not sure that would happen "while I am in office."

Snow wrote the article in the wake of Peking's new "ping-pong diplomacy" after he recently learned, as he put it, that Mao would not object to publication of part of the interview if there were no direct quotations.

The writer said that Mao told him in December that the foreign ministry then was studying the possible admission of Americans described by Snow as "from the left, middle and right." That was some four months before the invitation to the American table tennis team and accompanying newsmen.

Snow said he had learned, not from Mao but from others in Peking before he left there in February, about the White House proposal which he indicated had been made at least twice. He said the idea was for the presidential emissary to talk with the highest Chinese leaders. But there was no indication of an affirmative response.

Snow also reported that the head of one eastern European mission in Peking who already had made one trip here to see Nixon returned to Washington last December, bypassing the state department to visit the White House. He returned to Peking in January.

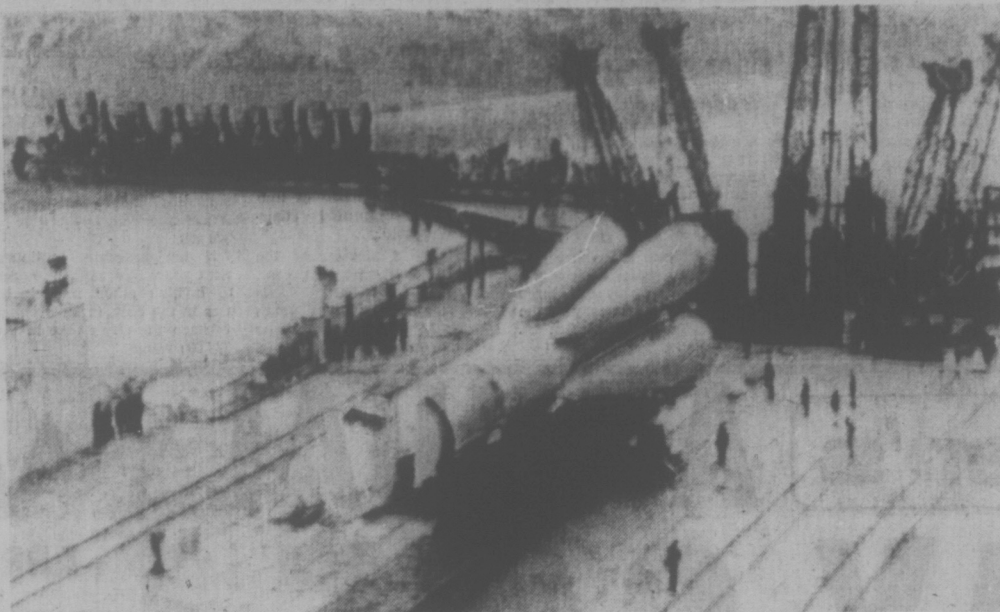

Efforts Monday to determine who this might have been led to speculation within the government and among diplomats that it may have been a Scandinavian or a Romanian. But no one who fit Snow's description could be pinpointed.

On this emissary and his role administration officials had only "no comment."

However, state department spokesman Charles W. Bray III said that "I think you can assume we've discussed our desires for better relations with a number of other governments. It seems quite possible that representatives of those other governments have made known our views to officials of the People's Republic of China and I assume it is those communications that Snow has reference to in his story."

Later newsmen were told they could assume there had been "a full two-way flow" of such communications. However, Bray said there has yet been no sign from Peking of a desire to renew the Sino-American talks at Warsaw broken off at the time of the 1970 Cambodian incursion.

Snow also reported Mao as saying that Chinese-American problems would have to be solved with Nixon. In a roundabout way he seemed to suggest an opening for a discussion of the Taiwan question by asking, as Snow recounted it: Why continue such a stalemate? Chiang Kai-Shek had not yet died. But what had Taiwan to do with Nixon? That question was created by Truman and Acheson.

PAINTING SWAP WITH TORONTO

A Greater Victoria Art Gallery collection of Japanese paintings will be sent to Toronto next year as a loan exhibition to the Royal Ontario Museum.

The 60 paintings were evaluated over the weekend by oriental art expert Prof. Glenn Webb of the University of Washington and six students.

Gallery director Colin Graham said they will use the information they have compiled to write catalogue notes for the exhibition in Toronto.

The collection will go on exhibition during December 1972 and January 1973, he said.

Graham also said the Royal Ontario Museum will send to Victoria 150 items from its Chinese collection.

"We feel flattered and pleased that they are shipping so much," he said. "In the past the Royal Ontario Museum has never allowed more than a few specimens from their great collection."

He said the exchange was initiated by the Royal Ontario Museum.

Death Ruled Natural

A 66-year-old Victoria woman died in Gorge Hospital Sunday of natural causes and not as a result of a recent traffic accident, Coroner Edmond St. Jorre ruled Tuesday following an inquiry.

St. Jorre said Miss Violet Burgess, 450 Dallas, died from an acute coronary insufficiency and other natural causes. Death was not the result of an accident she was involved in April 10.

She suffered cuts, abrasions and bruises when the car she was driving hit a lamp standard in a driveway at the Ogden Point entrance on St. Lawrence.

Youth Plan Won't Cost A Cent for First Year

A $20,500 youth rehabilitation program proposed by the Victoria youth services committee won't cost the city anything during its first year of operation, Ald. Ove Witt said Tuesday.

If council approves the program, federal and provincial subsidies paid retroactively for the last two years will cover the cost of the program, committee chairman Witt said.

He told a meeting of the committee the program, begun on a tentative basis last summer, involves youth unable to get or keep jobs or recently expelled from school.

The program operates through the Victoria Boy's Club and makes use of young, non-professional staff as well as professionals.

If the city approves the program, the city's will be the same as last year: $22,000.

The total youth budget, $59,218, will bring federal subsidies under the Canada Assistance Plan to the tune of $29,608.

If the program continues next year, Witt said, he hopes to involve other municipalities in the cost, in an attempt to keep the city's cost in the $22,000 range.

RETIREMENT TERMINATED

O O G GESHALL, England (UPI) — Building worker Alf Bishop is back on the job after three months in "retirement" under the misapprehension he had reached age 65.

"I needed a birth certificate for something else," he said. "When I got it I found I'd been born in 1907, not 1906. I'm thrilled. I didn't want to retire. I hate doing nothing. Now I feel 10 years younger."

HOME GARDEN

Fragrance and Good Coloring

By HILDA BEASTALL

Carnations grown by amateur gardeners in this country are quite different to those raised by professionals. Here we just want fragrance and good colors for cutting. We are not as a rule looking for perfection of form for exhibiting.

Fortunately we can grow fine garden carnations from seed. The plants are not too long lived, though it is possible to take cuttings, or pipings, to propagate those which especially please us.

Roughly there are two types of carnation seed offered—annuals which bloom in July and August from an indoor March sowing, and perennials to sow outdoors in early June for blooming the following year.

Separate colors are usually available in each group, so that a bed can be made up of one solid color, or a blend of two.

Carnation seeds germinate in four or five days at 60 to 65 deg. F., the desirable range. A fair amount of sand needs to be used in the seed mixture to prevent damping off.

Give the seedlings plenty of light and air after germination. As soon as possible prick out, either into a flat if indoors, or into a prepared seedling bed if outdoors.

Just as the first true leaves can be seen between the two seed leaves is the ideal time. Incorporate some screened wood ash with the compost for this first seedling move, and give a spacing of two inches each way.

As the seedlings grow, never have the soil soggy wet. Carnations like plenty of sun but they will not stand wet soil.

One of their great uses in Europe was in balcony boxes above the crowded narrow city streets, their perfume a welcome mask to other odors inseparable from the unsanitary conditions of the middle ages.

The carnations even then had long stems which were encouraged to droop from the balconies, spilling their grateful scents.

After flowering in our gardens, we must at once trim the straggling growths back, so that strong compact plants will develop before winter for the next year.

When carnations are allowed to go into our mild winters with a lot of elongating flower stems, the plants become weakened with the constant effort to produce a bloom at the tip. Cut back every stem, by middle of September which you find having this tendency, and your carnations will look fresh and ready to go in April.

KARPIN ON BRIDGE

By FRED KARPIN

In the deal presented below, a defender came up with an excellent falsecard, and thereby talked declarer into adopting a losing line of play. Nevertheless, declarer was strictly at fault for not coming up with the right play. Can you find declarer's mistake?

The bidding:

1NT Pass 6NT Pass
Pass Pass

Opening lead: Jack of 10.

The bidding was routine: North, holding 17 high-card points, added them to South's guaranteed minimum of 16, and promptly bid the small slam.

West's diamond opening was captured by dummy's king, after which a spade was led, South finessing his queen successfully. At this point, declarer had 11 sure tricks.

Hoping that the adversely-held spades were divided 3-3 originally, it was now South's intention to lead the ace of spades, and to follow up by leading a third spade, conceding the trick to the defenders. South's two remaining spades would then be supreme.

But when he cashed the spade ace, East dropped the king. Fearful that East had no more spades (and, hence, that West had started the J-10-9-5), South now abandoned the spade suit. He next led a low heart, and finessed dummy's jack. When East won this trick with his queen, the slam contract became unmakeable. What was South's error?

After the spade queen had won the second trick, declarer should not have cashed his spade ace (upon which East falsecarded with the king). Instead, at trick three, he should have played back a low spade, conceding the trick to the defenders.

If it would not have mattered which of the opponents elected to capture this trick. Whatever return either of them made, South would capture. He would now lay down the spade ace. With the favorable division of the outstanding spades being revealed, South's fourth spade would now become his twelfth trick.

And if it had turned out that the six missing spades were not divided 3-3, then declarer, still having the lead, would be able to finesse the jack of hearts, as a last resort, today it would have been unnecessary to depend on the last resort.

Fun with Figures

By JAH HUNTER

We have 3679 for the game today. Using all four digits each time, one of each and no other digits at all, you form expressions for consecutive numbers from one up.

Any arithmetical signs may be used but no summation (that's not the simple plus) or factorial symbols. Don't forget decimals, powers and roots (no extra digits).

For example, 37+9-6 is a solution for 40.

The limit without a break in continuity seems to be only 88. I shall be glad to check solutions, and will send free hints to help in future games if requested.

Females Turn Robbers

BOMBAY (CP) — Women bandits have been terrorizing several hamlets in the north Indian state of Bihar.

One group, consisting of eight members, was rounded up by the police after it raided the house of a wealthy farmer. Press reports said the farmer's daughter-in-law died of fright.

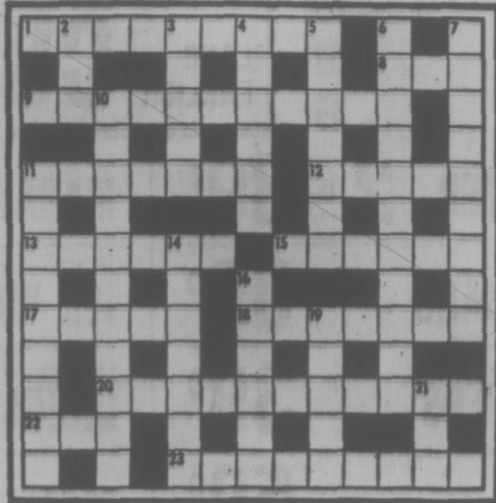

Newspapers published in Patna, the state capital, said the women bandits are well organized and generally elusive.

One villager told police the bandits are armed with rifles and spears.

DOG KNOWS THE JOINT

SPOKANE (AP) — Prince, the Spokane police department's marijuana-sniffing dog, isn't the only pooch in the city with a nose for pot. At least that's what police concluded after receiving a report from a woman.

She said she let her dog out of the house and when the animal returned he had a plastic bag in his mouth.

The bag contained nine marijuana cigarettes, police said.

Festival Bridges The Generation Gap

By AUDREY JOHNSON
Music that bridged the generation gap was a feature of an evening session, Tuesday, in the Victoria Music Festival.

The session involved choirs from private and public senior secondary schools at Oak Bay Junior Secondary and it concluded with two of the important classes that are new this year.

These were British Columbia choir championships for senior school and for community choirs.

With classes for junior secondary school band, senior secondary band and community band, they will now become an annual event.

Winners in all cases will compete in finals in Vancouver. This first year's finals will be held in Vancouver's War Memorial Gymnasium at the University of British Columbia May 5, 6 and 7.

Band competitions in the Victoria Festival take place tonight at Central Junior Secondary.

In the community choir competition, three totally different ensembles presented a challenge for adjudicator Sherwood Robson.

Victoria Girls Choir, a youthful, moderate-sized and very musical group of somewhat brief experience, was pitted against the combined Queen Margaret and Brentwood College School Choirs and the mature, long established Arion Male Voice Choir.

The Arion was chosen by Robson with a margin of four points over the other two who were tied with a total of 171. In the school championship class, Claremont was selected to proceed to the finals with a lead of a single point over its rivals, Brentwood College.

Since he began adjudication Sunday afternoon, strings adjudicator Dr. Murray Adaskin has expressed genuine delight in the quality of the strong work in this city.

Quantity too excites him for there has been a great upsurge in the festival since last year when he also adjudicated these classes.

Adaskin, who is head of the music department at the University of Saskatchewan, says concerning the Sunday session, "It is the first time ever, at any festival, that I have heard an entire afternoon of cellos."

He has been most impressed with the numbers of school string orchestras and concerning the Victoria Schools Orchestra Strings, he remarked that he "doubted if the pieces could have been played more beautifully." The group was given a mark of 92.

But the Victoria Schools Symphony Orchestra topped that, receiving 93 with an outstanding adjudication.

A young chamber group consisting of Marc Destrube, violin, Gary Russell, cello, and Roger Scobie, piano, played in the strings evening session, Tuesday.

"This was a most beautiful performance," said Adaskin. "They're a very sensitive trio and I hope they'll stay together. I gave them a mark of 90."

Among soloists violinist Gwen Hoebig continued her impressive record of the last two years in Victoria Festivals by being awarded a 92 in her open solo class, and a 90 in the open concerto class which she won by two marks over Stephen Calder.

The two were in competition also in the violin and piano sonata open class.

Here, where pianist as well as violinist is judged, Gwen was one point behind her pianist, Frances Crampton (87 and 88 for a total of 175). The class was won by Stephen with his brother Stuart at the piano. Their total was 176 (89 and 87).

In addition to the band and B.C. Centennial instrumental solo classes at Central Junior tonight, there will be second-year school choir sessions at Oak Bay Junior.

School choral will continue the evening will be devoted at Oak Bay all day Thursday, to the dance honor performance at Central Junior.

There will be no day sessions Friday but in the evening the schools honor program will be presented at Central.

Rich Little, Ottawa born impersonator-comedian, will appear at the Jaycee Fair May 19 and 20.
Little, 32, is known for his impersonations of politicians. One of his favorite subjects in past years has been John Diefenbaker.
Singer-comedian Tiny Tim appears May 17 and 18. His wife Vicki will accompany him. There is a possibility Ann Murray, the popular Canadian singer will wind up the fair, with a singing appearance spokesman Stan Wallace said, "but we're still not sure."
The fair, held in the Memorial Arena grounds and buildings, begins May 17 and continues until the following Monday.

YOUR HEALTH: Dr. Walter Alvarez

In my 25 years at the Mayo Clinic, I saw probably a few hundred patients with duodenal ulcer, and I became greatly impressed with the fact that practically always, when I could get the patient to talk to me frankly, I learned of some heavy nervous strain, either at his office or in his home, and whenever I could help a patient to get rid of his strain or annoyance, I immediately relieved his ulcer pain.

An ulcer is a cup-shaped, eaten-away area in the mucous lining either of the stomach (a gastric ulcer), or of the duodenum, the first 12 inches of the small bowel. The duodenal ulcer usually forms in the first two-inch-long segment, just beyond the stomach. An ulcer in the stomach is seldom larger than a quarter, while in the duodenum, it is seldom larger than a dime.

Anyone who has seen, as I have, the mucous membrane lining of the bowel, normally a pinkish color, becomes dark red, and swollen when a person gets angry or frightened or worried, will understand why some people can develop an ulcer if something goes wrong in their lives. Interestingly, four times as many men as women develop ulcers.

I remember that back in 1912 I had an interesting, friendly patient, a university professor who had made a valuable invention. So long as the invention worked well and money poured into his bank account, he had no tummy pain (typical of ulcers), but every so often his invention, placed in some factory, would fail to work well, and then, threatened with financial ruin, he would get a flare-up of his ulcer. This happened half a dozen times during the two years in which I knew him well.

People

LINCOLN, England (AP) — Jean Coleman, 27, accused Victor Speed, 28, of raping her in the front seat of a Morris Minor automobile. "I suppose it is possible to have intercourse," admitted defence counsel Igor Judge, noting the modest size of a Morris Minor, one cut above a mini-car. "You must ask yourselves as question No. 1 if it was possible for him to have raped her." The jury of 10 men and two women thought it over for 15 minutes. "Not guilty," they ruled.

Last November Caleb Hornbostel, an architect, threw out the house telephone. He says it improved his life. For a while Hornbostel's 14-year-old son, Joel and his daughter, Martha, 15, "really hated" him, he says. Now the children, when they tire of using a pay phone a few blocks away, visit friends. They study more, and wife Martha has taken a part-time job. "The silence is so beautiful," says Mrs. Hornbostel.

PTA Head Urges New Image

NEW WESTMINSTER (CP) — The president of the Educational Research Institute of British Columbia said Tuesday the B.C. Parent-Teacher Association must change its aims and image to fill a useful role in education.

AUBURN, Calif. (UPI)

After a 47-mile chase at speeds reaching 120 miles an hour — half of it the wrong way down Interstate 80 — the California highway patrol Tuesday stopped a car driven by a woman who said, "No man can handle a car like I can." The chase ended when the car crashed into three highway patrol cars at the third roadblock set up to stop her. No one was hurt, and Mrs. Fay D. Kendall, 43, was arrested.

LONDON (AP)

Glenda Jackson got her Oscar for the best film actress Tuesday — two weeks late. The British actress, who won the gold statuette for her performance in Women in Love, couldn't travel to Hollywood two weeks ago when the presentations were made. So, Hal B. Wallis, who is producing her new film, Mary, Queen of Scots, brought it over.

BRIDGETON, N.J. (UPI)

A 32-year-old parachute instructor will attempt to break the world endurance record for parachute jumps now held by a Canadian, it was announced today. The instructor, Bernice Sayers, said he expects to make 200 jumps in 24 hours over Woodbine Airport near Millville, N.J., beginning Friday at 6 p.m. EDT. Several planes will be used in the effort and 15 parachute riggers will keep six jump suits rigged at all times.

Dance This Friday To the Mom and Dads

At the Crystal Garden Friday, Victorians will have an opportunity to dance to the sound of a group that has been running up quite a score with similar dates around the country.

The Mom and Dads hit the air waves with their first "single," The Rangers Waltz, and disc jockeys who played it were immediately inundated with calls asking where the record could be purchased.

$25 Fine for Legislative Shouting

A 22-year-old Victoria man was fined $25 in court Tuesday for his part in the noisy demonstration at the opening of the legislature Jan. 21.

Judge E. F. N. Robinson imposed the fine after finding Dennis Gordon Tottenham, 426 Niagara, guilty of causing a disturbance by shouting.

Robinson said he would have no hesitation in dealing severely with the accused if "I had felt for a moment that he was the source of the trouble at the legislature."

The judge noted there was considerable confusion "as to who was who" at the demonstration.

The lenient sentence was due to this confusion and the list of "very admirable" qualities of Tottenham, including work for Cool-Aid, a drop-in centre, and the Low Income Group.

Aussie Rugby XV Schedules Visit

SYDNEY, Australia (Reuters) — Australia's Rugby Union touring side will play in Vancouver on their return journey from France later this year, the Australian Rugby Union executive committee has announced. The Australians will tour France in October and November and will play eight games, including two tests.

Barrett Raps Welfare Care

The provincial government's plan to build 450 intermediate care beds for elderly welfare recipients was described today by Opposition Leader Dave Barrett as "a real attack" on middle-income groups.

Barrett also said the three 150-bed centres for the care of elderly persons will be too large and will lock the government into an inflexible, centralized program which makes neither economic nor medical sense.

The NDP leader took a similar viewpoint to Scott Wallace (SC — Oak Bay) in regretting that the government's entry into the intermediate care field was limited to welfare and low-income groups.

In a telephone interview, Barrett said this amounted to "a real attack on those from the middle income groups who have been lucky enough to put aside a few dollars only to be faced with the continuous burden of care" in their old age.

Wallace said such a person would have to have his savings depleted before becoming eligible for admission to such a hospital. He said the criteria for admission should be on medical grounds only, with all persons eligible. He also doubted whether the government should run such hospitals. Non-profit organizations would be preferable, he said.

Barrett described the idea of large centralized institutions for the poor as having a flavor reminiscent of the Charles Dickens era of 19th century England.

The government's move

would also ensure that private hospitals like Sandringham Hospital in Victoria would continue in their positions of "making money out of illness" by shifting some of the burden of care to the government," Barrett said.

Such hospitals are currently required to reserve up to one-third of their beds for welfare recipients.

Barrett said it is "completely absurd" to think that large centralized units can reduce costs when the same services can be provided in a network of small, community-based homes tied in with services available through larger hospitals.

"The most important aspect is to give people an opportunity to stay close to their home community," Barrett said.

The government said its hospitals will care for persons whose needs can't be met in a residential boarding home but who do not require 24-hour care.

Wallace said the government should be praised for apparently being prepared to finance a program for the elderly on its own without federal cost-sharing but he described the plans as timid.

He was also critical of the lack of communication between government and government MLAs, saying the hospitals will care for persons whose needs can't be met in a residential boarding home but who do not require 24-hour care.

One of the 150-bed units will be built on the grounds of Glendale Hospital for the physically and mentally disabled on Markham Road in Saanich. The other two will be at Vancouver and Kamloops.

A spokesman for the B.C. Private Hospitals' Association said the government won't be able to operate its units at a cost of $9.25 per day per patient, which is what the government currently pays the hospitals for welfare cases.

He said the public has a right to know how much the government proposes to spend on the program.

Rest home owners are planning a meeting tonight to consider making a strong statement on the government's failure to meet their needs for welfare recipients, a request for higher payments spokesman said.

CAPITAL SCENE

Camouso Telephone Retired Employees' Club will hold a rummage sale at the Inn on Cook Street, April 30, 10 a.m.

Esquimalt Lions Club, Carlton Club, Tuesday at 6:30 p.m. General business will be discussed and recommendations from the board of directors will be considered.

Teamsters' Dispute Decision Delayed

VANCOUVER (CP) — Mr. Justice McIntyre of the British Columbia Supreme Court Tuesday reserved decision on an application by the Teamsters Union that the court quash a ruling of the B.C. Mediation Commission in a dispute between the union and three cement and concrete companies in the Vancouver area.

Mr. Justice McIntyre gave no indication when a decision could be expected.

The mediation commission's ruling, handed down in September, 1970, was the first involving a private industry since enactment of the B.C. Mediation Act in 1968.

It was a two-year agreement, giving about 900 employees of La Farge Concrete, Ocean Cement and Metro Concrete a 75-cent-an-hour increase retroactive to Jan. 1, 1970.

One month later, former Labor Minister Leslie Peterson ordered a re-examination of the decision after the teamsters alleged the commission was not impartial. In November, the commission handed down a new decision which did not change the original on major issues.

Ed Lawson, Teamsters Canadian director, said Tuesday Mr. Peterson had ordered a second re-examination of the decision. "We were before the commission Monday and we are now awaiting their decision," he said.

Appearing before Mr. Justice McIntyre, the Teamsters alleged the commission had helped the three companies with their case at the first rehearing.

Indians Told to Run Mayoralty Candidate

BURNS LAKE, B.C. (CP) — Mayor John Baker said Monday night Indians living within the Burns Lake municipality should have a representative on municipal council and he suggested Indian people think about running a mayoralty candidate in the next election.

Mr. Baker met with a delegation from the community's two reserves concerning a recent move by the municipality to cut off water and sewer service to the reserves.

Mrs. Baker said the municipality has no quarrel with the Indian people but had to do something drastic to get Ottawa and Victoria to act on a request for per-capita grants for native people living within the municipality.

"We have been accused of playing politics," he said, "and by supplying documents while withholding them from the Teamsters.

Commission counsel said documents given the companies were copies of contract agreements which were public information and were available to both sides.

'TAXATION AD INCREDIBLE' —BARRETT

Opposition Leader Dave Barrett today described as "incredible" a provincial government newspaper advertisement telling B.C. citizens that they have the lowest income taxes in Western Canada.

"I wonder if this is the replacement for liquor advertising?" Barrett said, referring to the total ban on liquor advertising effective Sept. 1.

"It has the overtones of a wild weekend of self-induced political intoxication," Barrett said.

"The diagnosis and treatment is an early retirement from access to the public treasury for the minister of finance (Premier Bennett)," he added.

The advertisement, which appeared in newspapers today, compares B.C. income taxes with those of other western provinces and says "our total services and grants are the best in Canada."

that may be right. But we feel we are entitled to that grant. You are members of this community and the two senior governments are treating you as second-class citizens by ignoring that."

Band Chief Margaret Patrick said the mayor talks of equality but failed to notify the Indians before the municipality acted to cut off water and sewer service.

Burns Lake is about 130 miles west of Prince George, in the B.C. Interior.

ESKIMOS SIGN TACKLE

EDMONTON (CP) — Signing of Lonnie Maich, former offensive tackle with Hamilton Tiger-Cats, has been announced by Edmonton Eskimos of the Western Football Conference.

CRAIGFLOWER ELEMENTARY class takes a leap into the past, and suddenly it's 1871. Dressed in period costumes, these Grades 4 and 5 pupils and their teacher Maureen Archambault are on their best behavior as principal Wilfred Durrant, playing the role of inspector, drops in for a visit. The visit into the past, which took place in the 116-year-old Craigflower School across the road from the present-day school, is an attempt to recapture the feeling of a schoolhouse a century ago.

'Mixed Up, Brainwashed... What Are We Missing?'

KAMLOOPS, B.C. (CP) — "I know I'm a mixed up Indian. I know I've been a little brainwashed. I've been in the education system for 16 years. What we want is some constructive criticism, what are we missing out on?"

This was the question asked by Ayongnan, a University of Calgary graduate, and the topic of the second day of the national conference on Indian culture Tuesday.

The session concentrated on Indian religions and the role they play in Indian culture. Many of the 50 delegates expressed views that religion is a prime moving force behind the Indian culture and brought forward two resolutions designed to maintain it.

One of them called for government support of efforts to tape record and photograph ancient Indian religious ceremonies for posterity.

DRIFTING OFF

"Many of our young people are drifting off into a no-man's land," said Ernest Tootsis, a teacher at the Indian Culture College at the University of Saskatchewan.

"They are caught between two cultures, the white man's and the Indian's."

Conference chairman Ken Goodwill pointed out that the Indian religion is not something "written in a book 2,000 years ago." He said it was a religion that was a part of the Indian way of life and helped him in his daily struggle.

The other resolution dealt with future negotiations with the federal government and suggested that a non-partisan committee of Indians be established by the conference to bargain for and co-ordinate federal funds earmarked for reviving Indian culture.

Delegates also discussed the prospect of having Indian artifacts presently held by the national museum returned to native groups and freedom of choice for native youth attending mission schools in the study of Christian or Indian religions.

Campbell Confirms Smythe Will Appeal

TORONTO (CP) — Clarence Campbell, National Hockey League president, confirmed Monday that Stafford Smythe, president of Toronto Maple Leafs, will appeal a $5,000 fine assessed his club following a playoff donnybrook at New York April 8.

But there was some question about whether the Rangers will appeal a similar club fine handed down by the NHL president despite New York president William Jennings' original intent to do so.

Campbell said in a telephone interview from Chicago, where he will view tonight's fifth game of the Stanley Cup semi-final between New York and Chicago Black Hawks, that "Toronto has appealed; Rangers have not."

He said that both clubs had 10 days from the April 13 assessment of the fines to file an appeal.

Jennings, reached by telephone Monday at his New York office, said he had an understanding with Campbell and the board of governors chairman, William Wirtz of Chicago, that the appeal date would be extended.

Campbell denied an extension had been granted, adding:

"I don't want to make any public comment on this. Another controversy is the last thing I want."

He said the fines will be discussed at the next annual meeting, early in June in Montreal.

The $5,000 fines meted out against each club represent the maximum authorized by league governors in 1968 and the total fines of $16,950 was a league record.

Ninth Straight Year In $100,000 Bracket

NEW YORK (AP) — Jack Nicklaus' runaway victory in last weekend's Tournament of Champions vaulted the Golden Bear into the lead of pro golf's money winners and into the $100,000 bracket for the ninth successive year, the Professional Golfers' Association said Monday.

Nicklaus pocketed $33,000 for his eight-stroke triumph at Rancho La Costa, Calif., raising his season winnings to $106,775. Arnold Palmer, who finished 16 strokes off the pace to collect $3,100, is second with $103,928 and Gary Player, who shared the runner-up spot at Rancho La Costa with Dave Stockton, earned $12,760 to move into third on the winnings list with $94,775.

Filling out the top 10 money winners are Miller Barber $93,584, Billy Casper $84,820, Tom Shaw $81,603, George Archer $67,247, Lee Trevino $66,342, Carlyle Snead $62,244 and Dave Eichelberger $54,579.

Now Fred Muller, co-owner of St. Catharines Black Hawks, is going to the United States to scout out players for his Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series team.

"In five years there'll be a big switch," said Muller whose Black Hawks currently lead Toronto Marlboros 2-0 in their best-of-seven series final. "We'll be getting our players from the U.S. . . providing the Americans don't put in a rule prohibiting transfer of their players to Canada."

MAJOR SWITCH

Whatever the outcome, it's a big switch for Canadian hockey. The usual pattern is for other countries to import our coaches and players.

Muller first got the idea that there must be hotbeds of hockey talent in the U.S. after watching Bobby Sheehan, a native of Boston who played his early Canadian hockey at Halifax, before moving to the Black Hawks. That was two years ago.

Sheehan now is with Montreal Canadiens in the National Hockey League.

Puck Scouts Look South For Players

ST. CATHARINES, Ont. (CP) — It had to come. University of British Columbia earlier this year imported Anatoly Tarasov, coach of Russia's national team, to lecture a coaching clinic.

Now Fred Muller, co-owner of St. Catharines Black Hawks, is going to the United States to scout out players for his Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series team.

"In five years there'll be a big switch," said Muller whose Black Hawks currently lead Toronto Marlboros 2-0 in their best-of-seven series final. "We'll be getting our players from the U.S. . . providing the Americans don't put in a rule prohibiting transfer of their players to Canada."

MAJOR SWITCH

Sheehan now is with Montreal Canadiens in the National Hockey League.

While with Vancouver he was once loaned to Victoria Cougars, unable to ice a complete team during the flu epidemic of 1919. Sharing blue-line duties with Lester Patrick, he scored a winning goal in one game against Vancouver.

West Coast Derby Hope Wins Trial

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Vegas Vic, one of the hopes of the West Coast, for a victory in the Kentucky Derby, scored a narrow victory Tuesday in the Derby Trial Stakes, the last tune-up for Saturday's Derby.

Vegas Vic overtook Jr.'s Arrowhead in the final 1-16th mile and won by a length with On The Money third, 1 1/2 lengths behind Jr.'s Arrowhead.

Vegas Vic, with jockey Howard Grant in the saddle, was held only a few lengths off the pace for the first half of the one-mile race and began his move as the field of seven passed the quarter pole at the head of the stretch.

The first two finishers seem likely Derby starters.

Longboat Award

NANAIMO (CP) — Bill Seward, 80, of the Nanaimo Indian Band is British Columbia's winner of the Ton Longboat medal, awarded annually in each province by the Athletic Union of Canada.

Pancake Festival Planned

A Venturer group representing the North Saanich Peninsula will hold a pancake festival at the Saanich fair grounds on May 15.

Sponsored by the Ladies Auxiliary of the 3rd South Tsartlip Venturers, the event will feature exhibits of camping equipment and Scout craft.

Six bands will participate in the festival — Victoria Junior Police Band, Third Time Around AXIL Country Travellers, Northern Lites, Baywolf and Morning Star. Mayors Archie Galbraith of Central Saanich, James Cumming of North Saanich and Stanley Dear of Sidney will attend the opening.

The festival will run from 9 a.m. to 8 p.m. and wind up with a dance at Sanscha Hall, starting at nine.

Proceeds from the festival will go towards the purchase of equipment and recreation.

Inner Harbor Chip Storage Halted by CP

Canadian Pacific has stopped the use of its Inner Harbor wharves for mooring wood chip barges. Mayor Courtney Haddock said today.

The mooring arrangement with Island Tug and Barge ended April 1, according to a letter from Harry Tyson, CP manager of marine services. Meanwhile, CP's plans for converting the docks to other uses appeared to be nearing completion. Haddock met with officials of CP's Marathon Realty for 30 minutes today.

It was learned a plan for the CP wharves includes a restaurant with revolving lounge and eight boutiques, a marina for about 50 small boats, and the Undersea Gardens repositioned between the inner and outer wharves.

Answering CP's letter regarding the end of the chip barge mooring, Haddock said the move was "good news indeed to the citizens of Victoria, some of whom have made complaints to me about this unsightliness . . ."

Swedes Don't Want Coach

STOCKHOLM (CP-AP) — The Swedish Ice Hockey Federation said today that Billy Harris, veteran of 12 seasons in the National Hockey League, is not being considered as coach of the Swedish national team.

"We have contacted him about summer ice hockey schools in Sweden, but certainly not for coaching the Swedish national team," said Jan Berglund, secretary of the Swedish federation.

Berglund denied reports that Harris, 35-year-old Toronto native, is a candidate for coach of the national team.

Flyers Transfer Club to Richmond

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — Philadelphia Flyers of the National Hockey League announced Monday the transfer to here of their Quebec City American Hockey League franchise for the 1971-72 season.

The Flyers said Quebec City coach Eddie Bush, 53, will also guide the Richmond team, which is yet unnamed.

Opting Out To Await Tax Reform

Times Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — Provinces may opt out of the cost sharing programs with the federal government but they will have to wait until the proposed new federal tax reform legislation has been implemented, Prime Minister Trudeau said Tuesday.

"We have now taken note of the stand of the Ontario government. We will, after the tax reform has been implemented, sit down with provincial authorities and discuss ways by which they might re-exercise the right of opting out which they did not exercise previously," said the prime minister.

Trudeau was responding to questions from David Lewis, newly elected New Democratic Party national leader who referred to the budget speech of Ontario Treasurer Darcy McKeough.

CRITICAL OF POLICIES
The Ontario treasurer was critical of federal economic policies saying they were detrimental to the interests of Ontario as well as the national interest.

He said it is Ontario's intention to assume complete responsibility for federal-provincial shared cost programs such as health insurance and post secondary education and ask for a tax equivalent such as that given Quebec when it withdrew in 1968.

The offer of opting out of shared cost programs was made in 1964 and remained open until 1968. Quebec was the only province to take that step.

BASE TO CHANGE
"When the government presented its white paper on taxation it withdrew this offer for the simple reason that the whole basis of tax points was to be changed. Therefore the offer under the reformed tax system could not be made in the same way," said the prime minister.

However, he added, the principle of opting out is still acceptable and after the tax reform measures have been implemented Ottawa would be ready to discuss opting out with provinces wanting to exercise that right.

"A special status?" asked Opposition Leader Robert Stanfield.
Trudeau said there will be no "special status" because it will be offered to all provinces as it was in 1964.

Trio Questioned By Police After Bank Job

VANCOUVER (CP) — Police in Vancouver were questioning three men today in a $327,550 holdup at a branch of the Bank of Montreal here Tuesday.

Two of the men were arrested at Haney in the Fraser Valley and a third was arrested in Burnaby, near Vancouver.

No charges have been laid in the bank robbery, the biggest in the city's history.

The robbery at the Bank of Montreal's Vancouver General Hospital branch took place 40 minutes after it opened for the day's business. Two pistol-wielding bandits rushed into the bank and grabbed the cash from the vault minutes after it was delivered by an armored truck. It was to have been used to cash part of the payroll for the hospital's 4,500 employees.

A third man waited in the stolen getaway car, which had pulled into the parking spot vacated by the armored truck.

ORDER STAFF OUT
As they entered the vault, the gunmen ordered out accountant Gerhard Janitschek and assistant Evelyn Gronlund who were sorting the cash.

"I just stood there," Miss Gronlund said. "I couldn't."

Alliance Levels Patronage Charge

OTTAWA (CP) — New government hiring procedures have resulted in increasing patronage in the appointment of federal employees, the president of the 140,000-member Public Service Alliance of Canada said Tuesday.

Appearing before the Commons miscellaneous estimates committee, Claude Edwards said some departmental managers "are not hiring on the basis that the best candidate gets the job."

He told the committee of one instance in which a female employee was hired for five months as a casual worker, then selected over more experienced, better-qualified candidates in a competition for a full time position.

The manager of the small-town government office, he said, had advertised the competition for only one day and had personally prepared the competition test.

"If you'll excuse me, I think there's something fishy in that," Edwards told committee members.

Edwards said the incident is one of several the alliance has brought to the attention of the public service commission, charged with ensuring that merit is the sole basis on which federal employees are hired and promoted.

He said abuses appear to have crept into the hiring system since the commission

'Carpet of Bodies' Laid by Protesters

WASHINGTON (AP) — Police arrested about 200 anti-war activists today after they blocked the main entrance of the Selective Service system's headquarters building.

The youths, protesting at the building for the second straight day, formed what they called "a carpet of bodies" in front of the main doors.

Employees arriving early were told by the protesters they could enter the building but only if they walked over the demonstrators, lying face down as symbols of those killed in the Vietnam war.

The demonstrations, organized by the People's Coalition for Peace and Justice, are part of a spring campaign to persuade Congress and the Nixon administration to end the war in Vietnam.

Meanwhile the heads of 27 religious bodies with a membership of more than 85 million Americans Tuesday issued an unprecedented "call to repentance and renewal" over the war in Indochina.

Catholic, Protestant, Jewish and Orthodox leaders asked that bells be tolled across the U.S. from noon to 1 p.m. Saturday in "mourning for those who have already died in Southeast Asia and our sorrow that the killing continues."

The call was described as "totally unprecedented in the history of religion in this country" by the Rev. Dr. William Wilson Manross, church historian on the faculty of the Philadelphia divinity school.

Meanwhile, the Press Trust of India news agency reported today that at least 25 persons were killed and several injured when Pakistani troops fired on an Indian border enclave adjoining East Pakistan.

PTI also said five persons were killed and three were injured Tuesday when Pakistani soldiers crossed the border in the village of Boyria some 40 miles north of Calcutta.

Park Margin Trimmed

SEOUL (AP) — President Chung Hee Park of South Korea won a third term by a big margin Tuesday, but not as big as the last time.

With 73 per cent of the estimated 12.2 million votes in the election tabulated, Park had 4.8 million votes to 3.9 million for National Assemblyman Kim Dae-jung of the New Democratic party.

Park's Democratic Republican party said it was clear the president had been elected to a third four-year

India, Pakistan Backing Down As Talks Resume to End Crisis

NEW DELHI (Reuters) — India and Pakistan appeared today to be drawing away from the brink of a diplomatic showdown over the East Pakistan crisis.

Officials of both countries conferred at length here Tuesday on ways of solving the impasse over the repatriation of their diplomats from Calcutta and Dacca which has been a major factor in the growing tension between them.

India accused Pakistan of holding its diplomats in Dacca

under virtual house arrest although it was not clear how the government had received information from the East Pakistan capital.

In Calcutta, West Pakistani diplomats were kept under what was called "police vigilance." The Dacca and Calcutta missions were closed Monday after East Pakistani diplomats defected to the breakaway republic of Bangladesh and a New Pakistani deputy high commissioner ran into angry demonstrations.

The dangers arising from the war of words and refusal of either side to allow the other's diplomats to leave except on the basis of reciprocity still exists.

But there now seems to be a realization that some solution has to be found, observers said.

It is believed that India may have suggested that the diplomats and their families be brought out by road or by an airline of a third country rather than through Karachi as Pakistan has insisted so far.

Pakistan is expected to reply to the Indian proposals within the next 24 hours or so.

QUEEN ILL

The Queen has come down with a heavy cold but a London story that the royal tour of British Columbia next week could be cancelled has been denied by the provincial government. The government also released a detailed schedule of motorcade routes for the Monday and Tuesday visit of the royal family in Victoria. See Page 28.

STUDENTS, FACULTY CRITICAL

Uvic Probe Cuts No Ice

The University of Victoria announced Tuesday the appointment of an external tribunal to inquire into the cases of three teachers involved in a promotion and tenure dispute, but students and faculty were generally critical of the move.

A Tuesday night news release from the Uvic administration revealed that chief Justice J. O. Wilson of the Supreme Court of British Columbia has nominated three men to examine the cases of Dr. William Goede, Dr. Tikam Jain and Toby Graff.

NO NAMES

Wilson did not release the names of the nominees because they had not officially accepted their appointments yet.

The appointment of the tribunal, which is similar to one recommended by the Canadian Association of University Teachers, coincided with release by president Bruce J. Partridge of a rebuttal to an earlier CAUT report which was harshly critical of him and the board of governors.

The CAUT executive recommended censure of Uvic's president and board if an external tribunal were not appointed to examine the three cases.

But the tribunal requested by Partridge differs substantially from that called for by the CAUT.

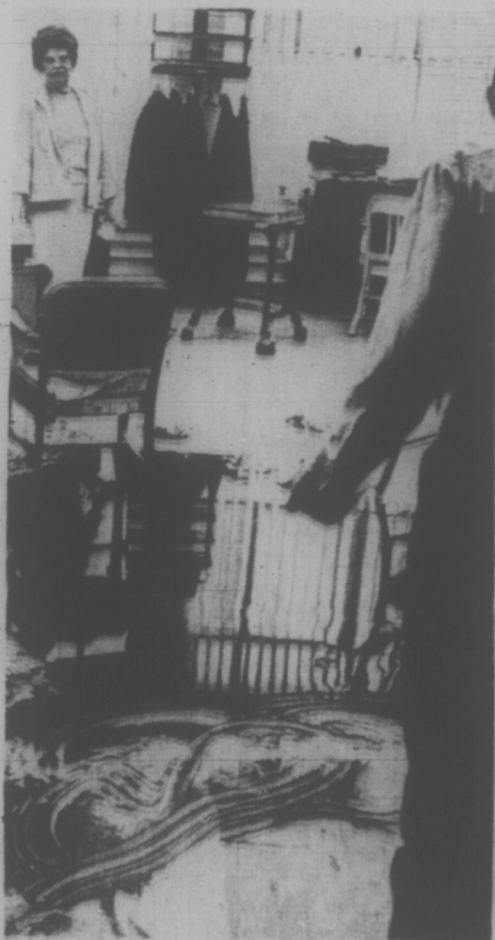

The Uvic release states emphatically that the findings of the tribunal will not be binding upon the university, while the CAUT proposal called for a body composed of representatives from both sides of the dispute sitting with an independent chairman and binding powers.

NO DEADLINE

Students and faculty were critical of the fact that no deadline had been set for the tribunal's inquiry, that it would not be binding, and that

Hecklers Enliven Montreal Hearing

MONTREAL (CP)—Over a constant background of heckling, English-Canadian speakers kept hammering at the theme of their rights in Quebec before the parliamentary committee on the constitution Tuesday night.

A contingent of about 50 young hecklers at the back of a hall in the west-end district of Notre-Dame-de-Grace enlivened the proceedings with noisy but generally good-humored comments. About 350 persons attended.

Of 10 formal briefs read to the committee, nine were from English-Canadians and most called for extension of minority language and education rights to the other provinces to match the rights the English-speaking minority enjoys in Quebec.

Some were clearly apprehensive about the future of these minority rights in Quebec.

BACKS FEDERALISM

Most of the 17 speakers from the floor were French-Canadians and a majority expressed the opinion that the federal system is worn out and Quebec should secede from Canada.

A young French-Canadian got a thorough going-over by the hecklers when he said he was proud of being a Canadian and said federalism was the best guarantee of democracy.

A formal brief from a woman identified as Mlle. Lepage reiterated the plea for minority French language and education rights in other provinces to match those of Anglophones in Quebec.

But an English-speaking woman said many Canadians in Quebec fear losing their rights, homes and jobs and many had already left the province.

Some were prepared to acquiesce meekly if they lost their rights but others would "fight to the death."

She also said a new constitution must guarantee the same minority rights everywhere in Canada.

The committee, made up of senators and members of the House of Commons, continues its Montreal sessions until Thursday.

Gittin' robbed o' $27,000 right in a hospital is kind o' sickenin'.
A warm reception sh'd cure a head cold.

Bravo! Beastly! All on Britannia

Was the long voyage north of Her Majesty's Yacht Britannia, for a brief, largely symbolic appearance in these waters, really necessary? Public opinion is sharply divided as a sampling of the mail indicates:

"I read all your articles in the Victoria Times and usually find them interesting, but the one on Britannia's visit has left me disgusted," writes Miss E. M. Gibson.

"You say you have an 'irrational sentimentality' toward the Royal Family. Why, then, do you resent the Queen having her own yacht here to retire to for a few hours real rest and privacy in accommodation she is used to? The Royal Tour schedule keeps the Queen on the go every minute for nine days and Her Majesty would never ask for something less strenuous. The authorities in England must have realized this and arranged for the Britannia to come out to help ease the strain.

"The Royal Family are scheduled to use the yacht eight days of the 10 they are to be in British Columbia. Presumably England pays expenses so why should a Canadian object?

"And why do you join the modern, discourteous way of calling the Royal Family by their Christian names with no prefix and even the Queen as 'a dear girl'?

"Your article must have caused distress to many readers of the Times."

"All I can add to your comment on Britannia is 'Bravo!' writes London-born R. L. Moyer, a Victoria resident for 25 years.

"It is evident from reading the British press that there is considerable soul-searching on the whole subject of the monarchy and an increasing desire that, in the manner of Queen Juliana of the Netherlands, our Royal Family should be closer to the common people. That this extravagance of Britannia's visit comes at a time of continuing economic problems in Britain provides further evidence that Her Majesty is often ill-informed by her advisers.

"What a triumph it would have been for the image of royalty if Queen Elizabeth had accepted the invitation by the Victoria Low Income Group to join them in a banquet of wieners and beans. She would surely find that they are loyal subjects, too."

"I have today cancelled my subscription to the Victoria Times which has permitted you to insult Her Majesty the Queen," writes Mrs. R. B. "I shall renew my subscription only if you are publicly reprimanded by your editor."

"Thank you, thank you, thank you for that rational and most timely comment regarding the presence of the Royal Yacht," writes G. S. Van der Voort. "That needed saying and, surely, needs study by certain members of the Establishment."

"When this matter of a third celebration in British Columbia was announced I wrote the Hon. Ray Williston asking why, in the name of common sense, this splurge, to be paid for by Canadians, many of whom are trying to live on fixed and shrinking incomes. The ministers replied that it would be a 'low key' affair."

"I had grave doubts about this being the case. To me it suggested another stunt to glorify Bennett and the Socras. It has, as expected, moved into the front ranks of ostentatious nonsense. It is well that there are people in a position to call attention to these displays of political flummery. I am not a Communist, anti-monarchist or Socialist. I am just a retired Canadian who takes a dim view of pointless ceremony."

"As long as the Queen has friends like you she needs no enemies," writes Tom Hamilton.

"Heads of the state do not have, or need, the common touch. They are a symbol to be respected, not necessarily to fraternize with. Great Britain pays the costs of the Royal Yacht Britannia and as they are prepared to pay these costs Canada need have no complaints."

"The Queen is here on a visit requested by the Government of British Columbia and last year was on a visit to help establish Canada's sovereignty in the North, once again at the request of the Canadian government."

"You have no call to talk about the common touch for the Queen while Pierre-Elliott Trudeau is flitting around in a jet designed to carry a couple of hundred people and not always on state business, but on personal holidays. The pilot of this plane, an ex-chief pilot of Air Canada, is getting paid over twice what the British rear-admiral in Britannia is paid. If we want the common touch we could have the Prime Minister of Canada in the tourist section of Air Canada."

"Possibly you have lost the common touch, yourself, as witness your remarks on Quebec. Hardly the common feelings of the rest of Canada. You should have served in uniform in Montreal during the Second World War when you were a third class citizen and much of the city out of bounds to people wearing the uniform of the Canadian Forces."

"Having just finished reading your views about Britannia I send you congratulations and my unreserved endorsement," writes T.A. "It was very, very good. Being an anti-royalist I would have added one final 'Why.' Why Elizabeth?"

"The maintenance of British prestige throughout the world with the help of the Royal Navy, a long, continuing tradition, has paid rich dividends for Britain and the Commonwealth," writes R. L. S. "Britannia is continuing that tradition and to knock it is simply stupid. You say that it is costing $40,000 a week to keep Britannia and her 255-member crew in Esquimalt dockyard. In fact, it is probably a good deal more than that. But these officers and men would be paid in any event and are simply performing a peace-time exercise that is in keeping with the record of the best navy in the world."

"It is interesting to note that Britannia was designed to be both a royal yacht in peace time and hospital ship in time of war," notes Ronald Meighan. "Perhaps this whole visit of the vessel to Victoria could be justified if the ship were made available to those large numbers in this area awaiting operations, but unable to find a hospital bed. When are we ever going to have a world in which common sense will triumph?"

"In your beastly article of last Friday you miss the whole point of Britannia's visit here while the Queen is our guest," writes Mrs. Myrtle Jones. "The yacht was necessary entirely for security reasons to guard Her Majesty from hippie agitators and French-Canadian anarchists. Would you deny her that protection?"

By PETER McNELLY

How did the approximately 400 census interviewer jobs in Greater Victoria get filled with almost no advance publicity?

To answer this question, the Times conducted a telephone survey Tuesday of 14 of the 16 census commissioners in the region who handled applications for interviewer jobs.

Most commissioners said they received more applications than they could fill, but several said they couldn't discuss anything because all statements should come from the census's southern Vancouver Island regional office representative Ward Palmer.

Palmer confirmed Tuesday that testing of the interviewers has finished. Beyond stating this, he referred all further questions to the census office with the Dominion Bureau of Statistics in Vancouver.

Vancouver officials said it is impossible to be specific about the way each commissioner — there are 197 in British Columbia — went about taking applications.

However, one official, Clare Thompson, said the office's administrative duties would have been simplified had all interviewer positions been advertised.

But Thompson said these jobs, which last about three weeks and pay about $200, never have been advertised.

Asked about criticisms from Progressive Conservative house leader Gerald Baldwin of lack of competition for both commissioner and interviewer jobs, Thompson said Baldwin ought to remember that when the Tories ran the country in 1961 the census was organized and conducted the same way as this year.

Vancouver bureau director Robert Kincaid said today his staff never concerns itself with the religion or politics of census commissioners.

However, it is clear that no organized attempt was made in Greater Victoria to recruit unemployed people.

While several commissioners said they took names of everyone who applied, the University of Victoria Canada Manpower centre and the Victoria Low Income Group's youth division said today they never were contacted.

Commissioner Arthur Culbert who had several students applying for interviewer positions said they did better on the test than the older people.

But Kincaid pointed out that students are not always the best people for the job, because they have to quit if they find a full-time work for the summer.

Because the law requires that census questionnaires be completed, a great deal of follow-through work falls to the commissioners. An efficient interviewing staff will help reduce the number of call-backs.

The census begins May 25, and is expected to continue into July when the commissioners should have completed the necessary check-ups on people who have delayed completing the questionnaires.

The Census: Officials Decline to Tell How Jobs Snatched Up

Paralyzed Mother Moved Near Home

A 30-year-old mother of five, paralyzed since 1968 from a car accident, today left St. Joseph's Hospital for the first time — to another hospital bed in Trail.

Still, for Mrs. Joyce Pedersen, it's the happiest day she's known in a long time.

It will be easier for her children to visit her, since they are now living with her parents in Creston.

Mrs. Pedersen has been hospitalized since the day 2½ years ago the car she was driving in alone, crashed through a Malahat guardrail and plunged down an embankment.

Once she is taken off the charter plane today, it will be the first time in two years since she's seen her sons Karl, 3, and Stephen, 9.

Robert, 11, Elaine, 4, and Gordon, 8, were able to see their mother a year ago.

"It's going to be wonderful to be able to get to know each other again," Mrs. Pedersen said.

Unable to lift a hand, she has managed to read books. Almost on cue, she says, there was always an orderly or nurse on hand when it came time to turn a page.

Beside her bed this morning was a huge carton of gifts from the staff.

... happiest days in ages

"They've been wonderful — they made me 'one of the gang.'"

Is she downhearted at the prospect of another long hospital stretch?

LACK OF FUNDS REGRETTED

$22 a Minute for Visit

"My only regret is that we can't spend more," said a Victoria city official when told the city has budgeted

only $1,700 for the Queen's visit Monday.

The city's budget was compared to that of Burnaby on the Lower Mainland, which has budgeted $2,993 for a 30-minute visit the following Friday.

This means that while Burnaby is spending $150 per minute of visit, Victoria has prepared for $22 a minute, and a city official says it will probably be as little as $16 a minute.

Anyone Need Leaves?

Gardeners in need of decomposed leaves for their flower beds can have all they want, compliments of Oak Bay municipality.

Piled on Cedar Hill Cross Road, immediately west of the Victoria Riding Academy and set back from the road a certain distance, the leaves were collected as part of the municipality's leaf-clearing program for boulevard trees.

Some of the leaves have been decomposing for 18 months while others were collected this winter.

IDEALLY, A MAN should get a haircut every four weeks or even oftener. But a gap exists between life as it should be and as we find it. I take my flitch to Alec the barber only when gables have begun to project past my ear-tips.

This isn't because I dislike getting my hair cut. As a matter of fact, life offers few interludes more restful. The scissors snip, the clippers purr, and the customer sits comfortably islanded between past and future.

If your life is reasonably busy, that's not a bad position to occupy for a while. It encourages relaxation, which the dentist's chair does not, and is conducive to free-form thinking.

It can also lead to an amiable exchange of ideas — and here let me dispute a canard that has somehow attached itself to the tonsorial trade.

Barbers are popularly supposed to be chatterboxes, but I've never found them to be so. Alec, to whom I go for shearing, is no exception.

This doesn't mean that he's tongue-tied. He is perfectly willing to oblige the customer who wants to talk. But he also recognizes the virtue of silence, particularly on subjects of no great consequence.

On my earlier visits to his shop, neither of us had much to say. Then one spring day I turned up with a batch of seed-packets jammed in a side pocket. Before Alec had finished liberating my offside ear, we had begun to talk about gardening.

And not any old gardening, either. In a leisureed process of discovery, we narrowed the

Ask The Times

Q. Could you please tell us where Mr. Loffmark is from and what he did before going into politics? Also, what are his qualifications for his present job?—M.L.

A. Health Minister Ralph R. Loffmark, 51, was born in North Vancouver. He earned his B.A. degree in political science and economics from the University of Toronto in 1942 and his law degree from Osgoode Hall, Toronto, in 1949. He is a member of the bar in both Ontario and B.C. He received a master's degree in business administration from the University of Pennsylvania in 1951 and his chartered accountant's degree in B.C. three years later. Prior to being elected M.L.A. for Vancouver-Point Grey in 1963 he was a professor in the faculty of commerce at UBC.

field down to vegetable growing.

Plainly, a spark had been struck, and a topic settled on that was worth pursuing.

A vegetable garden demands time as well as effort. For lack of time, I'd let our plot grass itself in. But I meant to plant another, smaller patch — one that would reintroduce us to gastronomic delights we missed.

New potatoes, for instance. Little carrots thinned from the row, also buttered beet-tops tastier than any spinach.

Alec, his early planting already done, approved between snips. He didn't think the spring was too far advanced, and told me about a year when he had been forced by circumstance to plant much later.

Encouraged — and with the fit of my ancient gardening hat eased by Alec's scissor-work — I got busy with spade and mattock that evening.

We were eating our second-crop radishes, and I was overdue for another haircut, before I got around to Alec's shop again. Nothing much was said while he attended to the preliminary pruning. Then we picked up a conversation that had lain fallow for too many weeks.

How was his vegetable garden coming along?

Not too badly. And mine? Could be worse, I said. Presently we were talking about pesticides, which Alec had never used, and which I'd abandoned. Better, we agreed, to endure garden pests than to sprinkle abominations on a young crop.

Only what about the carrot fly, a marauder that can and will blast a row of promising tops if not discouraged.

Alec got in a few more judicious licks with comb and scissors. Then he came up with a suggestion from his vegetable gardener's lore. Plant marigolds between the carrot rows, or onions as some people preferred.

Next year, I flanked our carrot rows with onions. We never had better carrots. The onions turned out pretty well, too.

I'm overdue for another haircut, and one day soon will wait my turn for a session in Alec's chair.

He will set to work with calm efficiency... a man who has found his heft and balance in a world less orderly than a vegetable gardener creates for himself. Maybe this time we'll get around to the cultivation of tomatoes.

BUDGET AXE

Saanich Goes Slash-Happy

Saanich council heads into the home stretch tonight in its budget-cutting sessions.

The final mill rate is expected to be set either tonight or Thursday night. (See earlier story Page 33.)

Indications are that 4 mills of the provisional 7.32 mill increase will be cut by the end. So far, just over 3 mills have been cut.

But sewer charges have been increased by $10.65 a year for residents already connected and $3.75 for those yet to be served. This covers new construction and maintenance.

Still to be considered are the police department, law enforcement, welfare, planning, community grants, indoor recreation, debt, waterworks and capital expenditures under recreation and community services, including parks.

The axe has fallen heaviest on road work, where the provisional budget was more than chopped in half, saving about a quarter of a million dollars.

The saving, however, represents more of a deferred expenditure since the roads which were cut will need rebuilding, if not this year then next or the year after.

Although the meetings are open to the public, only one person has attended one meeting, in contrast to an attendance of anywhere from 20 upwards at regular council meetings.

One of the larger increases still to be considered is the police department, where the 1971 provisional budget is up $114,954 over 1970 expenditure of $824,096.

Reason for this increase is the full year's salary for 12 additional men approved in 1970.

The police department has increased in cost by $282,371 between 1967 and 1970, or $387,325 including the 1970 provisional budget — getting on for 75 per cent in five years.

DOESN'T GO FAR ENOUGH

Labor Bill Damned as 'Little'

By DAN TURNER

OTTAWA (CP) — Steve Otto, the government's No. 1 maverick back-bencher, was at it again Tuesday, outdoing all opposition speakers in criticizing Labor Minister Bryce Mackasey's bill to amend the Canada Labor Standards Code.

It wasn't that the member from York East didn't like the provisions of the bill itself, which affects 530,000 workers in companies under federal jurisdiction.

He praised measures that would:

—Increase the federal minimum wage to $1.75 an hour from $1.65;

—Require equal wages for female workers doing work requiring similar skills and effort as their male counterparts;

—Assure female workers of 17 weeks maternity leave;

—Prohibit employers to dismiss workers because their wages had been garnished;

—Make employers give between eight and 16 weeks notice for large-scale layoffs;

—Require two weeks dismissal notice for employees with three months service and two weeks severance pay for those with five years service, escalating to eight weeks for 20 years service.

SAYS IT STOPS SHORT

But he damned the bill for not going far enough. Its provisions were little things, he said, that did not solve the vast problem of labor today.

The government has no labor policy, he said, to deal with strikes, deadheading, and other non-productive practices that characterized the old-fashioned scheme of things.

Labor and management took turns blaming each other as rounds of inflation and unemployment continued, with labor suffering when it went on strike and companies passing on increases gained to the consumer.

His answer, he said, was that when a strike was declared people would continue to work but the profits made by the corporation during the time its workers were without a contract would be taxed 100 per cent.

BUT FIND FAULTS

"No one would suffer, the country would benefit, and the dispute would still be settled through negotiations."

Opposition members generally approved the bill, which was scheduled to continue in second-reading debate today.

But nearly everyone criticized particular points within it.

Robert McCleave (PC—Halifax-East Hants) said the clause that would allow the government to raise the minimum wage by order-in-council rather than coming to Parliament, was fraught with danger.

"This approach may put the government under a great deal of stress at certain times, probably once every four years." The reference, presumably, was to elections.

Jack Horner (PC—Crowfoot) said that the government should realize that "perhaps the time has come that we cannot keep on pushing up the unorganized workers' wages forever."

He suggested that, to prevent inflation, perhaps some action should be taken "on the other side of the pendulum" so a government body or labor court could deal with the wages of organized labor.

SUSPECTS LOOPHOLE

John Skoberg (NDP—Moose Jaw) thought there might be a loophole in the section that would require notice for large layoffs.

The legislation requires notice only when 50 or more employees are laid off, he said, which would apparently allow employers to spread their layoffs over a longer period.

David Orlikow (NDP—Winnipeg North) called the $1.75 minimum wage inadequate—it would give an employee $3,600, which he said was below the poverty line established by the Economic Council of Canada.

He also regretted that it did not give the minimum wage to employees in the Yukon and Northwest Territories.

Grace MacInnis (NDP—Vancouver-Kingsway) said the maternity leave provision should be made more flexible. Rather than designating 11 weeks leave prior to birth and six weeks after, it should be left to the woman's discretion.

"There is little reason for most women to sit home and do nothing in the last 11 weeks prior to childbirth," she said.

QUESTIONS OMISSION

Norman Cafik (L—Ontario) said he didn't see why the bill excluded managerial personnel from the requirement for two weeks notice of dismissal or mandatory notice for large layoffs.

Andre Fortin (Creditiste—Lombiniere) called for simplification of the bill.

"This bill is one of those extremely complex bills that cannot be readily understood by employer or employee."

Charles Turner (L—London East) said every year many industries in Canada decide to make changes in their production, and many decide to lock their doors and move to other parts of the world.

"If resistance to change on the part of employees is to be less harmful, as it must be if Canada is to achieve its full potential as an industrial power, trade unions and governments must accept responsibility for the development of policies designed to cushion the impact of change on individuals."

Debate on the bill was adjourned, and there was a brief discussion on the farm products marketing bill, now at report stage—the step before third reading.

Mr. Horner said Agriculture Minister H. A. Olson has invalidated last September's agreement among the provinces on the bill by including cattle within the commodities that would be dealt with by marketing agencies.

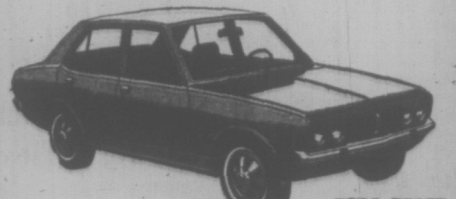

He said the bill now does not have the approval of the provinces, and maintained that such support should be sought before it is debated further.

Nineteen of 30 amendments to be debated at report stage are in Mr. Horner's name.

Opting Out To Await Tax Reform

Times/Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — Provinces may opt out of the cost sharing programs with the federal government but they will have to wait until the proposed new federal tax reform legislation has been implemented. Prime Minister Trudeau said Tuesday.

"We have now taken note of the stand of the Ontario government. We will, after the tax reform has been implemented, sit down with provincial authorities and discuss ways by which they might re-exercise the right of opting out which they did not exercise previously," said the prime minister.

Trudeau was responding to questions from David Lewis, newly elected New Democratic Party national leader who referred to the budget speech of Ontario Treasurer Darcy McKeough.

CRITICAL OF POLICIES

The Ontario treasurer was critical of federal economic policies saying they were detrimental to the interests of Ontario as well as the national interest.

He said it is Ontario's intention to assume complete responsibility for federal-provincial shared cost programs such as health insurance and post secondary education and ask for a tax equivalent such as that given Quebec when it withdrew in 1968.

The offer of opting out of shared cost programs was made in 1964 and remained open until 1969, Quebec was the only province to take that step.

BASE TO CHANGE

"When the government presented its white paper on taxation it withdrew this offer for the simple reason that the whole basis of tax points was to be changed. Therefore the offer under the reformed tax system could not be made in the same way," said the prime minister.

However, he added, the principle of opting out is still acceptable and after the tax reform measures have been implemented Ottawa would be ready to discuss opting out with provinces wanting to exercise that right.

"A special status?" asked Opposition Leader Robert Stanfield.

Trudeau said there will be no "special status" because it will be offered to all provinces as it was in 1964.

Trio Questioned By Police After Bank Job

VANCOUVER (CP)

Police in Vancouver were questioning three men today in a $327,550 holdup at a branch of the Bank of Montreal here Tuesday.

Two of the men were arrested at Haney in the Fraser Valley and a third was arrested in Burnaby, near Vancouver.

No charges have been laid in the bank robbery, the biggest in the city's history.

The robbery at the Bank of Montreal's Vancouver General Hospital branch took place 40 minutes after it opened for the day's business.

Two pistol-wielding bandits rushed into the bank and grabbed the cash from the vault minutes after it was delivered by an armored truck. It was to have been used to cash part of the payroll for the hospital's 4,500 employees.

A third man waited in the stolen getaway car, which had pulled into the parking spot vacated by the armored truck.

ORDER STAFF OUT

As they entered the vault, the gunmen ordered out accountant Gerhard Janitschek and assistant Evelyn Gronlund who were sorting the cash.

"I just stood there," Miss Gronlund said. "I couldn't."

Alliance Levels Patronage Charge

OTTAWA (CP) — New government hiring procedures have resulted in increasing personnel and bureaucratic patronage in the appointment of federal employees, the president of the 140,000-member Public Service Alliance of Canada said Tuesday.

Appearing before the Commons miscellaneous estimates committee, Claude Edwards said some departmental managers "are not hiring on the basis that the best candidate gets the job."

He told the committee of one instance in which a female employee was hired for five months as a casual worker, then selected over more-experienced, better-qualified candidates in a competition for a full-time position.

The manager of the small-town government office, he said, had advertised the competition for only one day and had personally prepared the competition test.

"If you'll excuse me, I think there's something fishy in that," Edwards told committee members.

Edwards said the incident is one of several the alliance has brought to the attention of the Public Service Commission, charged with ensuring that merit is the sole basis on which federal employees are hired and promoted.

He said abuses appear to have crept into the hiring system since the commission

'Carpet of Bodies' Laid by Protesters

WASHINGTON (AP) — Police arrested about 200 anti-war activists today after they blocked the main entrance of the U.S. Selective Service System's headquarters building.

The youths, protesting at the building for the second straight day, formed what they called "a carpet of bodies" in front of the main doors.

Employees arriving early were told by the protesters they could enter the building but only if they walked over the demonstrators, lying face down as symbols of those killed in the Vietnam war.

The demonstrations, organized by the People's Coalition for Peace and Justice, are part of a spring campaign to persuade Congress and the Nixon administration to end the war in Vietnam.

Meanwhile the heads of 27 religious bodies with a membership of more than 86 million Americans Tuesday issued an unprecedented "call to repentance and renewal" over the war in Indochina.

Catholic, Protestant, Jewish and Orthodox leaders asked that bells be tolled across the U.S. from noon to 1 p.m. Saturday in "mourning for those who have already died in Southeast Asia and our sorrow that the killing continues."

The call was described as "totally unprecedented in the history of religion in this country" by the Rev. Dr. William Wilson Manross, church historian on the faculty of the Philadelphia divinity school.

FLIGHTS SHOW

Slicks Dispersed

Reconnaissance flights by the U.S. Coast Guard this morning failed to locate any sizeable slicks remaining from a giant oil spill at Anacortes Monday.

The amount of oil involved — reported as 5,000 gallons Tuesday — has been radically amended to 5,500 barrels, about 233,000 gallons. No official could account for the erroneous first report beyond suggesting there was a "misunderstanding" over the terms barrels and gallons.

The oil flowed into Anacortes harbor from an open valve at the bottom of a barge which was being loaded at the Texaco refinery there.

The U.S. Coast Guard was continuing surveillance flights today but this morning reported that the big oil patches seen Tuesday evening were gone.

NO PROBLEMS

"We saw no measurable slicks," said CG spokesman George Bukota from Anacortes. "There were some streamers of oil but there appeared to be no problem with birds."

For the past two days, environmentalists have expressed concern about the huge flocks of sea birds currently migrating up the coast. Official count this morning has 34 birds dead from the oil and 99 being treated.

Lieut. Tom Barrett, Coast Guard spokesman in Seattle, said he thought it unlikely any concentration of the oil would reach the southern tip of Vancouver Island.

It was conceivable, he said, small patches might eventually reach that far. Meanwhile, one patch of oil was reported to have reached the vicinity of Friday Harbor, on the east side of San Juan Island and about 15 miles east of Victoria.

EFFECT UNKNOWN

The oil is diesel number 2, a light oil which dissipates readily. But its toxic effect is not well known.

R. H. Kussat, a pollution control biologist with the federal department of fisheries, said from Vancouver today research on diesel oil toxicity is under way but just how damaging it can be isn't really known.

Bio assays have shown that the lethal concentration for fish begins at about 300 parts per million. With some pesticides in water, lethal concentrations can be as low as four parts per million.

India, Pakistan Backing Down As Talks Resume to End Crisis

NEW DELHI (Reuters) — India and Pakistan appeared today to be drawing away from the brink of a diplomatic showdown over the East Pakistan crisis.

Officials of both countries conferred at length here Tuesday on ways of solving the impasse over the repatriation of their diplomats from Calcutta and Dacca which has been a major factor in the growing tension between them.

India accused Pakistan of holding its diplomats in Dacca

under virtual house arrest although it was not clear how the government had received information from the East Pakistan capital.

In Calcutta, West Pakistani diplomats were kept under what was called "police vigilance." The Dacca and Calcutta missions were closed Monday after East Pakistani diplomats defected to the breakaway republic of Bangladesh and a New Pakistani deputy high commissioner ran into angry demonstrations.

The dangers arising from the war of words and refusal of either side to allow the other's diplomats to leave except on the basis of reciprocity still exists.

But there now seems to be a realization that some solution has to be found, observers said.

It is believed that India may have suggested that the diplomats and their families be brought out by road or by an airline of a third country rather than through Karachi as Pakistan has insisted so far.

Pakistan is expected to reply to the Indian proposals within the next 24 hours or so.

Meanwhile, the Press Trust of India news agency reported today that at least 25 persons were killed and several injured when Pakistani troops fired on an Indian border enclave adjoining East Pakistan.

PTI also said five persons were killed and three were injured Tuesday when Pakistani soldiers crossed the border in the village of Boyra some 40 miles north of Calcutta.

Park Margin Trimmed

SEOUL (AP) — President Chung Hee Park of South Korea won a third term by a big margin Tuesday, but not as big as the last time.

With 73 per cent of the estimated 12.2 million votes in the election tabulated, Park had 4.8 million votes to 3.9 million for National Assemblyman Kim Dae-jung of the New Democratic party.

Park's Democratic Republican party said it was clear the president had been elected to a third four-year

STUDENTS, FACULTY CRITICAL

Uvic Probe Cuts No Ice

The University of Victoria announced Tuesday the appointment of an external tribunal to inquire into the cases of three teachers involved in a promotion and tenure dispute, but students and faculty were generally critical of the move.

A Tuesday night news release from the Uvic administration revealed that Chief Justice J. G. Wilson of the Supreme Court of British Columbia has nominated three men to examine the cases of Dr. William Goede, Dr. Tikam Jain and Toby Graff.

NO NAMES

Wilson did not release the names of the nominees because they had not yet officially accepted their appointments.

The appointment of the tribunal, which is similar to one recommended by the Canadian Association of University Teachers, coincided with release by president Bruce J. Partridge of a rebuttal to an earlier CAUT report which was harshly critical of him and the board of governors.

The CAUT executive recommended censure of Uvic's president and board if an external tribunal were not appointed to examine the three cases.

But the tribunal requested by Partridge differs substantially from that called for by the CAUT.

The Uvic release states emphatically that the findings of the tribunal will not be binding upon the university, while the CAUT proposal called for a body composed of representatives from both sides of the dispute sitting with an independent chairman and binding powers.

NO DEADLINE

Students and faculty were critical of the fact that no deadline had been set for the tribunal's inquiry, that it would not be binding, and that

Hecklers Enliven Montreal Hearing

MONTREAL (CP) — Over a constant background of heckling, English-Canadian speakers kept hammering at the theme of their rights in Quebec before the parliamentary committee on the constitution Tuesday night.

A contingent of about 30 young hecklers at the back of a hall in the west-end district of Notre-Dame-de-Grace enlivened the proceedings with noisy but generally good-humored comments. About 350 persons attended.

Of 10 formal briefs read to the committee, nine were from English-Canadians and most called for extension of minority language and education rights to the other provinces to match the rights the English-speaking minority enjoys in Quebec.

Some were clearly apprehensive about the future of these minority rights in Quebec.

Most of the 17 speakers from the floor were French-Canadians and a majority expressed the opinion that the federal system is worn out and Quebec should secede from Canada.

A young French-Canadian got a thorough going-over by the hecklers when he said he was proud of being a Canadian and said federalism was the best guarantee of democracy.

PTA Head Urges New Image

NEW WESTMINSTER (CP) — The president of the Educational Research Institute of British Columbia said Tuesday the B.C. Parent-Teacher Association must change its aims and image to fill a useful role in education.

James Carter told the association's 49th annual convention the PTA is wrong in opposing current trends toward wider school-community involvement groups.

Mr. Carter, principal of Sentinel Secondary school in West Vancouver and one of the authors of the B.C. Teachers' Federation's Mackenzie Report on the future of education, told the delegates they had three courses open to them.

They could not continue to go on without change, he said. The alternatives facing them were to dissolve, merge with other community groups or fight for more power.

"A fourth alternative, to continue your operation in the old style, is just not worth discussing," he said.

Mr. Carter said a move toward wider community involvement in schools, proposed in Vancouver and some other areas, which has been officially opposed by the PTA, is essentially good.

This sets up committees, representatives of many community groups and interests, in each school area, he said. "If anything, you should be welcoming the proposal and trying to find ways and means of encouraging the development of these committees."

Mr. Carter warned that too much local parent control of a school could bring disadvantages of local jealousies, vigilante groups and too much defensiveness.

AUBURN, Calif. (UPI) —

After a 47-mile chase at speeds reaching 120 miles an hour — half of it the wrong way down Interstate 80 — the California highway patrol Tuesday stopped a car driven by a woman who said, "No man can handle a car like I can." Several planes will be used in the effort and 15 parachute riggers will keep 15 jump suits rigged at all times.

$25 Fine for Legislative Shouting

A 22-year-old Victoria man was fined $25 in court Tuesday for his part in the noisy demonstration at the opening of the legislature Jan. 21.

Judge E. F. N. Robinson imposed the fine after finding Dennis Gordon Tottenham, 426 Niagara, guilty of causing a disturbance by shouting.

Robinson said he would have no hesitation in dealing severely with the accused if "I had felt for a moment that he was the source of the trouble at the legislature."

The judge noted there was considerable confusion "as to who was who" at the demonstration.

The lenient sentence was due to this confusion and the list of "very admirable" qualities of Tottenham, including work for Cool-Aid, a drop-in centre, and the Low Income Group.

Aussie Rugby XV Schedules Visit

The Australians will tour France in October and November and will play eight games, including two tests.

Barrett Raps Welfare Care

The provincial government's plan to build 450 intermediate care beds for elderly welfare recipients was described today by Opposition Leader Dave Barrett as "a real attack" on middle-income groups.

Barrett also said the three 150-bed centres for the care of elderly persons will be too large and will lock the government into an inflexible, centralized program which makes neither economic nor medical sense.

The NDP leader took a similar viewpoint to Scott Wallace (SC — Oak Bay) in regretting that the government's entry into the intermediate care field was limited to welfare and low-income groups.

In a telephone interview, Barrett said this amounted to "a real attack on those from the middle income groups who have been lucky enough to put aside a few dollars only to be faced with the continuous burden of care" in their old age.

Wallace said such a person would have to have his savings depleted before becoming eligible for admission to such a hospital. He said the criteria for admission should be on medical grounds only, with all persons eligible. He also doubted whether the government should run such hospitals. Non-profit organizations would be preferable, he said.

Barrett described the idea of large centralized institutions for the poor as having a flavor reminiscent of the Charles Dickens era of 19th century England.

The government's move

would also ensure that private hospitals like Sandringham Hospital in Victoria would continue in their positions of "making money out of illness" by shifting some of the burden of care to the government," Barrett said.

Such hospitals are currently required to reserve up to one-third of their beds for welfare recipients.

Barrett said it is "completely absurd" to think that large centralized units can reduce costs when the same services can be provided in a network of small, community-based homes tied in with services available through larger hospitals.

"The most important aspect is to give people an opportunity to stay close to their home community," Barrett said.

The government said its hospitals will care for persons whose needs can't be met in a residential boarding home but who do not require 24-hour care.

Wallace said the government should be praised for apparently being prepared to finance a program for the elderly on its own without federal cost-sharing but he described the plans as timid.

He was also critical of the lack of communication between government and government MLAs, saying the first he heard of the announcement was on a radio station.

One of the 150-bed units will be built on the grounds of Glendale Hospital for the physically and mentally disabled on Markham Road in Saanich. The other two will be at Vancouver and Kamloops.

A spokesman for the B.C. Private Hospitals' Association said the government won't be able to operate its units at a cost of $9.25 per day per patient, which is what the government currently pays the hospitals for welfare cases.

He said the public has a right to know how much the government proposes to spend on the program.

Rest home owners are planning a meeting tonight to consider making a strong statement on the government's failure to meet their welfare recipients, a requests for higher payments spokesman said.

Teamsters' Dispute Decision Delayed

VANCOUVER (CP) — Mr. Justice McIntyre of the British Columbia Supreme Court Tuesday reserved decision on an application by the Teamsters Union that the court quash a ruling of the B.C. Mediation Commission in a dispute between the union and three cement and concrete companies in the Vancouver area.

Mr. Justice McIntyre gave no indication when a decision could be expected.

The mediation commission's ruling, handed down in September, 1970, was the first involving a private industry since enactment of the B.C. Mediation Act in 1968.

It was a two-year agreement, giving about 900 employees of La Farge Concrete, Ocean-Cement and Metro Concrete a 75-cent-an-hour increase retroactive to Jan. 1, 1970.

One month later, former Labor Minister Leslie Peterson ordered a re-examination of the decision after the teamsters alleged the commission was not impartial. In November, the commission handed down a new decision which did not change the original on major issues.

Ed Lawson, Teamsters Canadian director, said Tuesday Mr. Peterson had ordered a second re-examination of the decision.

"We were before the commission Monday and we are now awaiting their decision," he said.

Appearing before Mr. Justice McIntyre, the Teamsters alleged the commission had helped the three companies with their case at the first rehearing.

'TAXATION AD INCREDIBLE' —BARRETT

Opposition Leader Dave Barrett today described as "incredible" a provincial government newspaper advertisement telling B.C. citizens that they have the lowest income taxes in Western Canada.

"I wonder if this is the replacement for liquor advertising?" Barrett said, referring to the total ban on liquor advertising effective Sept. 1.

"It has the overtones of a wild weekend of self-induced political intoxication," Barrett said.

"The diagnosis and treatment is an early retirement from access to the public treasury for the minister of finance (Premier Bennett)," he added.

The advertisement, which appeared in newspapers today, compares B.C. income taxes with those of other western provinces and says "our total services and grants are the best in Canada."

Indians Told to Run Mayoralty Candidate

BURNS LAKE, B.C. (CP) — Mayor John Baker said Monday night Indians living within the Burns Lake municipality should have a representative on municipal council and he suggested Indian people think about running a mayoralty candidate in the next election.

Mr. Baker met with a delegation from the community's two reserves concerning a recent move by the municipality to cut off water and sewer service to the reserves.

Mr. Baker said the municipality has no quarrel with the Indian people but had to do something drastic to get Ottawa and Victoria to act on a request for per-capita grants for native people living within the municipality.

"We have been accused of playing politics," he said, "and that may be right. But we feel we are entitled to that grant. You are members of this community and the two senior governments are treating you as second-class citizens by ignoring that."

Band Chief Margaret Patrick said the mayor talks of equality but failed to notify the Indians before the municipality acted to cut off water and sewer service.

Burns Lake is about 130 miles west of Prince George, in the B.C. interior.

'Mixed Up, Brainwashed... What Are We Missing?'

KAMLOOPS, B.C. (CP) — "I know I'm a mixed up Indian. I know I've been a little brainwashed. I've been in the education system for 16 years. What we want is some constructive criticism, what are we missing out on?"

This was the question asked by Ayongnan, a University of Calgary graduate, and the topic of the second day of the national conference on Indian culture Tuesday.

The session concentrated on Indian religions and the role they play in Indian culture.

Many of the 50 delegates expressed views that religion is a prime moving force behind the Indian culture and brought forward two resolutions designed to maintain it.

One of them called for government support of efforts to tape record and photograph ancient Indian religious ceremonies for posterity.

DRIFTING OFF

"Many of our young people are drifting off into a no-man's land," said Ernest Tootis, a teacher at the Indian Culture College at the University of Saskatchewan.

"They are caught between two cultures, the white man's and the Indian's."

Conference chairman Ken Goodwill pointed out that the Indian religion is not something "written in a book 2,000 years ago." He said it was a religion that was a part of the Indian way of life and helped him in his daily struggle.

The other resolution dealt with future negotiations with the federal government and suggested that a non-partisan committee of Indians be established by the conference to bargain for and co-ordinate federal funds earmarked for reviving Indian culture.

Delegates also discussed the prospect of having Indian artifacts presently held by the national museum returned to native groups and freedom of choice for native youth attending mission schools in the study of Christian or Indian religions.

Campbell Confirms Smythe Will Appeal

TORONTO (CP) — Clarence Campbell, National Hockey League president, confirmed Monday that Stafford Smythe, president of Toronto Maple Leafs, will appeal a $5,000 fine assessed his club following a playoff donnybrook at New York April 8.

But there was some question about whether the Rangers will appeal a similar club fine handed down by the NHL president despite New York president William Jennings' original intent to do so.

Campbell said in a telephone interview from Chicago, where he will view tonight's fifth game of the Stanley Cup semi-final between New York and Chicago Black Hawks, that "Toronto has appealed; Rangers have not."

He said that both clubs had 10 days from the April 13 assessment of the fines to file an appeal.

Jennings, reached by telephone Monday at his New York office, said he had an understanding with Campbell and the board of governors chairman, William Wirtz of Chicago, that the appeal date would be extended.

Campbell denied an extension had been granted, adding: "I don't want to make any public comment on this. Another controversy is the last thing I want."

He said the fines will be discussed at the next annual meeting, early in June in Montreal.

The $5,000 fines meted out against each club represent the maximum authorized by league governors in 1968 and the total fines of $16,950 was a league record.

West Coast Derby Hope Wins Trial

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Vegas Vic, one of the hopes of the West Coast, for a victory in the Kentucky Derby, scored a narrow victory Tuesday in the Derby Trial Stakes, the last tune-up for Saturday's Derby.

Vegas Vic overtook Jr.'s Arrowhead in the final 1-16th mile and won by a length with On The Money third, 1½ lengths behind Jr.'s Arrowhead.

Vegas Vic, with jockey Howard Grant in the saddle, was held only a few lengths off the pace for the first half of the one-mile race and began his move as the field of seven passed the quarter pole at the head of the stretch.

The first two finishers seem likely Derby starters.

Longboat Award

NANAIMO (CP) — Bill Seward, 50, of the Nanaimo Indian Band is British Columbia's winner of the Ton Longboat medal, awarded annually in each province by the Athletic Union of Canada.

Pancake Festival Planned

A Venturer group representing the North Saanich Peninsula will hold a pancake festival at the Saanichton fair grounds on May 15.

Sponsored by the Ladies Auxiliary of the 3rd South Tsimlip Venturers, the event will feature exhibits of camping equipment and Scout craft.

Six bands will participate in the festival — Victoria Junior Police Band, Third Time Around AXIL, Country Travellers, Northern Lites, Baywolf and Morning Star.

Mayors Archie Galbraith of Central Saanich, James Cumming of North Saanich and Stanley Dear of Saanich will attend the opening.

The festival will run from 9 a.m. to 8 p.m. and wind up with a dance at Sansha Hall, starting at nine.

Inner Harbor Chip Storage Halted by CP

Canadian Pacific has stopped the use of its Inner Harbor wharves for mooring wood chip barges, Mayor Courtney Haddock said today.

The mooring arrangement with Island Tug and Barge ended April 1, according to a letter from Harry Tyson, CP manager of marine services.

Meanwhile, CP's plans for converting the docks to other uses appeared to be nearing completion. Haddock met with officials of CP's Marathon Realty for 30 minutes today.

It was learned a plan for the CP wharves includes a restaurant with revolving lounge and eight boutiques, a marina for about 50 small boats, and the Undersea Gardens repositioned between the inner and outer wharves.

Answering CP's letter regarding the end of the chip barge mooring, Haddock said the move was "good news indeed to the citizens of Victoria, some of whom have made complaints to me about this unsightliness."
